By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DECORATION DAY was one of beautiful sunshine throughout the greater part of the country. Roads and highways everywhere were crowded, every restless American going from some place to some other place. Not many take old Voltaire's advice Cultivons nos jardins. "Let us cultivate our gardens."

For another year the dead will rest in their graves as the flowers wither, waiting for next Decoration Day. By the millions they are forgotten, until the day comes around again. There are faithful hearts that never forget. On Decoration Day, and on the 364 other days of the year, their thoughts are close to some grave.

A GENERAL STRIKE is threatened in Toledo; sixty-eight unions have voted for it. It is suggested by representatives of the electrical workers that it may be necessary "to put a large part of Ohio in darkness, cutting off the light."

Mr. Myers, representing the electrical workers, is good enough to say that hospitals will be supplied with current for lighting and refrigeration, and that city water plants will be kept in operation after his men go out. When he was asked what would happen if electrical companies tried to supply the city with light by bringing power from other cities, he replied:

"Well, when you have a strike, you have war."

INTELLIGENT LABOR leaders realize the truth of that important statement. When you have a strike that shuts off light from the homes of the people, as a preliminary, one that might shut off their water supply later, you have a real WAR. And it is not war against a mere group of employers. It is war against the public, against all the people.

Intelligent labor will understand that a war of that kind, CIVIL war must necessarily result disastrously for those that would undertake to shut off people's necessities. Workmen should not be underpaid by big corporations, or private employers. The right to strike and demand better conditions is undoubted, unless the strike becomes war against the people, and their safety.

In that case, the people will interfere, because they must.

A GREAT FUNERAL is preparing in Japan for the national hero, Admiral Marquis Heihachiro Togo. Japan will give him a funeral never to be forgotten, he will be made a saint, according to the beliefs of the Shinto faith. As long as Japan exists, he will be remembered and honored as the first Japanese commander that ever defeated a great western power, in this case, Russia.

Togo's great victory, sinking the two Russian fleets, will be celebrated every year in Japan, as it has been yearly for the last twenty-nine years. It is to be hoped, for the sake of world peace and the welfare of Japan, that the Japanese will realize that Stalin's Russia is not the Russia of the feeble czar. The Russia that the Allies could not conquer, when the Soviet government had barely started, Japan could not conquer today. Japan's high command should remember the warning of the German military expert that "penetrating Russia is like penetrating a feather bed—the deeper you go, the more you smother."

IF YOU WERE using rabbits and guinea pigs in a war against hawks and eagles, how many guinea pigs and rabbits would you need?

In the future wars old-fashioned walking soldiers, their little guns and little swords, will be as useless against airplanes with bombs and poison gas as rabbits would be against eagles. Our Secretary of War, Mr. Dern, and Mr. Newton D. Baker, who was Secretary of War under President Wilson, tells Congress that our marching army is not big enough, that we "need" 179,000 men.

WHAT DO Messrs. Dern and Baker think those hundred and seventy-nine thousand could do against five thousand airplanes, flying over our cities, with explosive and poison gas bombs, never touching the ground to let soldiers get at them, flying back to their mother ships on the ocean, or flying, to be interned, on Canadian or Mexican soil?

LET US have marching soldier guinea pigs and rabbits, by all means, if they are necessary to the comfort of men living in the last century. But let us not be sufficiently idiotic to depend on them for real work in war. They can be useful against Communists, Anarchists, Socialists, or anybody else foolish enough to believe that our American system of government could be improved. THAT may have something to do with our desire to have a good many of them.

PERHAPS YOU read here some days ago about Jackson Barnett, ninety-two-year-old Oklahoma Indian with the fine house on Wilshire boulevard in Los Angeles. The old Oklahoma chief will stand no more at the edge of the sidewalk, innocently waving his arms, imagining that he directs traffic. He died on Tuesday and will be buried in a fine grave purchased with part of the four millions that he got for oil on the land given him by the government.

Wires Self With 50 Sticks of Dynamite, Defies Police

ALAMEDA, Cal., May 31.—(AP.)—Highly nervous and suffering from hunger and lack of sleep, Frank Bennett today sat in his automobile, believed to contain dynamite and nitroglycerine, as police sought to talk him out of his mad scheme to blow himself to bits.

The officers feared Bennett, weary from a sleepless night, would relax his grip on a detonation switch, believed to be wired to 48 sticks of dynamite and a gallon of nitroglycerine.

REJECTS PLEADINGS

"This is the best means of suicide," Bennett told Inspector Al Sturzinger and Policeman George Risso, as they talked with him as he sat in his automobile on Marshlands some distance from buildings.

Bennett, wide awake after sitting in the machine all night without food or water, received the officers graciously, but refused to be talked out of his scheme. Police quoted him as saying:

"I have been planning suicide for three years. I considered several means and some time ago got a gun to shoot myself, but I was arrested for carrying it and placed on probation.

"I was laid off as a mechanic three years ago and have been

2 BANKS HERE TO BE LICENSED

Two of the three banks in the Pittsburgh district still operating on a restricted basis will be licensed to conduct regular banking business, it was revealed today in Philadelphia by Dr. William D. Gordon, State Secretary of Banking, in announcing an extension until September 1 of the effective period of the Sordoni Closed Bank act.

The banks mentioned by Dr. Gordon as being ready for unrestricted business are the Ohio Valley Bank of Pittsburgh and the Rankin bank.

Of the other bank—the Braddock Trust Company, Dr. Gordon said its future is dependent "either upon the commitments obtainable from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the ability of the parties at interest to obtain the necessary depositor and shareholder approval of the reorginaziation plans."

2 Die, 3rd Hurt In Plane Crash

MANSFIELD, O., May 31.—(AP.)—Two men were killed and a third critically injured last night when their airplane fell at the municipal airport here.

Bell Warns Sleuths to Get Busy

Rankled by failure of city detectives to combat crime effectively, Pittsburgh's newly-appointed safety director, A. Marshall Bell, is reported to have demanded a showdown from the dective bureau today.

Visiting Detective Inspector Louis Leff in his office, Director Bell is said to have delivered an ultimatum that unless the sleuths made a better showing in the next few weeks drastic action would be taken to increase the efficiency of the force.

Bell was closeted with Leff behind closed doors for 45 minutes.

NO ARRESTS MADE

In the past two weeks a number of persons have been beaten in the Hill and East End districts in attempted robberies, police reports show, but no arrests have been made, a checkup by Bell was said to have disclosed.

The detective bureau docket reveals only 56 arrests for May for the entire 35 detectives. For six days no arrests were entered, said to be almost without precedent.

Records also show that during May, 349 complaints were received by the bureau of various crimes, including robberies, stick-ups and entering buildings.

DETAILED REPORTS

In the interests of efficiency a new plan was put into effect a week ago whereby detailed daily reports of activities must be made out by the detectives.

In the McNair administration shapeup of the detective bureau some of the recognized experts were dropped. These included Walter Monaghan, a crack homicide investigator who was immediately snapped up by District Attorney A. T. Park for his county detective force, and Maurice Kennelly, adept at tracing robbery suspects through pawnshops.

CHILDREN WIN 'WAR' AT FAIR

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP.)—An army of school children estimated at 800,000 stormed the gates of the Century of Progress Exposition today and fair officials threw all entrances open to prevent a serious stampede after 25 were injured, most having fainted in the press.

General admission to the grounds and at all concessions was five cents for school children. Five hundred extra city police were called to handle the crowd.

The children, who formed block long lines, six abreast, at every gate, held the exposition grounds in state of seige. No deliveries could be made, no visitors could leave.

An hour after opening time, with thousands piling through the gates as fast as the turnstiles would let them, it became apparent that this manner of admission would be too slow, and threatened a jam in which hundreds might be hurt.

Herron Takes Oath As County Viewer

Former Mayor John S. Herron today was sworn in as a member of the county's Board of Viewers by Judge Harry H. Rowand. Herron's salary will be $6,500 yearly. He was elected to the board by the Common Pleas Court bench last week.

COYNE AIDES DENY VOTE PLOT

Character Witnesses Parade to Stand For Senator

They called the roll of Coyne workers in Federal Court today.

One after another the Senator's lieutenants and plain privates marched to the witness stand to bolster the story told yesterday by the political boss who is standing trial with six other Republicans on charges of conspiring to steal the 1932 general election.

The Senator, satisgfied that he himself had been a good witness in hi hour in the chair, sat back and tried to appear interested. Next to him, his Strip leader, Pat O'Malley, a co-defendant, stretched and attempted to doze away a few minutes.

WORKERS ON HAND

The courtroom took on the appearance of Republican campaign headquarters, with a battalion of Coyne workers on hand to testify.

They all told substantially the same story—that they were in headquarters in the William Penn Hotel (Room 899-E) on election night and saw no signs of a secret meeting at which government prosecutors contend the vote-stealing conspiracy was directed by Corne.

First the Senator himself returned to the stand briefly for cross-examination. Prosecutor James I. Marsh was curious as to the route Coyne drove from the William Penn Hotel to his farm near Allison Park on the morning after election. The Senator assured him he had taken the shortest route, even if it did entail bumping into a group of his political workers gathered in a curbstone session at Penn and Main streets.

BUTLER'S DENIAL

Walter Butler, a defendant, took the stand late this afternoon and denied that he had approached Charles McCoy, election judge in the Fourth Ward, with a proposition to steal votes for Senator Coyne and Congressman Muldowney.

Then the parade started. Among those who did their bit for their leader were Roy T. Clunk, assistant district attorney; John Kane, Republican chairman of the Eighth Ward and appraiser in the State's Inheritance Tax office; James Laffey, of the Fourteenth Ward; Terry McDermott, of Munhall; John Maloney, worker at headquarters; Jess Boyle, organization publicity man; Thomas Flaherty, who was steward at the city hospital at Mayview in 1932; Squire John Kenna, and Frank Mihm, of the Eighth Ward.

Following the parade of the workers, the defense, as far as Coyne was concerned, was all but through, with the calling of numerous character witnesses. One of them was Charles A. Watters, State Treasurer.

CHARACTER WITNESSES

James Crawford, of Bakerstown, who said he lived in the neighborhood of Coyne's farm, was the first character witness called. He said:

"As fer me, I never heard anything again him."

UNION CHIEF, JOHNSON CONFER

'Rank and File' Leader Calls NRA Chief 'Big Windbag'

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—International officers of the steel workers' union today repudiated statements of the so-called Rank and File Committee of the organization and said after a conference with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, they were promised the revised steel code would be reopened if their demands were considered worth while by the administrator.

Edward W. Miller, of Pittsburgh, international vice president of the union, said the group, headed by Earl J. Forbeck, president of the Pittsburgh district, had no authority to speak for the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. Miller said:

"The Amalgamated is not responsible for anything they may say."

RANK AND FILE HIT

He asserted the Rank and File Committee had no right to call a national convention of the union and indicated he thought it unlikely such a convention would be called next week, as Forbeck said would be done.

While waiting for a conference with Senator Wagner, head of the National Labor Board, this morning, Forbeck also told newsmen the only way for the union to show its strength and bring President Roosevelt's intervention was to strike. He also called Johnson a "bag of wind."

Questioned regarding the meeting between Gen. Johnson,

BRITISH SUBMIT NEW DEBT PLAN

LONDON, May 31.—(AP.)—The British government's view on war debts and its proposals to avoid being classed a defaulter when an installment payment is due next year, have been dispatched to Washington, it is understood here.

The British statement is either in the hands of the State Department at Washington, or is in the safekeeping of Sir Donald Lindsay, British ambassador, pending the return of President Roosevelt to the capital, it was said in governmental quarters.

Arthur Evans, Conservative leader, pressed Chancellor Chamberlain on this point. The chancellor said:

"I hope to be able to make a statement shortly."

Gov. Rolph Losing In Fight for Life

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 31.—(AP.)—California's stricken Governor, James Rolph, Jr., today clung to the spark of life which physicians said may flicker out at any moment.

The 64-year-old executive was reported "about the same" at his Santa Clara County ranch retreat. Physicians expressed belief that the Governor may meet defeat in his gallant fight.

Pirates End Tour In Chicago Today

Gen. Johnson Fit, Army Doctors Find

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson, the Blue Eagle Chief, has the word of Walter Reed Hospital after 24 hours in that institution that he is physically fit.

Miss Frances Robinson, his secretary, said the NRA's administrator's ailments were of an extremely minor nature and that he was "feeling fine."

Roosevelt Views Parade of Fleet As Big Guns Boom

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—The United States fleet, a gaunt gray armada of 96 ships and 40,000 men, paraded proudly before President Roosevelt today in one of the greatest pageants of American naval history.

Fog, hanging low in the harbor since early morning, lifted shortly after noon.

Sailing in from Southern waters, the fleet kept the rendezvous with its Commander-in-Chief at sea, two miles off Ambrose Lightship, near the harbor entrance.

It was a three-fold spectacle—the ships in review, the planes in an aerial demonstration and the final procession of the vessels to berths about Manhattan.

The early morning fog was dispelled by a warm midday sun and the column of ships, 12 miles long, came up over the horizon majestically on the sparkling sea.

BATTLE FLAGS FLYING

With battle flags flying and guns thundering the presidential salute, the vessels passed within 500 yards of the anchored reviewing ship, the heavy cruiser Indianapolis on which stood President Roosevelt.

Secretary Swanson, Admiral William H. Standley, Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, under whom the President served when Daniels was Secretary of the Navy; members of the cabinet and many guests were with Mr. Roosevelt.

Dillinger Aping Wimpy – Eats Hamburgers

CHICAGO, May 31.—(INS.)—Good old "John Dillinger," the illusive Indiana wood carver, appeared in Niles Center today eating hamburgers and buying soda pop for a half dozen patrons, according to a report to police.

And "John Dillinger" didn't promise to pay next Tuesday for the hamburgers, but produced a big roll of bills and paid spot cash.

Wilbur Werner, who was in the hamburger stand, reported Dillinger's presence in Niles Center to police. He was positive the hamburger buyer was the outlaw.

RECALL TROOPS FROM TOLEDO

TOLEDO, O., May 31.—(AP.)—Partial evacuation of troops called here a week ago during the rioting in the Electric Auto-Lite strike was ordered today.

Gov. George White in Columbus ordered Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson to withdraw one-third of the troops sent here a week ago after rioting in the Auto-Lite srtike.

Gen. Henderson said the evacuation order was made because "order had been restored." First contingents will leave for their home stations late today.

The 600 remaining troops will be stationed in a Toledo armory in event they are needed for further duty.

Previously Sheriff David Krieger after a conference with National Guard officers agreed to removal of all but a "small reserve force," asserting that police and deputy sheriffs can maintain order. He said, however, that a few soldiers should be kept here for "emergency service."

Since Saturday quiet has reigned in the riot zone, where a week ago two persons were killed and more than 200 injured in bloody rioting.

Germany Celebrated World War Sea Fight

BERLIN, May 31.—(AP.)—While America's sea fighting forces steamed in parade before President Roosevelt, Germany turned back today to celebrate the anniversary of the great naval battle of modern times.

Just 18 years ago the mighty British grand fleet and the German grand fleet and the German high seas fleet locked in the Battle of Jutland—their only meeting during the World War. The decision is still disputed.

Pennsy Engineer Kills Self With Gun

A locomotive engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, Gene Barr, 52, killed himself this morning in the basement of his home in Riverview, Armstrong County, Barr, according to the Coroner's report, tied a rope about his neck, mounted a box and fired a shotgun into his body. The body was found by a son, Forrest, 17. Barr was said to have been in ill health.

Father to Fetch Barbara Home With Alexis

LONDON, May 31.—(AP.)—Franklyn L. Hutton has arranged stateroom accommodations for his daughter, Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani, to return to New York with him June 6, but has not provided accommodations for her husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani.

The American millionaire is aboard the S. S. Bremen and is said to have made his arrangements by radio telephone. He is expected to make a quick trip here from Southampton, taking his daughter back with him to reembark on the Bremen for the return voyage.

Princess Barbara, who in the gossip of the West End has been placed in the role of "poor little rich girl," continues to provide material for speculation.

One hour she is reported to have suffered a nervous collapse. The next she is seen lunching happily in some resort.

Referring to rumors that unhappiness has overtaken her marriage, an Evening News columnist observes that she makes no outward show of it, saying:

"It would appear that she has not, as is continually being reported, retired to a London nursing home, as she lunched quite gaily at Quaglinos two days ago. It happened my table was next to hers. Her smiling countenance seemed to refute the story of those tearful letters to her father."

Lindy Reveals Air Mail Views at Secret Parley

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave his private views on what is wrong with the military air service at a recent secret session of the special Army Air Corps investigating committee early this week, the War Department announced today.

Lindbergh's testimony was given behind closed doors at the Army War College and special pains were taken by the committee to prevent disclosure of what the "Lone Eagle" said. Members of the committee were pledged to secrecy.

The committee, headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, is the one on which Lindbergh twice declined to serve because of his objection to the administration's actin in canceling the commercial air mail contracts.

Meanwhile, it was learned a large number of Air Corps officers had written to the committee urging the need for adoption of a three-point program which would include establishment of the military air force under an independent head rather than subject, as at present, to supervision of the War Department general staff.

The other two points call for establishment of a separate promotion list and a separate budget.

COYNE WITNESSES SEEK TO DISPROVE VOTE CHARGES

PLOT TO STEAL VOTES DENIED BY SENATOR

and Secretary of Labor and Industry, declared he had known Coyne 12 years, and said his reputation was good.

Edward Hardie, candy manufacturer and next door neighbor to Coyne for 15 years, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, of West View, Dr. C. A. Duffy, of Darragh street, followed the quick succession testifying to his good character. Former State Senator William A. Rial, of Greensburg, spoke likewise.

Then came the Rev. William E. Howard, Presbyterian retired minister who has lived in the Fourth Ward for 20 years; Father David Hegarty, of St. Agnes Catholic Church, and Andrew Berger, president of the Potter Title and Trust Company.

Waiting to testify were Frank Baldwin, State Auditor General, and Harry Scott, recently nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

TESTIMONY ASSAILED

Later there will be further testimony designed to discredit the story of James P. Bailey, the discharged city assessor, who testified that Pat O'Malley, the Coyne leader in the Strip, had come to him from the Senator with a vote-stealing proposition.

When Coyne left the stand Judge F. P. Schoonmaker adjourned for the day and the Senator's friends crowded about with congratulations.

Yesterday's session—one of the few ever held in Federal Court on a holiday—was devoted almost entirely to Coyne's defense, although the names of the other six defendants accused in the conspiracy were mentioned frequently.

He seated himself comfortably in the witness chair, looked up at the ceiling and, in a calm, conversational tone answered the questions put by his attorney, Oliver K. Eaton.

BRINGS LAUGH

Not once did he seem at a loss for words. Once he drew a laugh from everybody in the courtroom, including staid Judge Schoonmaker, when he was asked whether Bailey, the government's star witness, was a friend of his. The Senator rolled his head around towards the jury, shifted in his chair, lifted his eyelids and murmured:

"Evidently not."

The Senator denied sending Pat O'Malley to Bailey on election night with a plan to stem the Democratic landslide by stealing straight Democratic votes.

He denied the government's interpretation of a remark he made to Robert K. Boyer, the Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioner who was the star witness against the convicted Dr. Joseph G. Steedle.

He denied ever being in Room 897 of the William Penn Hotel on election night, where government witnesses had indicated they talked with him.

DENIES HATCHING PLOT

And, of course, he denied being the presiding genius of a plot hatched in the hotel on election night to go out and steal the election for Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, his candidate.

In fact, he added that he had never heard of such a plot.

Prosecutors Louis E. Graham and James I. Marsh contend that a curbstone meeting of Coyne lieutenants at 4 o'clock on the morning after election at Penn and Main streets represented the culmination of the conspiracy.

Coyne explained his presence there by testifying that he was merely en route to his farm near Allison Park and, seeing some friends on the corner, stopped for a few minutes to talk election.

As to his conversation with Boyer, who was a defeated candidate for the Legislature in that election, Coyne admitted talking with him in the hotel on election night. He indicated that he did tell Boyer to look after his own interests—a remark, made after the polls were closed, which Judge Schoonmaker has held might indicate a sinister motive.

SENATOR EXPLAINS

Here's how the Senator explained it:

"He (Boyer) asked me how things were and I told him all right. And he asked me if there were any local returns and I said no. And he said to me, 'My God, I think I'm losing, how am I going to get the returns?' And I told him the only way was to go out in his district and try and get them."

Eaton asked:

"Did you say to him to look after his own interests?"

Coyne replied:

"Well, only in the tone that I just explained. He was asking me about returns and I told him what to do and he said to me, 'Well, I better go and get them.' And I said to him, 'Good night.'"

Coyne emphasized the farewell.

The contention of the government that Coyne and a half-dozen lieutenants spent considerable time in Room 897 in private meeting was flatly denied by Coyne. The number of the room was indicated in the testimony of Charles W. McGinnis and Charles G. Lane, Jr., who were active in the Republican campaign trying to win back the soldier vote for President Hoover.

Coyne flatly denied being in the room. He made no bones about having been several times in an adjoining room, 899-E, which was one of the Republican campaign rooms, registered under the assumed name of George Smith. C. W. McBride, campaign treasurer, and Edward Ruch, assistant manager of the hotel, testified the alias was used to insure a degree of privacy.

AT POLLS TO VOTE

The Senator denied being in the Fifteenth Ward at any time on election day and said he was at the polling place in the Fourth Ward only to vote. This denial was intended to offset another Bailey charge. Bailey had quoted O'Malley as saying:

"Mullen said he'd tie up the vote in the Fourth District (of the Tenth Ward) and Coyne's in the Fourth and Fifteenth Wards taking care of things."

With Eaton guiding him, Coyne gave a diary of his movements on election day. This was it:

He voted about 10 a. m., then went to the Oakland Real Estate Company, of which he is president. Then downtown to Republican headquarters for a few hours. Back to Oakland and home for dinner. Downtown to Republican headquarters about 8 p. m. Received some of the returns on the Hoover-Roosevelt fight in United States Senator James J. Davis' room. The late Mayor Kline was there.

Left hotel about 3 a. m., went to Child's restaurant with William H. Coleman, the county chairman, and numerous others for breakfast. About 3:30 got into his car near Fifth avenue and Grant street to drive to his farm. En route, saw political friends at Penn and Main, stopped, talked about the returns for perhaps five minutes, urged them to collect as many as possible, discovered one or two of the boys had been drinking beer. And so to bed.

Among those he saw at the curbstone gathering, the Senator said, were three of the defendants—O'Malley, Frank O'Halloran and Assemblyman P. J. Maloney.

TIEUP DENIED

Coyne made another effort to deny the tieup charged by the government by testifying that not once on election day did he talk with two others of the defendants, his brother, Tom Coyne, and Walter Butler, of the Fourth Ward. The seventh defendant is Martin Mullen, of the Tenth Ward.

Charles P. McCoy, election judge in the Fourth Ward's election district, had testified that Tom Coyne and Butler came to him at the polls on election night, that Butler asked that some votes be converted to the Coyne cause.

When Eaton turned his client over to Graham for cross-examination, Coyne, big and husky, smiled at the short, rotund prosecutor whose ingratiating manners are highly deceptive in a courtroom.

Graham sought to emphasize two contentions, that the Republican organization had a secret meeting room in the hotel on election night, that the 4 a. m. curbstone meeting in Lawrenceville was more than a coincidence.

Before Coyne took the stand Eaton summoned numerous city employes to repeat threats they said they had heard James P. Bailey and his brother, Timothy, make against Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney.

The defense contends that the Bailey brothers threatened to ruin the Senator politically because they had lost their jobs on the city payroll.

M'BRIDE ON STAND

C. McBride, the Republican campaign treasurer, also was a defense witness. He testified that the William Penn Hotel management had refused to rent the organization rooms unless payment was made in advance as there had been some difficulty over the primary bill a few months earlier.

When McBride testified that he hadn't been able to find his copy of the campaign expense account which he filed at Harrisburg, Prosecutor James I. Mash ordered a subpena served on Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, to produce the account.

After testimony that the phantom Mr. Smith was registered in the campaign room—899-E—in the William Penn, Marsh ordered subpenas served on the hotel receivers to produce all records having to do with any and all George Smiths registered there in 1932 and 1933—also the registration card in the name of Edward Lebowitz, Republican headquarters.

Among the spectators in the courtroom were Louis Conley, the Coyne lieutenant in Lawrenceville, and John Fugassi, prominent in Republican councils.

They were among the five defendants who on Tuesday were freed on directed verdicts by Judge Schoonmaker, who at the same time refused similar motions for Senator Coyne and the other six still on trial.

Besides Conley and Fugassi, those who walked out free were Alderman John J. Verona, Harry Fink, former deputy constable for Verona, and George W. Savage, former city assessor.

Geary to Aid O'Malley, Old Political Foe

These are trying days for Martin Mullen, one of the defendants on trial with Senator James J. Coyne. He buried his wife 10 days ago. Less than two months ago one of his 10 children—a baby—died.

Little Tom Geary, the squire, and big Pat O'Malley, the defendant, haven't been on speaking terms for 18 months. Their respective factions have been on throwing terms—that is, throwing punches at each other in their efforts to control the Second Ward. The squire was subpenaed as a government witness. He hung around for a week; he wasn't called. So yesterday he was asked to testify for the defense and, probably because he doesn't like to see a guy in a tough jam, he promised to take the stand for O'Malley.

For quite a few years now Roy Clunk, the assistant district attorney, has been keeping witnesses hanging around waiting hours or days to testify—of necessity, of course. Yesterday the tables were reversed. Mr. Clunk had to break a golf date because he had been subpenaed to testify for Senator Coyne. He sat around the Federal building all day. P. S.—He wasn't called to the stand.

Lou Conley, one of the defendants who got binding instructions for acquittal, still hangs around, usually with Mike Muldowney, the congressman. Muldowney is the fashion plate of Soho, Conley the Beau Brummel of Lawrenceville.

Another witness kept waiting all day was Art (Axel) Rooney, the North Sider, who looked over thirsty spectators in the courtroom. Rooney hinted he would like to have the beer concession for his Braddock plant.

Although his clients, John J. Verona and John Fugassi, are no longer defendants, having been ordered acquitted, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti remained in the case, having been retained as co-counsel for Defendants O'Halloran and Mullen. With him are Attorneys David P. MacQuarrie and Mead Mulvihill.

James Lloyd, former chief clerk in the Civil Service office, and Clarence Abitz, unemployed, gave the spectators at the trial the biggest laughs.

Prosecutor Louis E. Graham insisted that Lloyd tell why he thought Timothy Bailey's frequent "we's" meant Timothy and his brother Jim, and Graham continued:

"When Lindbergh said 'we' he didn't mean his brother?"

"I don't know Mr. Lindbergh.

When Graham tried to get Abitz to repeat all of his two-and-a-half hour conversation with Bailey, Abitz answered "Do you ever talk politics" the question by asking:

Steedle's Expense $353 In Primary Campaign

Joseph G. Steedle, recently convicted of vote cheating, spent $353 on election expenses in the primary, his account filed with the Clerk of Courts shows.

Steedle won one of the Republican nominations to Legislature in the Twelfth District. Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, who was convicted with Steedle, spent less than $50 on his unsuccessful candidacy for Legislature.

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, who was re-nominated for Congress by both parties in the Thirty-third District, listed personal expenditures of $424. The Henry Ellenbogen campaign committee, chairmaned by Leo Lehman, spent $1,792.

Mrs. Anne E. Felix, who lost out for Congress in the Thirty-second District, spent $1,755.

Other candidates, of the small proportion who filed expenses, kept for the most part under the $1,000 mark. Thirty-eight of them who filed Tuesday, the last day, stated they spent less than $50.

In the Twelfth Leliglative District, John R. Haudenshield, Republican nominee, spent $54.

Ralph W. Gibbs, running in the Thirtieth Congressional District, had expenses of $545. James T. Philpott, successful in the Sixth Legislative District, had expenses of $328.

Francis X. McCulloch, backed by Mayor McNair for the Democratic county chairmanship and badly defeated, spent $47 and owes $25.

Pier Going Down On Schooner Wreck

PLYMOUTH, Mass.—(INS.)—A schooner wrecked here 20 years ago is causing the gradual breakdown of the State Pier, according to Capt. Orrin M. Bartlett, harbor-master. The State Pier was constructed on the wreckage of the schooner which is now rotting.

Testimony in Coyne Election Trial

Attorney O. K. Eaton fairly shouted the name of his client, Senator Coyne jammed his 'kerchief into his hip pocket as he walked to the stand, seated himself comfortably, rested his arms on the sides of the witness chair, crossed his legs and looked up at the ceiling. His voice was just loud enough to be heard by all, and his answers were ready. On cross-examination he seemed on guard, but he seldom hesitated.

Among those he mentioned in his testimony were:

James P. Bailey, the discharged city assessor, government witness who quoted Pat O'Malley as saying Senator Coyne had sent him to see Bailey with a proposition to steal votes in the Tenth Ward.

William H. Coleman, county chairman, and C. J. McBride, treasurer, of the Republican county committee in 1932.

Robert K. Boyer, the Mt. Lebanon Township commissioner who testified for the government that after the polls had closed Coyne advised him to look after his own interests. Judge Schoonmaker said Friday that this remark could be interpreted as indication of a sinster motive. Boyer, who was defeated for the legislature in the disputed election, was the star witness against the convicted Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks.

Walter Bonitz, brick manufacturer and contributor to political campaigns.

Attorney Eaton began questioning the Senator.

Q.—Where do you live?

A.—236 McKee place . . . about five months in the year, from June to December, I spend on the farm.

Q.—Do you have any other business besides being a Senator?

Q.—You're engaged in general real estate business, selling—that is, when you can?

Q.—Did you vote on November 8, 1932?

A.—Yes, sir, about 10 o'clock in the morning at Louisa and McKee place. That's about a half-block from my home . . . I was in the polling place about five minutes.

Q.—Then where did you go?

A.—I went to the Oakland Real Estate office for about two hours, then I come into town . . . I had lunch and went to headquarters . . . I stayed there for awhile and went back to Oakland.

Q.—Now did you have anything to do with obtaining Room 899-E for the Republican executive committee?

A.—No, sir.

Eaton exhibited the registration card for this room. The Senator brought out his glasses, examined the card and repeated the negative answer.

Q.—Did you ever use this room?

A.—Yes, sir—when I was called in by Mr. Coleman, about two or three times a week.

A.—I got to Oakland about 5 o'clock and had dinner and left about 7:30 and went to the hotel about 8. I stopped at the mezzannine floor. They were fixing desks and things to get the returns. Then I went to 899-E and took John Maloney along. I told them where to get me and went back to the mezzanine floor. Then I was invited by Mayor Kline to go to Jim Davis' room. I believe it was 1622. I went up and Mayor Kline went with me.

Q.—Was John Fugassi there?

A.—No, I don't think so.

Q.—Did you see Senator Davis?

A.—Yes . . . I stayed there about five or 10 minutes.

Q.—Did you get any telephone calls?

"A.—Yes, I was called and answered. I think I was called three times. And I called a party. One call was from John Maloney telling me Riley was calling from the South Side.

Q.—Then where did you go?

A.—I went back to 899-E.

Q.—Were you ever in 897?

A.—No . . . no (the Senator shook his hand) . . . I don't know a thing about it.

Q.—Then what happened?

A.—Terry McDermott and some others came in and we chatted.

Q.—In Senator Davis' room, or what some call the soldiers' room, did you get any local returns?

A.—No, just presidential returns or returns on Davis. I remember one district in Sharon gave Davis a majority of 200.

Q.—When did you first meet (Robert K.) Boyer?

A.—When the Republicans indorsed him on the ticket.

Q.—When Boyer came to the room was the door locked?

A.—No, it was unlocked.

Q.—Was there anyone else in the room?

A.—Yes, there were three or four.

Q.—What did he say?

A.—Well, he asked me how things were and I told him all right and he asked me if there were any local returns and I said, "No." And he said to me, "My God, I think I'm losing and how am I going to get the returns," and I told him the only way was to go out in his district and try and get them.

Q.—Did you say to him to look after his own interests?

A.—Well, only in the tone that I just explained. He was asking me about returns and I told him what to do and he said to me, "Well I better go and get them." And I said to him good night. (And the Senator placed the emphasis on "Good night.")

Q.—What then?

A.—I went down to the mezzanine floor and met Fugassi. He asked me where the Mayor was and I told him I'd heard he was in Senator Davis' room so we started up. But on the way the door of McGinnis' and Lane's room was open and we went in. We stayed there a short while and Fugassi went down to the mezzanine floor and I went to room 899-E.

Q.—At that time had you already been told that Mr. Bonitz was calling you?

A.—Yes. I had tried to get him but couldn't.

Q.—Did Lane and McGinnis come to the room?

A.—They came to room 899-E and it may have been after 11 or so.

Q.—Was the door locked?

A.—No the door was unlocked.

Q.—How many were there?

A.—I know there were at least seven or eight, John Maloney, Fred Schwartz, two Laffeys, James and his brother John, Tom Flaherty and Roy T. Clunk, and maybe some others.

Q.—Before you got Bonitz at 1:30 or so did you go down to the mezzanine again?

A.—I don't recall.

Q.—What did you do from the time McGinnis and Lane left to about one or two?

A.—About two I told Clunk to take whatever returns came in and I went down to the mezzanine floor and stayed there until we went to breakfast. I told Coleman to round up any of the boys that wanted something to eat and bring them along.

Q.—What time did you leave 899-E?

A.—About 1:30 or two.

Q.—Were there lots of people in the mezzanine?

A.—Lots of people there, Fugassi, Arthur Rooney. I talked to Arthur Rooney from the North Side and others. I finally talked with Bill Coleman and we left the mezzanine and walked down through the hotel lobby. I saw Mayor Kline there talking with some people.

Q.—Were you getting any local returns in 899-E.

A.—Not many, maybe one out of 20 districts. It was only once in a while we could get enough to get an idea what a district was like.

Q.—What about your own?

A.—I knew nothing until I went down on the mezzanine?

Q.—What did you find out

A.—That I was 3,800 ahead.

Q.—How long were you in Child's restaurant?

A.—About an hour or so . . . We all came out and went up Fifth avenue. Coleman and I stopped at the Union Arcade building and Roy Clunk was there. I bid them good night and said I was going to the farm.

Q.—Now what route did you take to the farm?

A.—I went out Bigelow boulevard to the Bloomfield Bridge, then over Main street to Penn avenue, where I saw some people on both sides of the street. I saw some people I knew, O'Halloran and Maloney, so I drove around and stopped . . . Then I saw Maloney and Savage and O'Halloran . . . O'Malley was there later. I said, "How are things going?" and they said, "all right, we've got all the returns but three districts and Conley has one of the districts."

Q.—Then what happened?

A.—I said, "Why don't you get Conley and get that district?"

They must have called up Conley. Conley and Metzler came, and I said, "What have you been doing, drinking beer?" and he said, "Yes." So they got the returns, and I started out for Allison Park and the farm.

Q.—Do you know anything about any telephone calls from the Regal Restaurant?

A.—No, sir. I was on the other side of the street. I presume they must have called Conley.

Q.—Now, Senator, the government has charged that you presided at a meeting at which agents were sent out to change ballots. Did you?

A.—No, sir . . . There was no such meeting that I know of.

Q.—Did your brother, Tom Coyne, see you at the hotel?

A.—No, he didn't see me.

Q.—Walter Butler see you?

A.—No, sir.

A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know he was going?

A.—No, sir . . . the first I saw O'Malley was at Penn and Main.

Q.—Bailey has charged inferentially that you were taking care of the Fourth and Fifteenth Wards in some way? Did you visit those polls?

A.—No, sir. I didn't leave the hotel between 8 and 3 (a. m.).

Q.—Did you send anybody to those places?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you have an understanding with anybody that ballots wer. to be changed or the count interfered with?

A.—No, sir.

A.—Evidently not.

Q.—Did you have a key to 899-E?

A.—John Maloney got the key from Charlie McBride that (election) evening—whenever I went to the room I always got the key on the mezzanine floor.

Q.—Who were some of those who visited that room?

A.—Well, there were various leaders from all over the city—Riley from the South Side, Reno from the Nineteenth. We had Dengler there.

Q.—Did you ever invite anybody to the room?

A.—I might have, I don't recall.

Q.—Why was it necessary to have that room?

Q.—Were they closed conferences or open to the public?

A.—I guess they were closed conferences.

Q.—Were any conferences held on the mezzanine floor?

A.—Yes, but people would walk in and break into them and we had to wait until they'd leave.

Q.—Did you have any conferences on the sixteenth floor?

A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Were there any in room 897?

A.—Not that I recall.

Q.—Did you pass room 897?

A.—I don't know whether I did or not, because I don't know whether it's in that direction or not.

Q.—You knew the general returns were coming in on the mezzanine floor and in the service room on the sixteenth floor?

A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew that the polls closed at 7 o'clock?

A.—Yes.

Q.—And yet you got a special room?

A.—Yes.

Q.—You say you sent John Maloney up ahead to open the door?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Was he there alone?

A.—Yes, until I came up.

Q.—How long were both of you there before the next person came?

A.—We were there about 10 minutes.

Q.—Who came first?

A.—I think it was Tom Flaherty.

Q.—Who invited him?

A.—I did.

Q.—Had you ever invited him before to this room?

A.—No.

Q.—Who was the third present?

A.—You mean the fourth?

A.—Terry McDermott.

Q.—Did you invite him?

A.—Not me. I suppose he inquired in the mezzanine.

A.—Yes.

Q.—Who were there?

A.—I'd say between 50 or 100 persons. They were streaming out into the hall. I don't remember all, but there was Flaherty, and Art Rooney and some of their friends that I didn't know, and John Kane and six or seven of his friends from the East End.

Q.—Was it the first time they were in the room?

A.—As far as I know.

Q.—I direct your attention to the time Robert K. Boyer came to your room. Was the door locked?

A.—No, the door was open.

Q.—Where were you sitting?

A.—I was at the desk.

Q.—Did Boyer knock?

A.—No, he walked right in.

Q.—What was the conversation?

A.—He said, "How's things?" I said they were all right . . ."

Graham interrupted to ask:

Q.—Didn't the returns you had indicate that it was going strongly Democratic, and that it wasn't going all right?

Q.—Was that all right with you?

Q.—Did Boyer sit down?

A.—No.

Q.—What else did he say?

A.—He asked me if we were getting legislative returns and I told him we were not.

Q.—Now at this time did you not say, "Look after your own interests?"

A.—Not in that way. I told him he had a right to get his own returns, that he was a young man and could do it.

Q.—At this time the polls were closed and therefore you knew that there was nothing he could do to change anything?

A.—I didn't intend that he should change anything.

Q.—Couldn't he have waited until the next morning?

A.—Well, a candidate is much more at ease when he knows whether he's won or been defeated. And he said after that, "I'd better do that."

Q.—Did you introduce him to the others?

A.—No.

Q.—How long was he there?

A.—Two minutes.

Q.—Did you go down to the mezzanine then?

A.—I think I went up to the sixteenth floor.

Q.—Did you converse with Lane and McGinnis?

A.—No. There were too many people.

Q.—Did you invite them down to your room?

A.—No.

Q.—How did they find the room?

A.—They must have called the mezzanine.

Q.—Was the door open?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Who were there?

A.—John Maloney, James and John Laffey and others.

Q.—Did they knock?

A.—No, they walked in.

Q.—Did you introduce McGinnis and Lane?

A.—No.

Q.—Did you invite them to sit down?

A.—No.

Q.—Were you anxious to get returns?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Why didn't you invite them to sit down?

A.—There were only a few chairs, and these were filled, and some were sitting on the bed. The room was small.

A.—I did not.

A.—No.

Q.—Did he come to your room to see you?

A.—Not while I was there.

Q.—Do you know Walter Butler?

A.—Since he was a boy.

Q.—Do you know if your brother Tom would associate with him?

A.—I suppose he would.

A.—Very well.

Q.—Was he in your room that night or the morning after?

A.—Not while I was there.

Q.—Did anyone come to the room and ask for O'Malley?

A.—Not while I was there.

Q.—Was there any direct communication with O'Malley.

A.—No.

Q.—You know where the Regal restaurant is?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Is it directly on your way home?

A.—It is.

Q.—You met the group there?

A.—On my way home I saw them, across the street and about 50 or 60 feet up towards East Liberty from the restaurant.

Q.—Who did you see?

A.—I saw Pat Maloney and Frank O'Halloran.

Q.—What did you say?

A.—I said, "How do you do, gentlemen?"

Q.—Then what?

A.—I asked them if they had the returns and who had the returns that were missing? They said Lou Conley and George Metzler had some missing districts. So I said to Frank O'Halloran, "Could you get Conley on the phone?"

Q.—Did O'Halloran leave the group?

Q.—Did Mr. Conley appear?

A.—Yes. I asked them what time the returns would be in and they said, "about 8 o'clock." So I got in my car and waved to them and said, "Good-night, gentlemen."

Q.—Did you finally get Mr. Bonitz on the telephone?

A.—Yes, between 1 and 1:30—I don't know what the name of the hotel was I got him at, although I had been down at that hotel to see him three weeks before the election.

James I. Marsh questioned the Senator when he was recalled today.

Q.—You testified yesterday that you stopped at Penn and Main on your way to the farm?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What route did you take?

A.—Over Washington Memorial Bridge and through Millvale.

Q.—Is that the shortest and most direct route?

A.—Yes.

Roy T. Clunk, second assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County, was questioned by Eaton.

Q.—In the election of 1932, what was your part?

A.—I was in charge of meetings and speakers.

A.—Yes.

Q.—Were you a candidate for any office?

A.—For state committee.

A.—Very well.

Q.—How long?

A.—For eight or ten years.

Q.—You came to the William Penn Hotel election night?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Where?

A.—Well, I was on the mezzanine first floor. I had an office, that is, a partition was put up in a corner for me, and I had a desk behind it.

Q.—Were you in any other room?

A.—Yes, I was in room 899E and also in room 1622.

Q.—Where first?

A.—899E.

Q.—What time?

A.—Sometime after 11 o'clock.

Q.—Was the door opened or closed when you arrived?

A.—When I arrived there were a number of people standing outside in the hall and others in a sort of haliway entering the room. I sort of had to force my way in.

Q.—While you were there was the door closed at any time?

A.—No, the men in the room were smoking and the window was up. They needed ventilation.

Q.—Did you recognize anyone there.

A.—Yes, I recall seeing some of them, but there were so many it would be difficult to name them.

Q.—Did you see McGinnis or Lane there?

A.—I don't recall. I saw them at the hotel that night, but whether it was on the mezzanine or upstairs I'm not certain.

Q.—Did you know of the Bonitz call?

ATTEMPTS TO KIDNAP FAMILY REVEALED BY CORD

AUTO MAGNATE FLED COUNTRY TO ESCAPE

Millionaire in England 'Until Abduction Panic Dies'

LONDON, May 31.—(AP.)—Three attempts to kidnap members of his family from his home at Beverley Hills, Cal., have been graphically described by E. L. Cord, American automobile and airplane magnate, to English acquaintances.

One of the attempts, involving the use of a mysterious airplane, was said to have resulted in the advice of a California police chief to the American millionaire to take his family out of the United States for an extended visit abroad.

It was learned definitely today that Cord has been in England since the middle of April, a date corresponding to the sensational kidnaping cases of William F. Gettle in California and June Robles in Arizona.

Cord has taken a home in Surrey for the summer and it was said he does not intend to return to the United States until the kidnaping panic has died down.

On one occasion, according to an informant in whom Cord confided, an airplane flew over the Cord estate in California getting the lay of the land and, possibly, taking pictures.

The plane was said to have been traced to a secret landing place across the border in Mexico.

Later a guard at the Cord home was said suddenly to have been surprised by an unidentified man who shoved a revolver into his ribs. The guard, however, was saved by a companion hidden in the shrubbery who fired at the assailant supposed to have been a would-be kidnaper.

UNGUARDED IN LONDON

A third attempt was believed to have been made when a man was found lurking on the estate.

Despite the strong guard which the Cords may have had in the United States, the family is under no protection here.

The motor magnate and his son have been driving around London and the vicinity in a small car. The second son, Wiliam, has been riding around by himself on a motorcycle.

The millionaire's airplane is still at Heston airport, but its owner did not appear there today for a further tuning up of the motor.

MARY MAY RUN FOR CONGRESS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Rumor that Mary Pickford, the movie actress, will be a candidate for Congress in California has thrown a number of House Republicans into a fever of excitement.

California Republicans are enthusiastic over the mere mention of "America's Sweetheart" as a candidate. Representative Florence Kahn, of California, said:

"Mary Pickford would make a fine candidate and a good member of the House. She is intelligent, can make a fine speech and is thoroughly conversant with civic affairs."

Representative Ransley (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a veteran of the House, was enthusiastic. He said:

PONTIFF MARKS 77TH BIRTHDAY

International News Service.

ROME, May 31.—All buildings of Vatican City were decorated today with the yellow and white Papal flag with the crown and keys emblazoned thereon in honor of Pope Pius XI's seventy-seventh birthday.

Telegrams of congratulations from all over the world, from kings, dictators, presidents, from prelates of the church and from laymen flooded the Vatican.

The Pope observed the day merely by saying a simple thanksgiving mass in his apartments and later receiving the personal congratulations of the diplomats to the Holy See.

The Pontiff appeared to be in splendid health. He is planning a three-month vacation at his villa outside of Rome.

Plain Wings Incubator North for Quintuplets

By CHARLES E. BLAKE

CALLANDER, Ontario, May 31.—Three of the five baby girls born to Mrs. Oliva Dionne, two and one-half miles from here, last Monday morning were resting comfortably today in the special incubator rushed to this small Canadian north woods town from Chicago by the Chicago American and the New York Journal, Hearst newspapers. Two others rest in a heated basket.

The incubator, which is more than 30 years old and one of the few of its kind left on the North American continent that could be used in the near primitive log cabin occupied by the young mother and her quintuplet daughters, was placed beside the mother last night.

FED MILK

Arrival of the incubator is expected to increase the chances of life for at least three of the youngsters, according to Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who has been attending the mother and children. Dr. Dafoe said:

"The condition of the children has improved daily, but one of them is in a pretty bad way and it is doubtful if she will live. The last child born is suffering from a syanotic condition due to premature birth. The others are doing fairly well.

"They were fed human milk and were given all they would swallow. Each meal consisted of at least two eye-droppers full of the milk and fed to them a drop at a time. Chances of all of the five children living are about one in 500. The best thing that can be said at this time is the fact they they are all alive and improving."

The temperature of the hot-water heater incubator read 92 degrees, and the three little tots, none of whim is more than nine inches long, and are estimated to weigh scarcely more than two pounds each, seemed happy in their new surroundings.

GET WORLD FAIR OFFERS

Nurse Yvonne Leroux fed each of the three with a sterilized eye-dropper and as each little girl sucked her fill of the warm milk she fell off again into a quiet slumber. Next, the two stronger babies resting in the hot water bottle warmed basked were fed as the darkness of the Canadian north woods cast shadows through the rustic farm house.

Other feedings throughout the night were done by Nurse Leroux with the light of a small kerosene lamp.

In almost constant attendance at the farm is Father Daniel Routhier, who baptized the children just a few hours after they were born. Father Routhier is acting as advisor to the family and is keeping close watch of the several offers to the family for their appearance at a Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. They are the world's first quintuplets to live more than 50 minutes.

So far, the best offer received for the exhibition of the mother, father and five babies is a guarantee of $10,000 in cash with promises of more. But Father Routhier is turning down all offers until the health of the children and mother is assured.

CABARET OWNER ORDERED TO PAY

Unless he pays his estranged wife $75 by Tuesday, Carmen Logiodice, 44, night club operator, of 228 Omega street, will be sent to jail, Judge Frank A. Piekarski warned him today in Desertion and Non-Support Court.

Logiodice was called in before the court on complaint of Mrs. Antoinette Logiodice, of 6508 Ladson street, who charged that he had failed to make the $50 monthly payments to her support ordered by court last February.

Logiodice pleaded he was unable to make the payments. He said:

"I ran afoul of the law a few days ago, and my places are closed. I can't make any money."

Attorney Jacob Shulgold, representing the estranged wife, argued that Logiodice gave a huge birthday party for another woman several weeks ago, entertaining 300 guests, and giving her a "four-carat diamond and two automobiles."

FIGHT RESUMED ON PUSEY WILLS

Another legal battle over the $1,000,000 estate of George W. Pusey, aged wallpaper and carpet dealer of the North Side, who left two wills, was waged in Orphans Court today.

Beneficiaries of the will, which Pusey made in Orlando, Fla., nine days before his death, September 1, 1933, were given a rehearing before Judge Thomas P. Trimble in their fight to have the Florida will substituted for the Pittsburgh will dated June 12, 1929.

Judge Trimble last year ordered the Pittsburgh will probated.

Under it large bequests are made to Pittsburgh charities, particularly organizations of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

If the Florida will had been recognized here, the charity bequests would fail, as the Pennsylvania law requires that any will carrying charitable bequests must be signed at least 30 days before the death of the testator.

Under the Florida will, Dr. Roland T. White, physician to Mr. Pusey, who died at 88, was given an annual income of $1,200 and made an executor of the estate. Several other Florida residents were given annuities.

Woman's Slayer Given Life Term

SCRANTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Walter Zbikowski, 25, today was convicted of murder in the first degree in the death of Mrs. Mary Lahotsky, 22, of Dickson City. The jury fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Mrs. Lahotsky was killed April 2 during a quarrel over attentions she paid another man.

LOCUST ARMY IN BELLEVUE

The advance guard of 17-year locusts predicted to invade Western Pennsylvania this year had appeared today in Bellevue and Avalon.

Hosts of the insects, resembling a small crawfish, were crawling over plants, shrubs and trees, causing dismay among gardeners, but as a matter of fact, carrying no serious menace to vegetation, according to County Farm Agent Henry R. Eby.

He said:

"The principal injury is caused by the deposit of eggs in bark of trees. As a rule damage to trees is not excessive. The locusts will live only five or six weeks."

After the eggs are hatched the small ant-like young burrow in the ground, where they develop to maturity over a 17-year period, then emerge through small holes in the surface of the ground.

Experts at State College predicted a visit of "Brood 8" of the 17-year locusts in 16 counties of Western Pennsylvania this year, Eby stated, the heaviest emergence scheduled for around June 15.

G'wan, You Just Think It's a Pain in the Neck

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 31.—You may think it's a pain in the neck, but as a matter of fact it's probably only a kink in your personality.

And what seems like a stomach ache to you may be only the result of repressed hatred for your second-grade school teacher.

Those spots before the eyes may be just symptoms that you are in love.

And your high blood pressure may be traced to worrying over the grocery bill, or perhaps a hidden desire to sock your mother-in-law.

These and other theories were explained at the ninetieth annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, in session here this week.

Medical doctors and psychiatrists were united in the opinion that many physical ills of our modern life are direct results of mental conditions.

Children who are brought to clinics for treatment often are spffering from a plain case of "parent trouble," said Dr. Elizabeth I. Amadson, of New York.

Dr. Agnes Conrad, of New York, set forth the opinion that exaggerated mother love is simply a hyper-thyroid condition, and can be corrected by medicine or an operation.

Dr. George E. Daniels, of New York, cited various case histories proving that imaginary ills often have wrecked careers and undermined health.

Dr. Theodore P. Wolfe, of New York, described the relation of emotions and heart trouble, and said that sexual maladjustments sometimes produce severe heart palpitations and other ills.

So if your heart skips a beat, don't worry. Maybe it's love. Or—maybe it's that old second-grade school teacher, again.

SHAFT BOMBING LAID TO REDS

FOLLANSBEE, W. Va., May 31.—A monument erected in memory of the late Mayor L. A. Dillar was blown to bits in Follansbee Park early yesterday a few hours before it was to have been formally unveiled as part of the city's Memorial Day exercises.

The monument was bombed at 2:30 a. m., the blast not only shattering the memorial, but windows in the high school and homes 1,000 feet away.

The bombing was viewed by authorities as the act of Communistic labor agitators in an attack on the Memorial Day unveiling of the monument to the former mayor and president of the Sheet Metal Specialties Company.

This company, formerly headed by Mr. Dillar, was a subsidiary of the Follansbee Brothers Company, steel makers, which more than a year ago abandoned a union shop for an open shop.

Department of Justice agents were summoned.

The American Legion and other organizations had joined in special ceremonies for the unveiling, which was to have taken place at 10 a. m.

INSANITY PLEA FOR FABER

International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., May 31.—Abe Faber, technology college graduate, was pictured by a psychiatrist today at his murder trial as a human amoeba, with no emotions, and an insane product of a family "riddled with insanity, epilepsy, and suicide." Dr. Fray H. Shattuck, defense phychiatrist, said:

"At one point in my examination Faber told me that after he got free he was going to get a job as a chief of police."

Faber has confessed to participating with Murton and Irving Millen in the robbery of the Needham Trust Company in which two policemen were slain by machine gun bullets.

The Millen brothers also are pleading insanity.

TORCH VICTIM'S FATHER RAPS POLICE

Fights Suicide Theory, Assails Sleuths for Quitting Mystery

International News Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 31.—Charging Sacramento officers with withdrawing prematurely from the case on a suicide theory, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, a candidate for Governor, today spurred a private investigation under the direction of E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist, to prove that his 22-year-old daughter, Virginia, was the victim of a fiend and did not commit suicide by burning herself. Johnson declared:

"We will show a murder motive, rather than suicide."

While Heinrich, surrounded by Sacramento officials in the office of District Attorney Neil McAllister, discussed the case and reviewed the girl's diary of happiness and delusion, private funeral services were conducted.

Mrs. Johnson, the mother, broke down with grief at the funeral.

The hysterical mother screamed:

"Virginia, can you hear me—are you happy—I want my baby."

A deep silence pervaded the funeral chapel of a mortuary as the grief - stricken mother paused, then resumed with another tearful plea.

"I can't hear you, Virginia—. If I cold only hear her."

Mrs. Johnson finally was calmed by her husband who requested the singing of four lines from the song, "Home on the Range," which his beautiful daughter had sung for him every night at home.

Despite a suicide note and autopsy report showing she had not been struck or attacked, and also the statements of the mother and a sister that the girl had suffered mentally for several weeks, Johnson insisted anew his daughter had been murdered.

Heinrich evidenced much interest in the remark:

"I hear noise of angels' wings flapping in my head."

Miss Johnson was said to have made this remark to her sister two hours before her charred body was found beside a half-filled gallon jug of kerosene and burned matches in a vacant garage, three blocks from the Johnson home.

Mystery Woman Leaves Wreath for Valentino

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Rudolph Valentino was not forgotten on Memorial Day.

Annually a mysterious and beautifully gowned woman visits the borrowed crypt in which lies the body of the great film sheik in a Hollywood cemetery.

It was learned today that the woman made her yearly visit and deposited a wreath of purple-colored flowers on the crypt of the man who had many loves.

Then, like a wraith, she vanished, leaving cemetery attaches as puzzled as ever over her identity as they were when she made her initial strange visit on the first Memorial Day after Valentino died.

The flowers were purchased as in the past, from a small shop near the cemetery. The florist told friends that the woman, as usual, was heavily veiled. The florist said:

"But she was beautiful. The veil could not conceal that. She had the manner of a queen. She spoke slowly. I could detect more tragedy in her voice even than was there when I first saw her. She came in a large limousine."

Young Astor to Marry Former 'Bridesmaid'

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—John Jacob Astor III is going to marry a debutante who was to have been a bridesmaid at the rich young man's once-planned wedding to Eileen S. S. Gillespie.

Astor, just returned from a trip around the world to "forget" his broken romance with Miss Gillespie, is now engaged to Ellen Tuck French. The engagement was announced yesterday.

Miss French is the daughter of Mrs. Livingston French, of New York and Newport, and had been chosen by Miss Gillespie to be one of her bridesmaids at her wedding to Astor, which was called off two weeks before it was to have taken place last February 6.

Shortly after Miss Gillespie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lewis Gillespie, announced termination of their daughter's engagement to Astor, the young man departed on a world cruise. Friends said he sailed to "forget" and "cure his broken heart."

Astor, a son of John Jacob Astor, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, was 21 years old last August.

No date for the wedding has been set.

have a vague recollection of having heard of it.

Clunk then told of going to Childs for breakfast with a group, including Senator Coyne and Chairman Coleman, of leaving them and driving his (Clunk's) father-in-law, who was with him, to Bellevue, and then going to his home in Forbes Terrace.

Q.—While you were in the room 899-E did you hear any orders about sending out into the districts and counting ballots or changing ballots or ballot boxes?

A.—No, sir. Not that I heard.

Q.—Was there, at any time you were there, meetings with the door closed?

A.—Not while I was there.

Q.—While you were in the room, were there phone calls?

A.—Yes. I answered several myself because I was near the phone. Others answered them.

Q.—And did you take any returns?

A.—I think I took a few.

Q.—Were there tallies or tally sheets in the room?

A.—Not that I could see, no sir.

Q.—Did you see Mr. Boyer?

A.—No, I don't know him.

The six defendants other than Senator Coyne were asked to stand up.

Q.—Do you know any of these.

A.—I know O'Malley, Coyne and Butler.

Q.—Did you see them in the William Penn Hotel election night?

A.—No.

Q.—Would you say you saw Tom Coyne?

A.—I don't believe I saw Tom Coyne there.

Q.—Did you see O'Malley?

A.—I'm certain I did not see O'Malley.

Q.—The others?

A.—I wouldn't know them.

Terry McDermott, of Munhall, testified to the Boyer episode substantially the same as the other defense witnesses who were in the room when Boyer called. He said he found the room the Senator was supposed to be in by asking Edward Labowitz and C. J. McBride.

Following him were Jess Boyle, who handled publicity for the campaign; James Laffey, of the Fourteenth Ward, and John Kane (no relation to the Councilman), an appraiser for the Inheritance Tax office. All told of being in room 899-E, of seeing nothing to indicate a conspiracy.

John Maloney, of Arcena street, who had been employed by the Republican committee during the election, was questioned by Attorney Eaton. He was asked who was in the room that night, and mentioned Flaherty, McDermott, Clunk and others.

Q.—Were you being paid for working election night?

Q.—How did you happen to come to headquarters on the mezzanine floor?

A.—Senator Coyne.

Q.—Did you and Senator Coyne go up to the room together?

A.—I went up and he followed in a few minutes.

Q.—Were you there when Mr. Boyer came to the room?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the conversation?

A.—Boyer asked the Senator if he had the returns and the Senator told him he didn't have them. Then the Senator suggested that he should get the returns out in his district. And Boyer said "I guess I'd better."

Q.—How long after that did Senator Coyne remain?

A.—About 15 minutes, I suppose.

Q.—During the night did you see Patrick O'Malley, Tom Coyne, in the room? Or Mr. O'Halloran or P. J. Maloney?

A.—No.

Q.—Or Walter Butler?

A.—No.

Q.—Did you see Arthur Rooney there?

A.—Yes.

Q.—While Senator Coyne was or was not in the room was there anything said about sending out to the districts to get the results changed?

A.—Nothing at all.

Walter Cochran, inspector of weights and measures, took the stand and repeated statements attributed to James P. Bailey that he would "get Coyne."

Ace Kline, chauffeur of Republican County Chairman William Coleman, testified that he fell asleep in the loung, and then, shortly after 3 o'clock the morning after election, went to room 899E and slept until about 11:30 of that day.

C. J. McBride, treasurer of the Republican campaign in 1932, was called by Eaton to testify that neither the organization or Coyne ever rented Room 897 in the William Penn.

Q.—What arrangements were made to pay for the (other) rooms?

A.—Pay in advance . . . They wouldn't rent anything to us unless we paid in advance . . . We kept the mezzanine floor for two weeks after the election to pay off 3,000 watchers.

Cross-examination.

Q.—Do you have any records showing how much you paid out for the Republican committee?

A.—I wouldn't say whether Mr. Ruch or I suggested it.

Marsh then contended that in his grand jury testimony McBride had left the impression the room was registered in the name of the committee.

Ruch, assistant manager of the William Penn, then was called and testified that McBride had told him the room was wanted for private conferences, that he didn't recall whether he or McBride had suggested the alias registration.

W. H. Coleman, the Republican County Chairman who testified for the government, was called by the defense. He said that to his knowledge Room 897 was rented neither by the Senator nor the organization.

Then Eaton called six employes of the organization who testified they were paid each Saturday in 899-E by McBride. These witnesses were Irene Terzeciak, Margaret Sorce, John Toth, Margaret Morris, John A. Maloney and Charles Gallagher.

Judge Schoonmaker inquired the purpose of all this testimony.

Eaton:

The purpose of all this is to show James J. Coyne had nothing to do with this room.

Schoonmaker:

Graham:

Eaton:

We'll get around to that.

The defense opened earlier in the day by Eaton's calling Ralph Bigely, clerk in the City's Department of Public Safety.

Eaton did the questioning:

Q.—Did you hear Timothy Bailey say, sometime in December, 1932, "I'll get those Irish pigs if Jim and I have to frame them?"

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you hear Timothy Bailey make other statements similar in nature?

A.—A thousand times.

Graham cross-examined:

Q.—Would you say exactly what you heard Timothy Bailey say, and how often?

A.—One day I heard him say, three or four times, that he and his brother would drive Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney out of politics.

Q.—Did he say anything else?

A.—One thing he said I wouldn't repeat here.

Q.—Why not?

Q.—Well, never mind that, just tell the jury what you heard him say.

A.—Well, I heard him say, "We're gonna get that big fat Irish ——.

James A. Moore, who said he had been chief clerk in the City Bureau of Fire, next testified that he heard expressions by Timothy Bailey similar to those testified to by Bigely.

Q.—Did you hear Bigely ask Timothy Bailey, "Who do you mean by we?" and hear Bailey answer, "Our Jim and me?"

A.—Yes, I did.

Graham asked:

Q.—Who was your sponsor for your job?

A.—Mayor Kline.

James J. Lloyd, of the South Side, former chief clerk of the Civil Service Commission, testified:

Q.—Did you hear Timothy Bailey say, "We're going to get Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney if it's the last thing we do."

A.—Yes.

John F. Dalton, a clerk in the Bureau of Fire, testified.

Q.—Did you hear Timothy Bailey say Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney were through?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you hear him say that he was going to testify before the grand jury?

A.—He said Jim was doing it and later he said, "I'm going down to testify and we'll fix them."

Lawrence O'Neill, of 5247 Butler street, in the automobile business there, told of a conversation in his place of business in January, 1933, in which Timothy and Clement Bailey, brothers, and a Clarence Abitz were present. James and Timothy Bailey made similar statements, he said, but Clement said nothing.

Q.—Did you hear James Bailey say, "We'll get that pig-headed Irishman and we'll finish them"?

A.—Yes. And then Timothy said, "You're damn right we will. Foreigners shouldn't be in politics."

Clarence Abitz took the stand, Eaton questioning.

Q.—Do you know James and Timothy Bailey?

A.—All my life.

Q.—Are you a city employe?

A.—No, I'm not employed.

Q.—Have you a political sponsor?

A.—I'm not a politician.

Q.—Did you hear James Bailey say, "We'll get that pig-headed Irishman Coyne? And that foreigners should be in politics?"

A.—Yes.

Graham cross-examined:

Q.—Who brought politics into discussion?

A.—Jim Bailey.

Q.—Where were you working?

A.—I haven't been working except for that WCAE. I guess it's that or the CWA or something.

Q.—How long were you talking politics?

A.—Maybe two hours or so.

Q.—What were you talking about?

A.—Well, I know Mr. Mackrell and we were talking about his chances for Mayor, in the future.

Q.—Was Bailey asking your support?

A.—No, because my support doesn't mean anything.

Q.—Well, what all did you talk about politics?

A.—Well, that's hard. Did you ever talk politics?

Again the throng, judges and all, exploded with laughter.

John McFarland, A. F. Nolan, John Joseph Delehanty and W. J. Loughrey, inspectors for the city Bureau of Weights and Measures, followed each other on the stand and told of James Bailey's returning to their offices on a day late in December, 1932, after his job had been eliminated. They testified Bailey, for two years, had been chief inspector and their superior.

They repeated in similar vein that they had heard Bailey make statements to the effect that Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney would be driven out of politics and that Bailey said:

"Watch my statements in the newspapers. Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney will be eliminated."

William L. Cooney, also an inspector, was the final witness called to repeat Bailey's threats.

Q.—Did Jim Bailey say, "We'll send them some place where they won't have to bother about politics for a long time"?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Was there any discussion as to Bailey's losing his job?

A.—He had lost it.

A.—Yes, Coyne, O'Malley and Muldowney.

HOUSE PASSES ROOSEVELT'S SILVER BILL

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate the administration silver bill, which has for its objective the use of silver to comprise backing for a quarter of the United States currency as compared with three-quarters backed by gold.

Early favorable Senate action is expected.

Opposition that yesterday resorted to filibustering tactics in moves either to defeat or broaden the measure collapsed today when the final vote was taken.

Members of the Democratic silver bloc, who wanted even broader legislation, had contended the measure was just a "silver brick" and that it would result in prolonging the depression 10 years.

Republicans attacked the proposal as involving unsound monetary principles and said it was approved by the administration to meet demands of mining, speculating and other groups interested in making profits out of silver.

Democratic proponents claimed it was needed to complement the gold policy of the government and that it would increase commodity prices and foreign trade.

The decisive vote was on rejection by 268 to 70 of a motion to recommit the bill to committee. The roll call count followed a similar decision by standing vote of 163 to 59.

3 KILLED, 6 HURT IN TRIPLE CRASH

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., May 31.—(AP.)—A man with a summons for reckless driving in his pocket drove his car into a triple collision early today and three women were killed.

Six other persons, including a little girl, were seriously injured. Two may die.

The collision occurred on State Highway 25 here when a car, seeking to pass a truck which was going in the same direction, crashed into another passenger car, going in the opposite direction. One car was rolled in the path of the truck.

Two of the three women killed were decapitated by the truck's heavy wheels.

The dead were Miss Mildred Davidovitch, 23, New York; Mrs. M. Losasso, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. James C. Milone, of Philadelphia.

IRISH DEFEND OWN SENATE

DUBLIN, May 31.—(AP.)—The Irish Senate wants to keep on being a Senate no matter what President De Valera thinks.

Before the body is a bill passed by the Dail Eireann at the urgent suggestion of De Valera divorcing the Free State from the Senate. Regardless of Senate action, it is effective within a year.

In the Senate gallery listening to the oratorical barrage was President De Valera himself. While leaving the chamber, he stumbled, caught his foot in a carpet and turned his ankle.

Chairman Bennett said:

"De Valera's real aim is a dictatorship, and his attitude is—'I am Sir Oracle and when I open my mouth let no dog bark.'"

Attacking the idea of a single house parliament, Bennett said that in the United States, Pennsylvania, Georgia and Vermont had tried the plan and each had abandoned it on the grounds it had violated the American Constitution.

CHARLES A. BROOKS

HONOR 55-YEAR STORE OFFICIAL

Charles A. Brooks, president of the central division of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, is celebrating his fifty-fifth anniversary with the company.

He started to work with the organization in New York in 1879, coming to Pittsburgh 35 years ago.

Dozens of letters of congratulation have been sent him from friends throughout the United States.

Pittsburgh executives of the company gave a dinner in his honor Tuesday night at the Pittsburgh Country Club. Brooks lives at 3117 Brownsville road.

BELL MODIFIES BLUE LAW RULE

Pending more detailed study of the problem, Pittsburgh merchants will be permitted to remain open on Sunday, Public Safety Director A. Marshall Bell announced today.

Bell last week issued an order to police to notify all places of business, with the exception of drug stores and restaurants, to close Sundays as required by the old Pennsylvania blue laws. He later rescinded the order after scores of merchants had protested.

DAVIS WARNS OF POOR RUM

SHARON, Pa., May 31.—Unless the quality of liquor is improved within the next year the people of the United States will favor the return of prohibition, United States Senator James J. Davis stated in a Memorial Day address here.

Senator Davis said the present liquor wasn't much better than the bootlegger sold in the Volstead days.

The United States also gives up its right to interfere in Cuba's sanitary work, which means that Cubans, if they choose, can go back to yellow fever conditions that prevailed before the United States showed them how to get rid of yellow fever. An intelligent people, however, the Cubans will doubtless look after their own yellow fever-carrying mosquitoes.

HOUSING BILL DOOM FEARED

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—The President today had reiterated he hoped to see the administration's housing bill pass at this session, but leaders at the Capitol said it was in a race against time.

They said if adjournment was desired within the next couple of weeks quite a few measures might have to be abandoned, and insistence upon the bill designed to stimulate building and home repairs might cause a delay the White House would not welcome.

Chairman Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, of the Senate Banking Subcommittee which is revising the program, said, however, after a meeting of his group he expected the bill to get through this session.

sick and in the hospital several times."

WEEPS ABOUT FAMILY

The officers urged the man to consider his invalid wife and three children. They said he wept at the mention of his family.

But he insisted he would carry out his plan, saying when he fell asleep his hand would release the switch and blow him to "kingdom come," despite the officers' promise they would obtain work for him.

Bennett, police said, told them he once served a term in the penitentiary at Florence, Ariz., on a grand theft charge, being pardoned in 1909.

'GOING TO SLEEP'

The man told Patrolman William Pries when his mad scheme was first revealed late yesterday:

"I'm just going to sleep after while."

The officer risked his life several times to protect the lives of others. First, he persuaded the man to drive to a strip of marshland some distance from buildings and then took the ignition key to the automobile. Pries said the automobile carried 48 sticks of dynamite.

The man would not permit anyone but Pries to approach him as he sat through the night and repeatedly warned the officer that he was coming at his own risk. Once he handed Pries a rifle, declaring:

"I don't need it."

By WILLIAM PRIES

As Told to an International News Service Correspondent

ALAMEDA, Cal., May 31.—I first saw the man park his automobile in a restricted zone in front of Neptune Beach. (A local resort. That was late yesterday. I told him:

"You can't park here, buddy."

He was wearing an American Legion cap, with the insignia "Oakland Post No. 5" on it. I am pretty sure he is Frank Bennett.

He protested that he wanted to make a speech over the public address system in the beach resort.

WALKS CLOSER

I realized something was wrong with him. I walked closer to the machine and as I was about to put my hand on the door of the car, he shouted:

"Look out. Don't touch that door. It's wired."

Then he handed me two sticks of dynamite.

About his hands and legs were coiled wires, leading to a battery in the rear seat of the car. I am positive the car is loaded with dynamite and some nitro-glycerin. He said there were 50 sticks of dynamite. He refused to say where he got the explosives. He said:

"I'm supreme now after being a failure all my life."

He said he didn't know what he was going to do. He told me:

"I haven't worked for four years. My three children are on public charity and my wife is sick. Isn't that enough to make me crazy."

GO FOR RIDE

I urged him, "Let's go for a ride and talk this thing over." I was thinking of some way to get his car to an isolated spot where it would do no harm.

He warned me that if I made a false move he would set off the dynamite. He showed me a small button in his hand. The button was connected with one of the wires.

He finally agreed to go for the ride. I stepped on the running board of the car and directed him and he still held the wires in his hands while he drove.

We drove for almost half an hour before we reached the marshes. Then I leaned over and took the ignition key. He did not attempt to stop me. Then I told him to wait a few minutes and I would come right back. I noticed a 30-30 rifle in the car. He gave the gun to me with a box of cartridges.

He was still sitting in the car when I returned with other officers.

Remember, you can have the good things to eat advertised on this page delivered to your home. The charge is small—10 cents for up to a hundred pounds. You couldn't drive your car or ride the street car for as little as that.

Bank Payoff Delay Laid To Leaders by McLeod

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Administration leaders in Senate and House have combined to prevent enactment of legislation for relief of depositors in closed banks, Rep. McLeod (Rep., Michigan), leader of the fight for depositors' aid, declared today.

He said their attitude has been manifested quietly in many ways. He charged that in the Senate efforts are being made to kill the Steagel amendment to the bank guaranty bill, which would authorize relief through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

McLeod asserted there is a noticeable reluctance on the part of members subject to patronage influence to join him in forcing a vote on the measure. He needs only six additional names to insure a vote in the House.

With 400 delegates expected here to the National Depositors' Association meeting Saturday and Sunday, pressure for depositors' relief increased.

Charles P. Bloome, president of the organization, declared it stood 100 per cent behind the McLeod bill, which would have the Reconstruction Finance Corporation take over assets of closed banks and pay depositors in full.

PRESBYTERIANS END ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

CLEVELAND, May 31.—(AP.)—A criticism of American motion pictures as a harmful influence on missionary work in foreign lands, and the filing of two protests by fundamentalist leaders concluded the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of American yesterday.

The indictment of motion pictures was delivered by the Rev. Daniel C. Buchanan, missionary to Japan. He said:

"One of the greatest detriments to missionary work is the type of motion pictures exported from the United States.

"People in foreign lands, seeing these pictures, get the idea that gangster warfare and immorality are standards of American life; and they are copying the lives as portrayed in the films."

The protests by the fundamentalists were against the assembly's adoption of a plan of merger with the United Presbyterian Church of North America, and the adoption of a report ordering all Presbyterians who are members of the Independent Board for Presbyterian Foreign Missions to resign from that body or face ecclesiastical trial.

Both protests, to be signed by fundamentalist commissioners, were placed in the record by the Rev. H. McAllister Griffiths, of Philadelphia, principal leader of that group in the assembly.

The Rev. Walter H. Westerfield, of Bergenfield, N. J., later requested Mr. Griffiths to withdraw the protests, but the latter said his conscience forbade him from complying.

The fundamentalist leader contends the merger plan sacrifices important parts of his church's doctrine, and that the independent mission board in no way violates the church's constitution.

Nine members were elected to the general council's class of 1937: The Rev. Joseph M. Broady, of Birmingham, Ala.; the Rev. William T. Paterson, Cincinnati, O.; Judge Adrian Lyon, of Perthy Amboy, N. J.; Frank B. Bell, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. George L. Robinson, of Chicago; Dr. Cleland B. McAfee and Dr. E. Graham Wilson, both of New York City, and Dr. Harold McAfee Robinson and Dr. Henry B. Master, both of Philadelphia.

John Grief Buchanan, of Pittsburgh, was among three elected to the Board of Foreign Missions to fill vacancies.

Cuba Holds Spaniard In Caffery Plot

HAVANA, May 31.—(AP.)—Rodriguez Blanco, a Spaniard, was held in jail today as a suspect in the recent attempt to assassinate Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador.

Blanco denied that he was a member of the group which fired on Caffery's home Sunday, but he was held for further investigation.

Suspect in Slayings Trapped on Street

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP.)—Sought in connection with slayings in Baltimore and Philadelphia, James Orlando was arrested on a street corner by detectives who said they had an "inside tip" from the Maryland city.

They stated Orlando, captured last night, was wanted in the slaying of Mrs. Yetta Cohen, Susie Ricci and Patrolman Fred J. Dolan in January, 1933. The women were shot in an alleged disorderly house and the patrolman was slain while pursuing their assailant.

Eugenie Besserer, Film 'Mother,' Dies

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—(INS.)—Death of Eugenie Besserer, 64, stage and screen actress famed for mother roles, put a halt today to plans for a celebration of the golden wedding anniversary with her husband, Albert W. Hegger, former art dealer. Miss Besserer made her stage debut when she was nine years old in a Maurice Barrymore stage production in New York.

$850,000 DAILY LOSS IN WHEAT BY DROUGHT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—(AP.)—A blazing sun mocked the water-hungry wheat lands today, condemning a million cattle to premature slaughter and burning down another million bushels of wheat.

Temperatures that hit 106 degrees doomed the cattle. The government announced they would be slaughtered to relieve farmers in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Texas, where feed shortages prevail.

George E. Farrell, of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, estimated the daily wheat abandonment due to drought at 1,000,000 bushels—roughly $850,000. He noted that the drought conditions are especially acute in northern states. Nevertheless farmers in Kansas, which grows a fourth or more of the wheat produced in the United States, looked with increasing concern at their blown-out and deadened fields. In many parts no rain had fallen for more than a month.

Walter W. McLaughlin, director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, foresaw the danger of milk famines in many cities of that state unless dairy farmers receive help against the worst drought in Illinois history.

Augmenting the drought menace in the northern states were hordes of grasshoppers which have begun to feed on crops in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Memorial Day marked a veritable tide of record-smashing temperatures with Sioux City, Ia., and Huron, S. D., the nation's hot beds, each with 106 degrees. Temperatures above 100 were reported from cities in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Texas.

Denver reported rain and hail storms from that city south to Littleton, Colo. In North Denver, the rain was so heavy that streets soon became covered with water.

LEGION TO JOIN DEDICATION

Representatives of the American Legion are expected to take part in the dedication of a memorial in West Park, Saturday, in honor of 118 of Gen. John Morgan's officers who were captured by Union troops and imprisoned in Western Penitentiary.

The dedication is sponsored by the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. Invitations to participate have been declined by the Grand Army of the Republic and the Federated Patriotic Societies.

County Commander George E. Grimm, of the Legion, in a statement paved the way for the participation by the Legion. He said:

"Our country called men from both North and South in the war we fought in, and asked North and South to make equal sacrifices."

RANK AND FILE STEEL LEADERS REPUDIATED

Michael F. Tighe, international president of the Amalgamated, and himself. Miller said no conclusions were reached and another meeting with Johnson was set for later today.

30-HOUR WEEK AIM

Miller said among the demands presented to Johnson was the establishment of a 30-hour week in certain branches of the steel industry where operation is continuous. Miller added:

"We also discussed union recognition, but made little headway."

Tighe and other steel union leaders claim steel operators have violated the labor clause of the Recovery Act by refusing to recognize their union for collective bargaining. They have threatened to strike in mid-June if they were not given the recognition they demand.

Forbeck, leader of the "rank and file" committee; William J. Spang, president of the Duquesne (Pa.) union district, and Clarence Irwin, of Youngstown, O., told reporters while they waited that the one hope of averting trouble lay in having President Roosevelt bring the leaders of the steel industry to Washington for a conference that would adjust their demand for "recognition."

SCOFF AT PARLEYS

They said they did not expect any results from current conferences with the National Labor Board and NRA, and expressed extreme bitterness over the failure of these agencies and the President to help thm up to now.

Of Hugh S. Johnson Forbeck said:

"That big windbag has caused us all the trouble we are in. The only thing Johnson ever did was to ball things up.

"We believe President Roosevelt will go through with his promise to give us elections if there is enough pressure behind him.

"We've got to demonstrate. We can't bring two or three hundred thousand workers down here, so this (a strike) is the way to do it."

Forbeck said his group intended leaving Washington today to confer at Uniontown, Pa., with leaders of United Mine Workers in the steel companies' captive mines. He hoped, he said, to bring them out in a sympathy strike and also had his mind on possibilities of a new strike in the automobile industry.

DARROW BOARD IN NEW REPORT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The second report of the Darrow Review Board will not be submitted until President Roosevelt returns next week, it was announced today by W.O. Thomson, board member.

Like the first it will deal with eight NRA codes. Thompson, who, with Chairman Clarance Darrow, signed the supplementary report poingting to a socialized industry in place of the present recovery administration, would not say if he intended to accompany the report with another supplement. He observed:

"If I have anything to say, I'll say it, regardless of the furore caused by the first supplement report."

Thompson, according to other members of the board, was the author of the supplementary report which Darrow is reported to have signed without reading.

Boy Scouts Convene National Council

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 31.—(AP.)—With "building citizens" for a theme, the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America opened its twenty-fourth annual conference here today.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt are the principal speakers. Both will be heard tonight.

New Coal Code Changes Aimed At Steel Abuses

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Here are some of the changes made in the steel code, either at government insistence to meet "justifiable complaints and criticisms" or on motion of the code authority to improve workability.

PRICE PROVISIONS

Code authority power to set aside "unfair" prices and fix a "fair base price" is annuled.

Basing point system revised to add Worcester, Mass.; Duluth, Minn.; Corpus Christi, Tex.; Stockton, Cal., and many other points for various products. The Youngstown area will get a transportation allowance.

All-rail transportation charges included in delivered prices may be modified for water or truck haul at rates approved by the code authority and NRA. Sales below the published price also are permitted under same regulation.

Any manufacturer may meet a lower price quoted by a competitor without the 10 day notice period required on original filings.

LABOR

The eight-hour day is established unconditionally for the entire industry. The average work week remains at 40 hours, six days maximum.

ADMINISTRATION

The administrator is empowered to suspend and disapprove any code authority action deemed by him a modification of the code or exemption from it.

UNFAIR PRACTICES

Products not properly classified as "scrap" may not be sold as such.

CONTRACTURAL FREEDOM

Limitation against long-term contracts to prevent speculation is suspended to allow such contracts for identified structures, railroad cars, locomotives, definite federal, state, county or municipal projects.

Prices fixed in contracts to be fulfilled in the next quarter may be reduced to give customers the benefit of general declines or reductions by competitors.

SMALL ENTERPRISES

Expenses of the code are apportioned entirely on basis of invoiced value of delivered products during the preceding year, reducing the bill for small mills which formerly were assumed to have an arbitrary bottom of volume. The little mills all keep one vote, whether or not they make the one-vote volume.

Waterfront Tense After 'Red' Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—(AP.)—San Francisco's waterfront, along which police charged men and women rioters for the second time in a week, remained tense today as striking Pacific longshoremen voiced opposition to an employers' peace proposal.

Officers yesterday broke up a demonstration which authorities declared was led by "girl communists." Twenty-four persons, including two policemen, received hospital treatment for injuries.

WAGNER URGES 2 LABOR BILL AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Two amendments designed to restore some of the provisions of the original Wagner labor bill were introduced today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, author of the proposal for outlawing unfair industrial practices.

One of the amendments would permit the proposed industrial adjustment board to hear complaints of unfair labor practices on its own initiative without waiting for action by the Department of Labor.

The other would restore some of the mediation powers conferred upon the board in the original bill, but transferred to the Labor Department under the revised measure approved by the Senate Labor Committee.

After introducing the amendments, Wagner told newspapermen he expected the bill to be passed at this session. He said:

"With the situation confronting us and no machinery to handle it, there must be legislation of this kind."

Wagner would not interfere with the bill's provision placing all conciliators under the Labor Department, but said in considering a dispute involving unfair labor practices, the board might find a chance to settle other issues and should have the power to do so.

COAL MEN GIVE APPLAUSE TO 'CHISELER'

A NRA code "chisler" stole the show at a hearing on the retail solid fuel industry code today.

Members of the code autority and coal dealers applauded him for his frank statement that he was a "chisler" after he explained that the practice was necessary for him under present competitive conditions.

The hearing was held to determine whether an emergency exists in the industry to nectssitate regulation of prices. Somplaints against price-cutting and operating conidtions were made by many coal dealersf rom 18 Western Pennsylvania counties.

The dealer who, by his own admission, is a "chisler" was John Vensel, Westmoreland County. He said:

"A lot of us fellows are in the same boat, but I don't think they have the nerve to say so."

Vensel explained he owns a mine and charges only 10 cents a ton to truck coal to the consumer. He admitted he was making a profit in the mining operation, taking a loss on the hauling. He added:

"I am doing it, but not through unwillingness to cooperate. It is necessary because of competition and conditions around us in our area."

Vensel explained he had made an effort to organize others to establish fair practices, but had been unable to do so.

Numerous complaints from dealers were against truckers who, they said, were underselling, and truckers who testified they could not operate profitably because of price-cutting.

THRONGS CHEER PRESIDENT AT GETTYSBURG

By EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service.

GETTYSBURG, May 31.—A new spirit of patriotism and national pride, sounding the doom of sectionalism and selfishness, was envisioned yesterday by President Roosevelt in a Memorial Day address delivered on this—the nation's bloodiest battleground.

The President said this new understanding and sense of brotherhood is shared alike by city dwellers and farmers, and by the people of the North, South, East and West.

Only three elements, he added, stand apart and block the path to progress and national development.

They are those who profit by the distortion of facts; those who seek to gain unfair advantage, and those who live within "their own narrow spheres," uninterested in their fellow Americans.

DEFENSE OF PROGRAM

While President Roosevelt made only indirect reference to current affairs, his remarks were obviously a defense of the program which he has inaugurated in federal affairs. His speech was broadcast over national radio chains.

Praising the new spirit of cooperation, the President said:

"We are all brothers in a new understanding. The grain farmers of the West do not set themselves up for preference if we seek at the same time to help the cotton farmers of the South; nor do the tobacco growers complain of discrimination if, at the same time, we help the cattle men of the plains and mountains.

"In our planning to lift industry to normal prosperity, the farmer upholds our efforts. And as we give the farmer a long-sought equality, the city worker understands and helps. All of us share in whatever good comes to the average man. We know that we all have a stake—a partnership in the government of our country."

STRIKING PHRASES

The President's talk resembled the immortal speech of President Lincoln, delivered on the same battleground, in its brevity. It was filled with striking phrases. He referred to the Civil War as the "brothers war," and he spoke of Gettysburg as this "holy ground."

President Roosevelt was introduced by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, a Republican who has supported the program of the national administration at Washington.

The President came here on a special train after a busy morning of work at the White House, which included his semi-weekly conference with the press. After his speech, he departed without delay for New York to review the United States fleet off Sandy Hook.

In his Gettysburg talk, the President said George Washington was the first American to realize the need for uniting the people of the country. Had Washington's advice been heeded, the President said, the war of the states might never have occurred.

FLEET PASSES IN REVIEW

PARADE OF SHIPS

The United States fleet flagship, the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, under the four-star blue flag of Admiral D. F. Sellers, led the line of march.

For nearly an hour the ships passed, with all men in full dress uniform and the rails manned—a tradition of the sea, with men spaced at arms length about the rails.

As each vessel drew abreast of the President, the crew came to hand salute, the guard presented arms, the band played the national anthem and each saluting ship—battleships and cruisers—in turn gave the presidential salute of 21 guns, fired at five second intervals.

PRESIDENT PROUD

The President, himself a seagoing man and once assistant secretary of the Navy, accpted each salute and eyed the ships and men closely, proudly, as the 700,000-ton power of the navy was spread before him.

The flagship Pennsylvania, after passing in review, anchored in the reviewing line, and the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington, each with two escort destroyers, and the U. S. S. Langley took places favorable to launching their planes.

As the last ship in line passed the President, the carriers released their planes, a swarm blackening the sky for half an hour, storming about in formations, laying smoke screens, flying and zooming in horizontal and dive bombings.

'THE FLEET'S IN'

The ships of the fleet executed a counter-march and fell in behind the reviewing vessels as they weighed anchor and the President's ship led the way in a stately parade to land. The 12 air squadrons, representing 174 planes, returned to nest and to ride in on the decks of their carriers.

Thousands of spectators saw the review at sea from steamers and private vessels and planes, but literally millions lined the New York and New Jersey shores to watch the procession of ships into the harbor and to cheer:

"The fleets in!"

Johnstown Honors Flood, War Dead

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—The city's soldier dead and the 3,000 victims of the Johnstown flood were honored alike in the Memorial Day services.

Among the graves decorated in Grandview Cemetery were those of the 777 persons who perished in the swirling waters and never were identified.

JUNE THE MONTH OF ROSES

3 GIRLS LOSE IN DIET DERBY

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP.)—Everybody lost in the diet derby.

The 30-day event, in which three women tried different diets to shed excess poundage, ended last night with all three entrants the losers.

But they were winners because with each pound removed the dieters gained in beauty, health and energy, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, who supervised the derby, said.

A total of 32 pounds was lost by the three women, whose diets included quantities of bananas and skimmed milk in combination with other necessary foods.

The entrants and the weights each lost were: Alice Joy, 9¼; Felicia Terry, 14, and Deon Craddock, 8½.

FREE LODGINGS FOR 200,000

More than 200,000 homeless men have received free lodgings in the dormitories of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, according to a report submitted by H. W. Shepard, secretary to the Association's board of Trustees today.

The report shows that 4,233 wandering boys were registered at the Association's recently created Boy's Bureau, and that 549 children have been given vacations at the AIP fresh air farm in Oakmont.

Exhibit at Fair Waits While Robin Nests

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP.)—Plans for an exhibit at the Century of Progress have been altered because a couple of robins chose to rear their four youngsters near the Avenue of Flags.

Employes preparing the exhibit started to remove the tree in which the birds built their nest, but were ordered not to disturb mother and father robin until their youngsters are able to fly.

KILLS HIS WIFE, BLINDS SELF

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Accused of slaying his wife, Dominick Furlani, 30, is in a critical condition in a Uniontown hospital, blinded by a bullet he fired into his head.

Detective Jack Hann says the man's attempt to commit suicide was all that saved the two Furlani children from their mother's fate.

The detective says Furlani shot Mrs. Furlani after a family dispute and then fired a bullet into his head. Blinded, he stumbled into the children's bedroom, seeking the two. The officer said they had fled to a neighbor's home for help.

Irene Rich Guardian For Daughter, 17

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—(INS.)—Irene Rich, film star, today was named guardian of a daughter, Martha Irene Rich, 17, in order to convert certain life insurance policies into other forms of insurance and a trust fund.

KENNEDY SUIT CONTINUED

Efforts to remove Joseph W. Kennedy and his brother, Julian Kennedy Jr., as executors of the estate of their father, Julian Kennedy, engineer, will come up for further hearing in Orphans' Court before Judge Thomas P. Trimble June 7 or 8.

In continuing the proceedings instituted by Mrs. J. O. Miller and Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, also executors, to have their brothers removed, Judge Trimble remarked:

"If there had been complete disclosure in the handling of this case these defendants would not be in this difficulty."

Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg, who represents Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Smith, first suggested to the court that the brothers be removed, the sisters resign and that a trust company be appointed executor. This suggestion followed when Judge Trimble said from the bench:

"Up to this point I feel inclined to put the costs on the estate."

Attorney Arensberg later suggested that all four resign, but this was not acted upon. The court held the brothers were arbitrary and that the sisters should have been consulted in all transactions.

Man Beaten by Gang On Trip to Friends

Police today are investigating the story of John Campbell, 37, of 1230 Hamlin street, who, from his bed in Allegheny General Hospital, told police he was beaten by some men upon his return to the home of friends in the 800 block North Lincoln avenue, yesterday. He is suffering from a head injury.

8 Natives Doomed In Prospector Deaths

PORT DARWIN, Australia, May 31.—(AP.)—Eight natives were sentenced to death yesterday after being convicted of the murder of two gold prospectors named Traynor and Fagan, in November, 1932.

Sprinkler System Damages Building

Considerable damage was done by water to the Baltimore and Ohio freight building at Sandusky street and River avenue when a slight fire set off a sprinkler system in the Brubaker Paper Company on the fifth floor. Firemen called by a still alarm were in the building two hours before the sprinkler was checked.

Driver Accused Following Crash

John Seibel, 39, of 28 Lodge avenue, Overbrook, faced reckless driving charges today after police reported he had driven his automobile into a parked car and then crashed into a porch at 199 Steuben sereet.

Jolted From Auto, Girl Badly Hurt

Jolted from an automobile as it rolled off the Camp Horne road, Lillian Eckart, 18, Bellevue, was in a serious condition today in Suburban Hospital in Bellevue.

Miss Eckart was a passenger of Ralph Wise, of West View, when Wise's automobile was crowded from the highway.

Huey Long Aide, Foe Battle With Fists

BATON ROUGE, La., May 31.—(AP.)—The lobby of the Heidelburg Hotel was thrown into an uproar last night by a fist fight between Representative Peter Chasse, an anti-administration member of the Legislature from New Orleans, and Edward Millet, a former New Orleans patrolman who aided the campaign for John Klorer in New Orleans when Senator Huey P. Long offered Klorer for Mayor last January and lost.

The fighters were separated by State Senator Charles A. Byrne, of New Orleans.

Swissvale, Duquesne Schools Will Picnic

Two school districts, each with seven grade and high schools, will hold a joint outing in Kennywood tomorrow. The districts are Swissvale and Duquesne, and will be represented by nearly 10,000 children and teachers. D. S. Daily superintendent of Swissvale schools, and C. H. Wolford, Duquesne superintendent, are in charge. Schools at Kennywood today are those of Rankin and Braddock.

ARMS PARLEY HOPES GROW DIMMER

GENEVA, May 31.—(AP.)—Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, said today that never before have prospects for success of the conversations been so unpromising. He declared:

"The clouds have never hung so low."

Henderson made the gloomy observation after talks with Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and the delegates from Spain, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland.

WEIGH SOVIET PLEA

Representatives of powers not involved in the differences between France and Great Britain met at frequent intervals in an effort to devise a plan to save the conference. Recently the neutral powers had advocated some rearmament for Germany, coupled with security.

Serious consideration is being given the plea of Maxim Litvinoff that the conference be turned into a permanent anti-war body.

SITUATION GRAVE

The great possibility of this plan, observers pointed out, is that it might provide means for the United States, Russia, Japan and even Germany—none a league member—to collaborate regularly with Geneva without joining the league or subscribing to its pledges.

Because of the situation created by speeches yesterday, particularly that of Barthou in which he ridiculed British proposals and attacked Germany, no session was planned today.

Already pessimistic, the conference was made more so by the apparent split between France and England. Its consequences, it was feared, would be far-reaching.

LEAGUE COURT ENTRY SHELVED

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The League Court has been unanimously shelved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee until the next session of Congress.

It was a smashing defeat for forces seeking immediate Senate ratification of the protocols for American adherence to the league tribunal.

The committee decided that injection of the court issue at this time would jeopardize domestic recovery legislation.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, offered the motion pigeonholing the court. At his suggestion the committee adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved by the Committee on Foreign Relations that at the first meeting of the committee at the next regular session of Congress, the protocols relating to the World Court be proceeded with, and that consideration of the same be concluded as early as practicable during that session."

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, leader of the fight against America's becoming entangled in the League Court, said:

Germans Dispute Reichbishop's Power

BARMEN, Germany, May 31.—(AP.)—The self-constituted Free Senate of Barmen made public today the text of a pronouncement which amounts to a new confession of religious faith.

Church law experts who advised the Free Senate yesterday contended its claim to authority is well founded; that Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller has no legal power to issue his so-called emergency decrees which the Senate refuses to recognize, and that the decrees may be regarded void.

Germany Withdraws Envoys to Vatican

BERLIN, May 31.—(INS.)—Germany will no longer be represented at the Vatican by special representatives, the government announced today. As part of the Reich reform movement the representatives of Bavaria, a Catholic state, and Prussia will be withdrawn and hereafter Germany will be represented at the Holy See only by the German Ambassador to Italy.

Priest and Educator Jailed in Persecution

TRIESTE, Italy, May 31.—(AP.)—Father Rutar and Prof. Musizza, of the Gorizia Theological Seminary, were sentenced today to five years' confinement on charges they persecuted Italian students for the priesthood.

Their arrest followed recent agitation in civil circles claiming Bishop Luigi Fogar, of Trieste, carried on religious propaganda against the Fascist regime.

Bolivia Appeals To League for Chaco War End

GENEVA, May 31.—(AP.)—Bolivia appealed to the League of Nations under two articles of the covenant today to end its war with Paraguay in the Chaco Boreal of South America.

This came at the very end of a league council meeting after representatives of both nations had spoken to the assembled members.

First, Costa Durels, Bolivian delegate, invoked Article 13 whereby disputing nations may ask arbitration.

He was answered by Caballero Bedoya, Paraguayan representative, who said:

"We cannot allow arbitration to be a snare for the nation's good faith."

Then Costa Durels appealed for a settlement of the dispute under Article 15 which authorizes the council to make recommendations for the settlement of disputes without the vote of the disputants.

The latter article is a step preceding the possible application of military measures against an aggressor nation. It authorizes the council to publish a report of the dispute.

PARIS TO MIMIC GAS RAID

PARIS, May 31.—(AP.)—Citizens of Paris will smell imaginary gas, go into an imaginary panic and hastily put on imaginary gas masks on June 9.

All the activity will be a drill for protection against air raids, and an incident of the nation-wide military maneuvers.

The gas masks will be imaginary because the government cannot decide which of several types to buy. But screaming sirens which are to give warning of the "attack" will be real.

Veterans Break Up Anti-War Rally

HAVERHILL, Mass., May 31.—(AP.)—A Memorial Day anti-war demonstration by a group of boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20 years was broken up here yesterday by a phalanx of war veterans and police.

VIENNA CHEERS HAPSBURG

VIENNA, May 31.—(AP.)—A member of the imperial Hapsburg family paraded the streets of Vienna today and Vienna, ancient seat of Hapsburg power, applauded enthusiastically.

The representative of the old royalty was Archduke Eugene, who a week ago returned to Austria from a long exile in Switzerland.

Attired in the ceremonial robes of a grandmaster of the Order of German Knights, the archduke participated in the annual Corpus Christi procession. More than 100,000 Viennese lined the curbs to catch a glimpse of him, and he was received joyfully.

BROTHER TOLD OF KIN AFTER 25 YEARS

Today Frank A. Marlow, 25, of Wilkinsburg, lives as if in a dream, surprised and confused.

His life, serene for 25 years as the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Marlow, of Verona, is suddenly topsy-turvy, the result of the reunion in Waynesburg, Pa., this week of two brothers, separated since infancy, and a sister they had never seen.

With mingled emotions, Marlow, a route foreman for a Pittsburgh grocery firm, reviewed the story:

"I had never been told I was adopted, but I probably would have learned it sooner or later.

"The whole thing is more or less of a shock. I hadn't the faintest idea of anything like that until about two weeks ago. It's sort of like an old dream."

Asked his reaction to discovery of a brother and a sister, Marlow said:

"Well—we had some time down at Waynesburg. For a while we could hardly believe it, but facts are facts, you know.

"Funny thing is that none of us look alike."

The reunion followed petition of the sister, Mrs. Geraldine Wilson, of Wheeling, W. Va., in the Greene County Court that her brothers be declared dead in order to settle an inheritance.

Reading newspaper accounts of the proceedings in Waynesburg, the foster parents of Marlow and his brother, George E. Leonhart, 24, of Crawford County, revealed their foster sons' identities.

At the time of their adoption, from the Greene County Children's Home, the brothers were Frank and Edward Anderson. Both of the brothers are married. Each is to receive about $900 and interests in an oil tract from the estate in litigation.

Mrs. Burnett Named Relief Board Aide

Word has been received here of the appointment of Mrs. Mary C. Burnett, head of the department of social work at Margaret Morrison college of Carnegie Tech, as director of training for the State Emergency Relief Board at Harrisburg. Mrs. Burnett has been granted a leave of absence from the college to take up her new duties.

Globe Trotter Gets Byrd Aide's Letter

The Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter today received a letter with the first batch of mail from Little America. The letter is postmarked "Little America Antarctica, January 31, 1934," and the stamp is a special United States postage Byrd Antarctic Expedition II stamp. The enclosed card carries best wishes from Finn Ronne, Pittsburgher in charge of Admiral Byrd's dog teams.

Japanese Launch 8,500-Ton Cruiser

NAGASAKI, Japan, May 31.—(AP.)—The new Japanese cruiser Mikuma, sister ship to the Mogami, was launched today.

The new ship cost about $12,500,000, is designed for a speed of 33 knots, and is rated as an 8,500-ton vessel. Although a "B class" cruiser, the Mikuma carries 15 rifles of 6.1-inch caliber in 5 triple turrets.

Fugitives Traced By Prison Truck

READING, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Three convicts who escaped from the Berks County Prison are being sought in the vicinity of Minersville, after being traced to that section through the movements of a truck stolen from the prison farm.

Police said the fugitives, Leon Odagus, Pottsville; Casimir Zielaskowski and Gus Nazzaro, Reading, spent the night in a roadhouse after escaping from the prison Tuesday.

This is the second summer for it, because it opened last spring, but it is almost like a new fair this year.

Probably you have all been to a big circus, and so you know what a big show the circus is. The World's Fair is like a hundred circus shows, only it's bigger and more fun. And there are a hundred times as many interesting things to see.

Maybe you know somebody who was there last summer. Well, we hear, and we're pretty sure it's right, that this new fair will be much better and finer than the one your friend told you he saw last summer. And lots of people who saw it last year are going again—there are so many new things.

The fair is right in Chicago's "front yard." At Chicago there is a big lake, right in front of the city. Big dredges and barges and steam shovels filled in the land along the lake and out into the water, so that a big piece of lake became solid ground for a big park Chicago wanted to build.

The fair is on that land. And the land surrounds another small lake called the lagoon. The buildings scattered all over—dozens of them. And they are all colors and look like fairyland, they are so different from ordinary buildings. And at night the whole fair glows with colored lights. Great lights sparkle on the huge fountains, where the water is tossed high in the air like spray from the waves.

Inside the buildings there are many things to see—all of them interesting things. Altogether, the fair shows what men have done during the last 100 years, and then goes ahead and tries to show you the way things will be many years from now. You shouldn't miss it. Going to school is fun if you like to learn things, as you should. You will learn many things at the fair if you go. And you won't know you are learning them. You won't have to try at all.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Pious Wishes, Rather Than Brawl, Likely At Arms Meet

WASHINGTON, May 31.—World statesmen are getting hot readlines again by digging the disarmament question out of its grave for a brief official airing at Geneva.

The exhumation ceremony this year is recognized by old hands in the State Department as the annual spring European crisis.

As crises go in Europe, this one has a slightly more sensational background than usual. Our people are privately worried, but not excited.

The inner problem is not disarmanent, but keeping up the illusion that there is any hope for disarmament. All the nations are building more ships and guns and do not intend to stop. All know there is no more chance for a disarmament agreement than there is for Hitler and the French to shake hands and make up.

None of the nations at heart really wants disarmament, except the United States and Russia, and you cannot be sure about Russia, while war with Japan is a possibility.

PROSPECTS

If the cooler heads have their way, the Geneva Conference will not be permitted to end in a fight. There will be a few pious expressions to cover over current international ill feeling. After a few days of brotherly love, the disarmament issue will be re-interred in the same quiet graveyard where the London Economic Conference lies. Then everyone can go home and build more ships and guns.

That is the most our people really hope for. That is what they think will happen.

It sounds silly, but it is the only sensible thing to do. A pious expression of a hopeless hope is better than a brawl.

PREPARATIONS

The statesmen got themselves in the proper spiritual attitude for such an armed love-feast when they agreed that the Russo-Japanese situation would not be thought of at the conference.

It would be just as easy to eliminate oxygen from the air in Geneva. It is similarly difficult for the Franco-German situation not to be considered in actions if not in words.

France and Germany are bristling so much with war talk that a few days ago, when the French moved two army corps to the Alsatian border, numerous residents of a town abandoned their homes and slept the night in the woods. They thought the shooting might start any minute.

Somewhat the same underlying temper of the people was manifest when the Hitlerites raided an anti-Hitler society headquarters in the Saar and confiscated the names of society members, apparently for use in determining who should vote in the Saar plebescite next year. Feelings like those cannot be suppressed by agreement.

ENCOURAGEMENT

The United States diplomats will never say so publicly, but they are pleased to see France and Russia moving toward a defensive alliance. Such an alliance would do more to prolong European peace than a dozen disarmament conferences in the existing situation.

The alliance is a gentle hint to Hitler that he cannot fight France until he is strong enough to whip Russia at the same time. It will be a long time before Hitler becomes that strong.

For that reason, England and Italy may not interfere, although the alliance leave Mussolini out on a limb by himself, and does not help John Bull.

U. S.-BRITAIN

The Japanese situation is driving us closer and closer to Great Britain in the backstage alignments.

Nothing has been put on paper yet, and probably nothing will be, but there is good ground for believing that we have already reached the incipient basis of a personal gentleman's agreement with Britain about Japanese possibilities.

If Japan should seize a Pacific stronghold of either party, for instance, it is highly improbable that our fleet would run into the British fleet, even if there was a fog.

COLD WATER

What keeps these things from being as exciting as they sound is the fact that no one seems to be ready to throw the first brick.

All the nations are strengthening their defenses, making alliances and talking about what they will do, but the inside situation is such that anyone who starts the fight is almost certain to get the worst of it.

Japan and Germany are supposed to be the two bad boys who might start trouble. Japan has been out-jockeyed by Russian diplomacy during the last six months. Germany really has no intention of fighting until she recovers strength enough to make fighting worth while.

Therefore, at least half the trouble seems to be diplomatic rather than pugilistic.

NOTES

Two of the President's best advisors did not agree with his original intentions regarding the arms embargo resolution. They thought it unwise for us to move without the Johnson amendment requiring the embargo to be applied to all warring nations . . . Our officials were amused at Britain's action in suddenly taking the lead for an international embargo on arms to the Chaco. Britain has been permitting the sale of its own airplanes to Germany. Although ostensibly commercial ships, these could be converted into fighting planes in a few hours . . . The suspicion is abroad in the best quarters that some other nation, perhaps France or Czecho-Slovakia, has captured the lion's share of the Chaco munitions trade . . . One thing about this administration is that all advisors, from State Secretary Hull on down to the office boys, agree that quiet and polite nationalism is the best policy. No one wants to go out and save the world. They know very well it can't be done.

American Diplomats Like France-Russia Pact Prospect

MRS. ROOSEVELT HAILS ARTISTS

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told several hundred women writers and artists yesterday that the government "needs the artistic expression of the people."

The First Lady attended a reception in her honor at the Pen and Brush Club, an organization of which she is an honorary member.

She said she hoped permanent benefit to artists would grow out of the Public Works Administration and asserted two persons "high up in government circles" had suggested the possibility of having a certain percentage of the appropriations for public buildings "automatically go for declaration."

FORD 'FOOLED' ON FOSTER? STILL DEBATED

Niece of Composer Believes Auto Maker 'Duped'

Did Henry Ford purchase the actual birthplace of Stephen Collins Foster or was he "duped?"

The old controversy still rages, with both the Ford forces and the Foster clan maintaining their distinct theories, and each holding that they are right.

Herewith the Sun-Telegraph presents a statement by Mrs. Evelyn Foster Morneweck, of Detroit, niece of the famed composer, in which she contends the automobile magnate has purchased "just a very nice old specimen of early Pittsburgh architecture."

BOUGHT FIRST, THEN—

She says:

"I have known since Mr. Park bought the property at 3600 Penn avenue, and presented it to the city for a Foster memorial, that maps and records existed which proved that the large brick house now on the property stands where the old Foster home, known as the 'white cottage,' used to be. This cottage came into the possession of Malcolm Leech in 1827, who later built a large brick house beside it. Still later, the frame cottage was torn down and a brick wing substituted.

"Mr. Ford's agent called on me in Detroit on May 11 last and I urged him then to find these papers before buying the house at 3414 Penn avenue. He drove me down to Pittsburgh on May 14, astensibly to help find these records, but I learned on my arrival in Pittsburgh that the purchase had already been made. The fact is, they bought first and since then have been hustling around securing affidavits from retired steel workers and other worthy persons testifying that they heard someone say that Stephen Foster had been born in the house.

"The house which my grandfather, William B. Foster, built some time in 1814 or 1815, was situated on lot No. 9 of the original Lawrenceville plat, and the house Mr. Ford bought stands at least 1,000 feet from lot No. 9, on lots 6 and 7. The original map, surveyed by the Rev. John Taylor, surveyor, teacher and first minister of Trinity Episcopal Church, the same map used by William B. Foster when he was selling off the lots from 1815 on, shows the Foster house drawn in on lot No. 9.

CITES 'NAIVE REMARK'

"This ancient map is on file in the County Building. It is so well-worn and dilapidated that a clear and authentic copy, made some time in the 1880's, is shown to visitors, but we were allowed to see the old original map, and have a photostat made of it.

"Mr. Ford's representative, when shown this map on May 23, said he had seen it before, but he did not consider it as proof, because, as he naively remarked, "anybody could have drawn that house in afterwards," despite the fact that it is drawn in in exactly the same ink, and the name 'W. B. Foster' is written in the same handwriting as the rest of the document.

"With the kind assistance of of Mr. Dobson and Mr. Scott, we traced the maps in the County Building down through the years, and found the house in the same place, down to the present day, though it changed ownership several times.

"In addition to these authentic maps, there are in the possession of Mr. George W. Brown, title examiner for the Philadelphia Company, genuine documents showing that the United States Bank foreclosed the mortgage on my grandfather's property on May 6, 1826. William B. Foster stayed on, paying rent to the bank. Stephen was born there on July 4, 1826.

FAMILY LETTERS

"On September 6, 1827, the bank sold the property, lot No. 9, to Malcolm Leech for $4,000, with this statement on the deed, 'being the premises now in the tenure occupancy of William B. Foster.' The Fosters continued to rent the place from Malcolm Leech until some time after 1829. Family letters in my possession show that they were living at the 'White Cottage' in October, 1829. In 1832, the family was living in a large frame house on the banks of the Ohio River, opposite Smoky Island.

"Mr. Brown's deeds also show that the bank sold to William Toman on January 8, 1828, two lots, Nos. 6 and 7, in the Lawrenceville plan, for $500 for the two. No. 8, a very large lot next to the Fosters, was sold to George Scott in 1816. This bears out Mrs. Maria Leech Lynch's statement that the Scotts lived next to the Fosters, and the Tomans lived at the 'Forks of the Road.'

"The house which Mr. Ford has bought as the Foster home was erected at a very early date on lots 6 and 7, but there is no record of a house being on the property when William Toman bought it in 1828. Mr. Ford's representative admitted on May 23 that he has not a scrap of contemporary documentary evidence to show that any member of the Foster family ever spent one day in the house at 3414 Penn avenue.

'BACK TO BEDROCK'

"I am purposely refraining from mentioning any testimony of my father, Morrison Foster, and my grandmother, Eliza C. Foster, and the evidence of old neighbors who really knew the Fosters, not just heard of them, whose written words support the authentic documents described above. I wish to get down to bedrock, and confine this statement to the legal records which would have to be recognized if this matter were being settled in a court of law.

"In 1896 my father published a 'Songs and Biography of Stephen C. Foster,' in which appears a little drawing of the 'White Cottage' copied from the original painting made by a Pittsburgh artist, Mr. Miller, in 1828. This painting is now in my possession.

"The 'White Cottage' and the Toman house were of similar construction, and the likeness has deceived even members of our family, including myself, until I investigated the facts. The presence of the brick house on the property explains why people have continued to assert that the house at 3414 Penn avenue must be the real 'White Cottage.' They do not pretend to be antiquarian experts, however.

"One of these experts from Detroit has even fixed the date of the building of the house Mr. Ford has purchased as 1812. If this were true, it would prove conclusively that William B. Foster didn't build the house—he didn't buy the property until 1814, and an old map of Lawrenceville in 1814, made by surveyors before William B. Foster laid out the lots on his property along the Turnpike road (now Penn avenue) shows no house anywhere near the Forks of the Road, except a large tavern on the opposite side of the Butler road. This map can also be found in the archives of the County Building.

"Mr. Ford's experts have secured a very nice old specimen of early Pittsburgh architecture, but the people of Pittsburgh who are paying taxes for the upkeep of the Foster Memorial House at 3600 Penn avenue have a right to know the facts—Mr. Ford has not bought the birthplace of Stephen Collins Foster."

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director — J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Model Builders' Course For Beginners
Lesson VI—Glider Wings and Fuselage

By LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director

Today we are ready to work on the first steps of our first model. We have chosen the baby all-balsa glider for our ial attempt at model building because it is easy to conict, involves no great amount of detail work, yet is an ellent flier and a model with which we can have plenty fun. It also gives us the principle basic points of model rcraft construction.

After we complete this model glider we will take our second step in the construction course for beginners and build our first flying model, similar in design to this first baby all-balsa glider, but advancing our construction work to the flying model stage where we will use a propeller and rubber band to sustain our craft in the air.

The Wings of The Glider

But let's give our attention at this time to the simple little glider which is illustrated in this column for us. Our first step is the wing. This step is a very easy one.

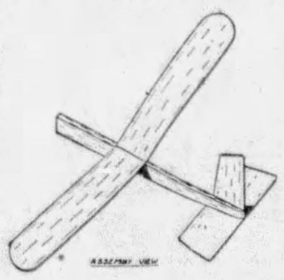
Take your piece of 12-inch balsa sheet wood and with your razor blade trim the width of the sheet down to one and three-eighths (1⅜) inches. Next round the corners off as you can see in diagram "A" in this column. Then take a piece of fine sandpaper and rub the sheet of balsa down smoothly. When this is completed you will have a perfect finished wing for your glider model.

There really wasn't much to that, and the rest of the model is just as simple to make. However, we must yet give our wing a dihedral angle, which I will explain in tomorrow's lesson.

Making the Fuselage

Our next step is to make the fuselage, which is the equal to the body of a real glider. To this we will later attach our wing and our tail unit.

The fuselage is cut from the balsa strip which now measures one-quarter (¼) by one-half (½) by eight (8) inches in length. Take this stick and with your razor blade taper it from the front to the back as shown in illustration "A."



When you have completed tapering the stick, sandpaper it down smoothly and put it aside. That is all there is to the body of our glider and certainly, so far, you should have had no difficulty if you followed the directions and illustrations in today's column.

The only other necessary steps in the completion of our first model are the construction of the tail unit, the splitting of our wings to give it dihedral, putting our model together with model builders' cement and instructions for the proper method of flying it. These final steps will be published in the sixth lesson in our Model Builders' Course for Beginners in tomorrow's column together with further illustrations.

FLIERS TWO VISITING THE WING COMMANDER, WRITING A STORY FOR JUNIOR BIRDMEN

VIOLA GENTRY LAUDS JUNIOR BIRDMEN

Noted Flier Urges Boys and Girls To Join

By MISS VIOLA GENTRY

Noted woman flier, who is known as the "Flying Cashier" because she gave up her job in a Brooklyn restaurant to take up aviation.

I think the Junior Birdmen of America is a grand organization for boys and girls.

I think that everyone of them should join because they are the future pilots of the United States. They will fly airplanes just as easily as their parents drive an automobile today.

It makes me happy to know that girls can join the Junior Birdmen, as well as boys and that many of them are already members because there can be no success in aviation without women. There has never been a successful movement yet without the aid of women.

Girls can build flying and scale model planes equally as good as any boy. I have seen several such airplanes and they were perfect in every detail. I am hoping that a girl will win the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Model Plane Derby at Schenley Oval, Saturday, July 7.

In closing I want to say that there will be lots of jobs in aviation in the future for women who know there jobs well.

I know of no better way to learn about the fundamentals of flying and airplane construction than through the Junior Birdmen. Every girl should become a member.

Busy mothers need a telephone — especially when things go wrong.

You're never lonely with a telephone—it brings your friends to you.

TO HUSBANDS PARTICULARLY

You're at work all day. Back home, your wife is busy with the house and family. She needs a telephone to get things done just as you do in your business.

Without a telephone your wife has to do the marketing in person—rain or shine. She is cut off from the outside world—from her friends—from you. If anything happens, she may be helpless. An accident, sickness, a minor mishap, even a change of plans may be doubly serious.

Why not get her a telephone and play safe? It costs so little, it doesn't pay to do without one. In Pittsburgh you can have a telephone in your home for as little as $2.50 a month (and for even less in the suburbs).

Call the Business Office (a free call from any telephone) and say "I want a telephone."

The Service Connection Charge for residences is $3.00 in Pittsburgh; $2.50 in suburbs. Where there is an instrument already installed, and no change is desired, the charge is $1.50.

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

I've just been looking over the mail that came in after the appearance of William H. McCaffery, the president of the Society of American Magicians, on the radio last Saturday night.

I am beginning to believe that there is something to this pyschic impulse phenomenon that the magician talked about. You remember he said that he was going to concentrate on a color and a number and by the use of telepathy see if you could jot down the same number and color that he was thinking of. Afterwards he disclosed on the radio that the color was red and the number was 7.

Mail today from Nita L. Butler, Kentucky avenue, indicates 100 per cent success as to the correctness of a card trick subsequently put on the radio. C. E. Cyphers enjoyed the broadcast and potted down the correct answers in the psychic test. Clara Sisteck, of Howley street, is congratulating Mr. McCaffery upon his pyschic powers. She received the red and seven impulse.

P. Simmen, during the concentration, kept repeating red-red-red and when the number problem came over the radio his mind went to three, then to ten, back to seven and then dwelt on seven.

Ward McCallister was having dinner in his Vandergrift home at the time of the broadcast, and immediately thought of red as the color, but said that he might have been influenced by the dish of tomatoes immediately in front of him.

Our registration commissioner, Thomas A. Joyce, called immediately following the broadcast to say that he hit the number seven correctly, but due to a recent purchase of a brown and red tie, he thought of the color brown, as well as red.

Mr. Joyce sees a great future for Mr. McCaffery in the registration commissioner's office, perhaps helping the commissioners to weed out phantom registrations.

According to our city editor, J. Alex Zehner, he has just been instrumental in capturing a swarm of gentle home-loving bees, temporarily straying, at 2001 Edgerton avenue.

Our Munhall bee-gatherers are welcome to them and are asked to get over there as soon as possible. They are in the backyard, using an old ballot box as a hive.

BAR FAVORABLE TO SEPARATE COURT

The Allegheny County Bar Association is in full accord with the efforts of local attorneys and county officials to establish a separate criminal court here, the association having gone on record last December in favor of a separate court for the handling of criminal cases, it was stated today.

Attorney William S. Doty, chairman of the bar association's special committee on unauthorized practice of law, said that his committee last October had submitted a report, which included a resolution favoring a separate criminal court. The resolution was passed at the December meeting of the bar association.

The resolution further urged that a special study be made of the subject of a separate court, in time to make recommendations to the people and to candidates for the general assembly, so that ne action could be obtained at legislative session next year.

IENDMENT NEEDED

Attorney Doty said that a constitutional amendment would be necessary before a separate criminal court could be set up in Allegheny County.

The agitation for a separate court has resulted in several conferences being held among county officials. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern announced that a study of the Criminal Court systems in other large cities is to be made in view of establishing a separate court here. Among those attending the conferences were the County Commissioners, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Maj. John H. Shenkel, Clerk of Criminal Court, and others.

Under the present system, judges of Common Pleas Court take turns in serving in Criminal Court, with a president judge of Criminal Court assigned for six months at a time.

The resolution which was approved by the bar association follows:

"Whereas, there has been considerable sentiment in and out of the Bar of Allegheny County that the time has arrived for the establishment of a separate Court of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer to administer criminal law and reduce the burden upon the taxpayers of the county and the commonwealth, resulting from the antiquated systems for restraining and preventing crime, therefore be it:

Resolved, That the President of the Allegheny County Bar Association, together with the committee on legislation, be authorized to request the District Attorney of Allegheny County, and such other members of the legal profession and laity who it believed can aid in suggesting solutions of the problems involved to constitute a special committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association to study the law and report a plan, together with such amendatory or new legislation as shall enable the efficient, energetic and just administration of criminal law in Allegheny County by a separate tribunal to be composed of a sufficient number of judges whose qualifications for service upon this court shall be especially defined, either by Act of Assembly or constitutional amendement, and that such study and plan shall be reported for action by the Allegheny County Bar Association at a regular or special meeting to be called in time to make recommendations to the people and candidates for the House of Representatives and the Senate of the General Assembly to be nominated at the spring primaries of 1934 and elected in November, 1934, for the legislative session of 1935."

PLUNGE KILLS YOUNG MOTHER

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Emery Flinn leaned too far from her eighteenth-story apartment window yesterday in an effort to see her month-old baby photographed for the first time, and fell to her death.

The 25-year-old Mrs. Flinn was a cousin of Anne Cannon Reynolds, first wife of the late Smith Reynolds.

She lost her balance, striking a tenth floor extension and then falling to the pavement. Her neck, skull and both legs were broken. She was rushed to New York Hospital, where she died shortly afterward.

Anna Quick, the child's nurse, was posing the baby in his crib near an open window. Mrs. Flinn was watching through the open window of a room at right angles, trying to fix the infant's attention on herself.

Fifth Ward Election Upset to Roberts

By MARK SHIELDS

Though Republican City Chairman William J. Soost has not yet mailed out formal notices to ward committees for the election of chairmen, he probably will have no option but to accept the action of the Fifth Ward committee, which last night declined to wait for notice, but followed the party rules, and held an election. The rules call for election the third Wednesday after the primary, holiday or no holiday.

Recently the ward has been without the guidance of a chairman, Harry Feldman having departed for California after the debacle which overtook the party in the November election last year. David B. Roberts, who closely controls five districts, and is always willing to take on any extra chores, called last night's meeting with the full expectation that he would be elected chairman.

Instead, much to the surprise and chagrin of Mr. Roberts, Frank Anderson was preferred by a majority of the committee members present, in an election which was carried on with no disorder and a minimum of confusion. It was a bright contrast to some previous Fifth Ward elections, where the police have been used to keep one side out while the other side voted. The only disorder last night was to the expectations of Mr. Roberts.

Anderson Is Friendly To Mr. James F. Malone

Anderson is friendly to James F. Malone, former president of City Council. Mr. Malone waited outside while the voting and debating were proceeding, but it seems from recent developments that Mr. Malone is gradually working himself to the inside, even tough he supported a Democratic candidate for Mayor last November.

The vote was 39 for Anderson to 30 for Roberts, a total of 69 present out of a committee membership of 76. The number of members who responded to the call indicated they took the election seriously, and considered it as finality in the choice of a chairman. Reasonably, a second election would have much the same result, and any attempt by Mr. Soost to call one may meet with refusal of the committee members to respond.

Neither Mr. Roberts nor Mr. Malone has been playing political ball with Mr. Soost, who has been working with Senator James J. Coyne, while Roberts has been going along with Judge Ralph H. Smith, and Mr. Malone has been holding something of a lone and oft-shuffled hand.

Other ward officers elected were Mrs. Betty Gibbs, vice chairman; Anthony Watkins, secretary, and Martin J. Griffin, treasurer. In each instance they defeated candidates who were put forward by Roberts. Constable Earl Sams presided as chairman of the meeting, and both sides appeared to feel that he was fair in his rulings.

Martin Would Remain As State Chairman

State Chairman Edward Martin does not answer direct questions as to whether he will be a candidate for re-election when the Republican State Committee meets in Philadelphia June 9, but there is no doubt but what he wishes the place and believes that affairs have been so arranged that his retention as party head is assured. He said yesterday:

"Some of the fellows seem to want me, and I think I can get a few votes if need them."

The only question as to Martin's future has been the attitude of Joseph R. Grundy, William S. Vare and, to some extent, Attorney General William A. Schnader, the Republican candidate for Governor. Vare already has declared for Martin, and the chairman's friends say that Schnader is not opposed to him.

Those who have opposed Martin have done so on the theory that he and his political philosophy were not such as to inspire the voters in the coming campaign. Grundy's opposition would not be on that basis, of course, as he agrees with Gen. Martin in the latter's legislative attitude.

There were reports that Grundy

URGES 'SPOILS' FOR LOYAL DEMOCRATS

Council Hears Plea to End Civil Service Commission

A woman demanded of City Council this afternoon that the Civil Service Commission be abolished as members of Council prepared to hear complaints of a large army of former employes dismissed by the McNair administration.

Mrs. Anna Maloney, represent- in the Fourth Ward Democratic Club, asked that Council do away with the commission, saying:

"I ask this because it works against the game 'To the victor belong the spoils."

Mrs. Maloney made it plain that she favored the "spoils" system.

Council President Robert Garland explained that Council had no power to abolish the commission, which was created by act of the Assembly.

Council chamber was thronged with former employes discharged or compelled to resign since January 1 by the McNair regime.

Some of those let out were in the exempt class, while others contended they were protected by civil service.

Among the former employes waiting to air their grievances were Mrs. J. Wood Clark, former chief clerk in the accounts and permits division, Public Safety Department; former City Paymaster Louis Glesenkamp; Howard J. Neely, former chief clerk, Bureau of Highways and Sewers; Benjamin L. Steinberg, former assistant city solicitor, and John Murphy, former city assessor.

'REDS' PARADE MINUS BANNERS

Forced by police to leave behind all their inflammatory banners, about 500 Communists and sympathizers staged a Memorial Day parade yesterday on the South Side.

Shortly before 2 p. m., when the parade was scheduled to start, Public Safety Director A. Marshall Bell, Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall and high police officials arrived at South Thirteenth and Sarah streets.

Marshall told Dave Doran, alleged Communist and marshal of the parade, that no parade would be permitted if inflammatory banners were used.

Holding of the parade on Memorial Day had been protested by a group of patriotic organizations as "desecrating" the spirit of the national holiday, but found that a permit for holding the parade had been issued before their protests reached the police.

Council Turns Down Request for Tear Gas

City Council has turned down a request from the Public Safety Department for tear gas equipment. A request for motorcycles for the police was held over. Councilman William A. Magee and Robert Garland favored the purchase of tear gas maces and guns, the others voting against it.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

President Roosevelt is giving Cuba a new treaty, the "godfather" clause is taken out. All their revolutions are to be strictly "home talent." More news down that way, Porta Rica is to be "wet nursed" by the Interior Department instead of the Army, the Phillipines are rehearsing for peace. It won't be long now till our army will all be visiting America at one time. That's the dope, get 'em all home, add to their number, add to their training, then just sit tight with a great feeling of security, and just read about foreign wars. That's the best thing in the world to do with them. Yours, WILL.

Civil War Vets Die As Holiday Dawns

READING, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Death took two of Pennsylvania's Civil War veterans a few hours before they planned to participate in Memorial Day exercises.

At Reading, Thomas C. Knowles died as Memorial Day, the 89th anniversary of his birthday, was dawning. Col. William M. Fisher, commander of the Carbondale post of the Grand Army of the Republic, died at midnight at the age of 92.

World Fair Art Show Animate In Portraying Native Painters

Chicago Presents in Sequence Facts of Yesterday

By PENELOPE REDD

CHICAGO, May 31.—All is swept and garnished in the Art Institute and although the guards tread a measured pace, there is as yet no sound of the public's clamor.

Miss Redd

Tomorrow, June 1, the art exhibition of the Century of Progress will be opened to the public. Despite the fact that the galleries were empty when this review was prepared, the exhibition was not an inanimate thing.

The show is vital and living and projects in chronological sequence the facts of painting that have preceded our American art of today. It is the overture to the future.

America visiting the Art Institute this summer will be shown as never before in the history of our country, what our native painters past and present have done and are doing. In the exhibition of 1,000 paintings and sculptures, the improbable has been achieved.

QUICKENS SPIRIT

Last year's exhibition has been equalled in quite different style and we prophesy this show will make a direct appeal to the public. It is not so awesome in impersonal historic content. The historic aspect that quickens the spirit is the orchestration of American art as worthy of personal pride and incorporation in our immediate lives.

Since the galleries are arranged chronoligically one perforce mentions the historic background first. The European predecessors of our modern American painters occupy seven galleries. Rare masterpieces trace the path of painting from the keyhole madonna of Meliore Toscano, who painted in Tuscany during the Thirteenth Century, to the St. Catherine panel probably of the English school done in the Fourteenth Century, on down to Raeburn, who lived into the Nineteenth Century.

AMERICAN STIMULATING

Resisting temptation to digress by discussing the galleries dedicated to the Italian, Spanish, Dutch and Flemish, French and English paintings of mediaeval and renaissance times, and shutting my eyes to the glorious mirage of French Nineteenth Centuriny painting, I want to pass on to reality and to tell you truthfully that when I had completed the rounds of the 25 galleries I found that the American galleries had most stimulated my imagination.

The contrast of the mystic withdrawal from life of Angelico's "Gabriel" or of Georges Braques' abstract, "The Mantlepiece," as against George Bellows' "Dempsey and Firpo" made me strongly conscious of the authentic contemporary spirit in America.

Today we seem to be about to liberate ourselves from the domination of contemporary French painting as the arch-type of modern art by a rebellion somewhat analogous to that through which we freed ourselves politically from English rule in the Eighteenth Century.

CLOSE TO BRITONS

Logically we find ourselves in the early American gallery. Copely and West, born before 1740, the senior painters of the group, were to all intents and purposes successful British artists. West's relationship with his native land was closer because of the many young American painters whom he befriended.

Of the group born around the mid-Eighteenth Century—Wollaston, Earl, Blackburn, Stuart and Trumbull—Stuart was very close to the style of the Britons whose fame resounds in the auction rooms of today. The "Miss Anne Izard," by Stuart, equals many of the British portraits of the period.

Trumbull was a soldier painter, recording the patriots prominent during the stirring days of the Revolution to the best of a mediocre talent.

The group born in the last two decades of the eighteenth century including Sully, Waldo, Harding and Neagle bring us down through pioneer days and our early industrial development to the dawn of our achievements in applied science in the person of Samuel F. B. Morse. Morse in turn harks

Congress Going Home to Ready Fall Elections

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

As one Senator said, "We're here today and campaigning tomorrow."

Both the Repubs and the Demmies will struggle over the state roundups. Every seat will be contested as fiercely as the time the bulldog grabbed the tramp by the coattails.

If the boys can get enough affirmatives and vetoes they can pack up in two weeks. Wagner, Wallace, Frazier and the silver bloc all have important patches to sew onto the budget.

Another legislator wants to print two billion dollars in fresh greenbacks. We hope that's for the people even if it's distributed through the campaign committee.

Found Decapitated On Railroad Tracks

The body of John Andosky, 56, of 713 Naylor street, was found decapitated on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks under the Panther Hollow Bridge, early yesterday. He was a steel worker, and police said they learned he had left his home two hours before his body was found.

MEMORIAL DAY TRIBUTE PAID WAR HEROES

Younger Vets Honor 'Boys in Blue,' Ranks Thinned

Impressive and solemn rites marked the Pittsburgh district's tribute to the heroic soldier dead on Memorial Day.

The thin line of Civil War veterans that every year grows thinner joined with the survivors other wars in paying homage fallen comrades.

For the first time on Memoria Day, Mt. Lebanon had no G. A. R. veteran participating in the exercises. So far as is known there is not a Civil War survivor left in the community.

FALLEN FOE HONORED

Not only the Boys in Blue, but also the Boys in Gray were honored yesterday. Flowers were laid upon the graves of two Confederate soldiers buried in Sewickley Cemetery at the same services at which Union veterans were honored. Members of Gen. Alexander Hays Post No. 3, G. A. R., of Pittsburgh, headed the ceremonies.

Only one Civil War veteran, the last in the district, participated in the joint services of Verona and Oakmont. He is David Plowman, 88, who lives with a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Griffiths, Penn Township.

Typical of the services during the day were those at Uniondale Cemetery No. 3, North Side. Only two Civil War veterans took part in the ceremony—George I. Rudolph, past department commander of Pennsylvania, and his comrade, Henry Westerman.

SPEAKS FOR PEACE

Striking the keynote of the day, the Rev. William M. Bracken told the assembled throng:

"I admire and revere soldiers—but I hate war."

The largest number of Civil War men were in the downtown parade from the Courthouse to Allegheny and St. Mary's cemeteries. The G. A. R. veterans, flanked by members of the Sons of Union Veterans, Davis Star Camp and the Washington Infantry, rode in county cars.

At the soldiers' plot in Allegheny Cemetery, the Rev. Henry A. Welday, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke.

Guns of the 107th Field Artillery in Frick Park fired the opening salute for the East End and Homewood veterans' services.

SALUTES FIRED

While an airplane roared overhead and the cannon of the 176th Field Artillery boomed a salute, veterans of Dormont and Mt. Lebanon paid tribute to fallen comrades in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery.

At a ceremony in Allegheny County Memorial Park, the 80th Division dedicated the only burial ground in the United States owned by any divisional organization of the American Expeditionary Forces. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, who commanded the 80th in France during the World War, unveiled a bronze tablet.

TRIBUTE TO VETS

Tribute to the soldiers who fell in the Spanish-American War was paid by the members of the combined Allegheny County camps of the Spanish War Veterans at the grave of Past Department Commander Maj. William H. Davis in Allegheny Cemetery.

Beginning his annual physical examination of the city's safety guardians, Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief surgeon of the Department of Public Safety, announced that only 3.82 per cent of Pittsburgh policemen have spread-eagle arches.

The proportion, according to Sable, is the lowest of any force in the country, and is the result of a yearly inspection of the police department and a correction of all physical defects.

NEWS!

Science reveals important new Facts for Smokers!

A famous New York research laboratory announces a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge of cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect"... a quick restoration of the flow of natural body energy... an experience well known to Camel smokers. When you smoke a Camel you feel an almost immediate relief from fatigue. What has actually happened is that you have released and made available the latent energy in your body. You've helped your body to help itself. During the day your energy curve hits certain low points. Camels raise your flow of energy... quickly, conveniently and without jangling your nerves.

There's a "Lift" in CAMELS that drives away Fatigue and Irritability

Feel "all in"? Then's the best time to light a Camel.

It's cool and fragrant and delightful... but far more important than that, it brings your flow of energy up from the depths!

You feel fatigue vanish. Irritability seems to slip away. And you go back to work—or play—with all the energy and cheerfulness that are naturally yours.

YOU'VE HAD THE EXPERIENCE... HERE'S THE EXPLANATION!

This experience is no news to Camel smokers. But the explanation is news—and good news—to everyone.

The "lift" you get from smoking Camels is simply a release of the natural latent energy in your body. In other words you have helped your body to help itself... easily, naturally, and without the slightest strain.

Remember this explanation when your energy curve is "down"... times when you're irritable and your brain just doesn't seem to work and you feel too tired to move. At such times ..."Get a lift with a Camel!"

AND CAMELS NEVER JANGLE YOUR NERVES!

Camel fans smoke frequently—and they can—as often as they like. Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on the nerves.

Keep your flow of energy at a higher level with Camels.

TOO TIRED FOR FUN... and then she smoked a Camel!

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

KNOW THIS FEELING? The feeling of being too "all in" to respond to the gaiety of the crowd? No taste for the pleasure and fun of the sort of social evening that you would ordinarily look forward to? That's one of the many times to light a Camel, enjoying its rich flavor while your flow of natural, healthful energy is restored. You'll like Camels—a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos!

NORGE

The Standard of Comparison---NORGE!

...because ONLY Norge has ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION

WHAT it will be in the years to come, that is the important factor in buying refrigeration. Today's short-term guarantees mean nothing ten or twenty years from now, if the "heart" of your refrigerator gives out—that is why we urge you to compare the long-lived cold making mechanism of Norge with that of ordinary refrigerators.

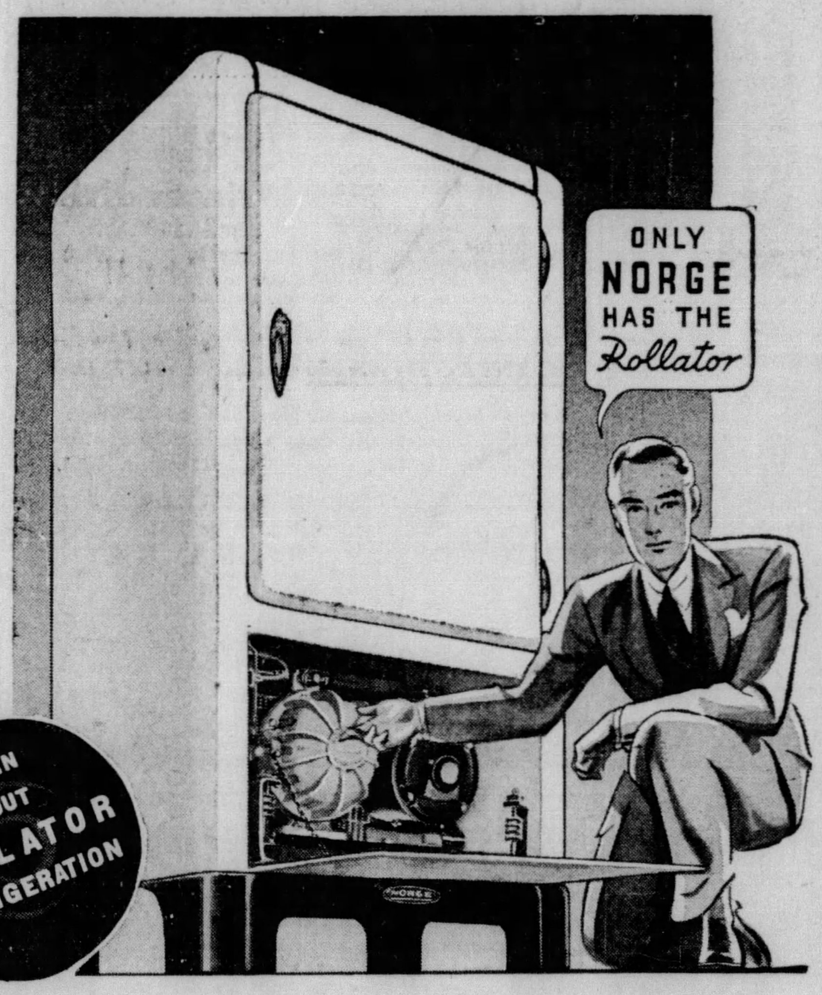
THE "HEART" OF ANY REFRIGERATION IS THE COLD MAKING MECHANISM

Norge has the "heart" that will keep going years after others have gone into discard.

The Norge Rollator mechanism, has, on actual test, been running the equivalent of 30 years of service in your home—to-day it shows an actual increase in efficiency, smooth, easy rolling power instead of the hurried back and forth action of the ordinary refrigerator.

WHEN YOU BUY REFRIGERATION

Don't be blindfolded into believing ordinary refrigerators are "just as good"—they can't be, because only Norge has the patented ROLLATOR mechanism.



HONEST COMPARISON WILL LEAD YOU TO BUY NORGE

There is a good reason why Norge in a few short years has become one of the world's most popular refrigerators. Find out that reason before you buy an electric refrigerator. See Norge with its unsurpassed beauty of cabinet design and finish—its many conveniences that make it easier to do better work—you'll find it has everything you would want in a modern refrigerator. Learn about the Rollator. Did you ever hear of a mechanism which would freeze ice in a room temperature of 120 degrees? That's the kind of refrigeration you are SURE of getting when you buy Norge.

You Can Buy Norge Quality As Low As $99.50

DR. WILLIAM A. YEAGER

DR. SIEG GOES TO SEATTLE

Dr. Lee Paul Sieg, of the University of Pittsburgh, today was receiving congratulations from students and faculty members at Pitt on his being chosen as president of the University of Washington at Seattle.

Dr. Sieg has been dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the Oakland school since 1925, and has been head of the school of journalism for the past two years. He will give up his posts here on July 30 to leave for the West.

Voicing the sentiments of the university on Dr. Sieg's pending departure, Dr. John G. Bowman, Pitt chancellor, said:

"We all hate to see him go, but we're just as pleased at his success. Dr. Sieg was recommended to the University of Washington as one of the three best men in the country for the job."

The presidency of the University of Washington has been a storm center for political controversy ever since the late Dr. Henry Suzzalo, friend of labor, clashed with the Republican Governor, Roland Hartley. Dr. Suzzalo was asked to resign. That was in 1928. Since then the university has had two presidents. Dr. Sieg is the third.

Dr. Sieg today announced the addition to the Pitt faculty staff of Dr. William Allison Yeager, assistant director of the Teachers' Bureau, State Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. Yeager will assume his duties at the opening of the school's summer session. He will succeed Dr. Q. A. Rohrbach, who recently resigned.

Margiotti, of Punxsutawney and Pittsburgh, reported he personally contributed $100,324 to his unsuccessful campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while the five major committees in the successful campaign of Attorney General William A. Schnader reported they received and spent a total of $168,222.

George H. Earle III, of Haverford, successful Democratic candidate for Governor, reported receipts of $32,642 and expenditures of all but $155 of this amount. Earle contributed $2,500 to his own campaign; H. Edgar Barnes, of Philadelphia, $7,500, and Catherine Earle, $10,000.

OTHER 'SPENDERS'

The Morrish-Copeland State Committee, whichhandled the campaign of the independent Democratic slate headed by Roland S. Morris for Senators and Judge Charles D. Copeland for Governor, reported it received $14,400 and spent $14,200. The committee reported unpail bills of $5,442. Among contributors were: Morris, $4,475; Sedgwick Kistler, national committeeman, $4,000; Mr. and Mrs. Vance McCormick, Harrisburg, $2,000, and Samuel Fels, Philadelphia, $1,000.

Eight cabinet officials, a score of Highway Department engineers, and Revenue Department Bureau chiefs were among those on the state payroll listed as contributing to the Governor's campaign fund. Among them were:

DONATE TO PINCHOT

Ambrose Langan, Mayor of Pittston and investigator in the Governor's office, $600; Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish; Secretary of Welfare Alice F. Liveright, Secretary of Revenue Leon D. Metzger, Adjt. Gen. David J. Davis and Secretary of Property and Supplies John Hanna, each $300; Secretary of Highways Sam S. Lewis, $240; Secretary of Labor and Industry Charlotte E. Carr, $200, and Secretary of Health Theodore Appel, $100.

Contributions of $1,000 each were received from Roy A. Beck and John C. Orr, the latter Pinchot leader in Dauphin County.

David E. Kaufman, of Towanda, an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, reported expenses of $13,111 and receipts of $5,000.

Bees Bothering You? Why Not Catch Them?

A BEE EXPERT, GATHERING IN AN ERRANT SPRING SWARM

A bee expert, who hurried out when a swarm of bees disturbed the peace of mind of the Edgerton street district, demonstrating the technique of gathering a swarm to keep one's table supplied with honey the summer 'round. He found the bees (as they commonly are) clinging to a bush. Here's how: Break off the branch—

DRUMS IN THE STREET: LONGEST DRUMMING GETS MOST!

—shake the mass onto a newspaper, tip a box over some of the bees and all the others will crawl into the box. You merely have to pick up the box (it's nice to have a lid!) and go home with your swarm. One tip: Try to get the queen bee, if you can find her, into the box first. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

FOUR KIDNAPED IN BANK HOLDUP

KINGFISHER, Okla., May 31.—(AP.)—Two men robbed the Peoples National Bank here today and escaped with approximately $1,000, releasing unharmed a girl bank clerk and three young men employes, taken as shields, two miles west of the city.

A sheriff's posse was believed to be about 10 minutes behind the robbers' car. The four kidnaped employes said the motor of the bandits' car appeared to be knocking.

No shots were fired in the robbery. Both men entered the bank, holding at bay the four employes. After scooping up all cash in sight, the robbers forced the four to get on the running boards of their car.

The abducted employes were Irene Ross, Virgil Francis, Dale Dage and Perry Farmer. They were released near a cemetery. A farmer brought them to town.

POLITICS

wanted State Treasurer Charles A. Waters as chairman. Mr. Waters is a capable man, has force and personality, but he would represent little change in political principle from Martin. Both have been schooled in the same books. As between the two, for the purposes of a campaign, Gen. Martin probably would be the better because he comes from a small community, while Mr. Waters comes from Philadelphia, and the present chariman has a wide acquaintace in rural districts, the retention of which will be important in November.

Chief of Opposition Is In Western Districts

Chief opposition to Gen. Martin comes from this section, which has seen successive waves of Republican defeats in recent elections under its old leadership. Ralph F. Smith, newly elected to the state committee from the Forty-fifth District, already has said he will oppose Martin, and there are others who would like to, though saying nothing.

However, if the real powers of the party want General Martin he will remain, the state committee being a much more complaisant group than the rank and file of voters.

TAKE MY TIP, GIRLS— IF YOU WANT SPARKLING WHITE TEETH IN A HURRY.

Use special toothpaste that restores natural whiteness to dingy teeth

Now clear, white teeth and a dazzling smile aren't hopeless ambitions, no matter how dull, dingy and unsightly your teeth may be. For modern science has developed a quick-cleansing way to give your teeth a sparkle and whiteness they've probably never had before.

All you do is start using Kolynos. Just as you would any ordinary toothpaste with this one exception: Use it on a dry brush—without water—to obtain the best results. Results that will astonish and delight you.

Discover for yourself what hundreds of people already know—how much quicker and better antiseptic Kolynos cleans and whitens teeth. When you see the results we promise you'll never go back to unscientific methods of brushing. Get a tube of Kolynos from your druggist, today.

No Ordinary Toothpaste Can Do This

Kolynos cleans and brightens teeth so effectively because it contains certain properties not found in ordinary toothpaste. These properties kill millions of germs that cover the teeth with a dingy, discolored yellow mask. This extra cleansing quickly gives teeth the attractive gleam of polished jewels—a whiteness you didn't believe possible.

ATE LESS—LOST 20 LBS.—FEELS BETTER — PRAISES SYL-VETTE

Says Morgantown man, "I feel more like working since taking SYL-VETTE. I do not feel so sluggish and my legs do not tire out as they did when I was overweight. I lost 20 pounds in 2 months' time by taking SYL-VETTE for breakfast and for lunch. I did not eat pork or fatty meats and very little starchy food for my dinner in the evening while I was reducing. This was not hard to do as SYL-VETTE certainly kept me from feeling hungry and I found it was so very easy to do without fattening foods. I think SYL-VETTE is very nourishing and a wonderful food substitute for people who are overweight."

Mr. Geo. A. Hunter, W. Va.

NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.

SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength—also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF - 19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week—10 to 15 pounds a month—which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too. —30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

CIVIL WAR ONWARD

Then we find a gallery with the cream of the work produced by the American painter who occupied the center of the American art stage from the period of the Civil War through to the World War.

Inness, the precursor of many progeny in landscape painting, marks one change between yesterday and today, since the painters of pure landscape are now almost extinct.

Winslow Homer, shown by perhaps his greatest oil, "The Fox Hunt" and an entire room of water colors is as significant to the American eye as is Degas to the French.

Seven canvases reveal Eakins as one of the great painters of his day, rivaling a distinctive American idiom the French painters who were his contemporaries.

SALUTARY LESSON

Those of us who are young enough to have grown up feeling sceptical about the greatness of Sargent are obliged to revise our opinions and grant him considerable more than virtuosity.

This impression is inevitable because of the canny selection at Chicago which includes the "Edwardian Ladies of Fashion" that condemn the painter to many of us.

The Art Institute likewise gives a salutary lesson in 18 canvases by Whistler. The observer need only accept the "Butterfly" as the precise symbol of Whistler to become friendly once more to his undeniable charm. All phases of his art are exposed. "The White Girl" of 1862 has not been dulled by successive explorers in art. "Cremorne Gardens," painted before 1879, seems to be Whistler in a most sensitive creation of his own preferred world of glamor.

CASSATT HONORED

Mary Cassatt who like Whistler is one of the painters chosen as markers on the trail of American art employed painting to illumine an opposite opinion of life. Her theme is "The Mother and Child" without extraneous sentiment, but with profound emotion. Her work, which has a particular appeal to Pittsburgh pride, will be considered along with later painters in separate articles.

Mary Cassatt is the most distinguished native of our town to exhibit. The only resident Pittsburgh artist in the section devoted to oil paintings is Alexander Kostellow, whose "After Dinner" looks just as handsome as it did in the Carnegie International.

40 Held, 100 Flee In Cock Fight Raid

The raiders also seized 46 game cocks. The prisoners will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace L. W. Carson.

FLOOD WRITERS' LEADER HOST

In observance of the forty-fifth anniversary of the Johnstown flood, members of the Johnstown Flood Correspondents Association will be entertained by Charles W. Houston, president, tonight at his home in the King Edward Apartments.

Of the 123 original members of the association who "covered" the flood for newspapers and aided in rescue and relief work, only 17 now survive.

Among the guests at tonight's reunion will be Col. A. J. Logan, Ernest H. Heinrichs, Fred Heinz, Frank Leigman, James Murtha, Dr. A. R. Cratty and Dr. John D. Milligan.

The Johnstown flood claimed 2,205 lives and property damage of $10,000,000, when swollen mountain streams broke a dam across the South Fork branch of the Conemaugh River and loosed a raging wall of water over the Johnstown area.

SPARED LIFE FOR ARSON

International News Service.

CINCINNATI, O., May 31.—The first degree murder conviction of Ray I. Turk, sentenced to a life term in the Ohio Penitentiary for complicity in the firing of the Ellington Apartments at Cleveland, in which 12 persons lost their lives, was set aside by the Court of Appeals here today.

The Appellate Court instructed the Cuyahoga County trial court to resentence the accused arsonist on a manslaughter charge. It was alleged that Turk had hired a gang of Pennsylvania "firebugs" to set fire to the apartment building in order to collect $18,000 in insurance on his beauty supply shop there.

LIQUOR RAIDERS AMBUSHED

HARRISBURG, May 31.—(AP.)—Moonshiners in the Kempton Mountain in Northwestern Lehigh County with shotgun fire ambushed three liquor raiders, forcing them to retreat after one had been wounded.

Mark L. Gemerling, a state liquor law enforcement agent, yesterday reported the attack was made on him, J. D. Garrau, another agent, and Constable Fink, both of Allentown, after they found a jug of liquor in a farmhouse.

Unarmed, the officers were met by the farmer's wife, who brandished a shotgun as they approached the house. They induced her to put down the weapon. Then they read a warrant, and searched the place.

Opening a door to leave, Gemerling was wounded slightly by a shotgun charge fired by someone outside the house. The agents fled toward Allentown in their automobile through a barrage of shotgun fire. The jug of liquor was lost in their flight.

Homesick Bear Cub Dies in Captivity

Mount Rushmore Competition Lists Close With Avalanche of Texts

Begin Task Of Picking Winners

The last text in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition has been accepted and the Pittsburgh regional district headquarters today was busily assorting the entries for proper classifications.

The nation-wide competition in quest of inscriptions from which the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission will select a final text for carving on the great national monument in South Dakota closed last midnight. All entries received with postmarks before that hour are entered. Texts arriving later will be eliminated.

AVALANCHE OF MAIL

The last mails brought an avalanche of mail upon the headquarters in the Sun-Telegraph, which with other Hearst newspapers conducted the competition. Every section of Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia was represented in the competition. Regional offices throughout the country today reported participants represented virtually every city, town and hamlet in the nation.

As the headquarters' staff began the task of assorting the entries, special committees representing schools and organizations started the task of selecting the best texts from their memberships. These will be submitted to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Committee on or before June 16. Once these returns are made, the local committee will select the best entries of the district and submit them before June 23 to the national committee. President Roosevelt is chairman of the national group.

PITTSBURGH COMMITTEE

The membership is composed of Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor, University of Pittsburgh; Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president, Carnegie Institute of Technology; the Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president, Duquesne University; Dr. Ben. G. Graham, superintendent, Pittsburgh public schools; Dr. Charles E. Dickey, superintendent, Allegheny County public schools; the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent, Pittsburgh Diocese parish schools; Marcus Aaron, president, Pittsburgh Board of Public Education; Mrs. William J. Crittenden, regent, Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; former Judge Robert M. Ewing, president, Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, and Capt. J. TRIG STYLE LURKS IN SPORTS FROCKS

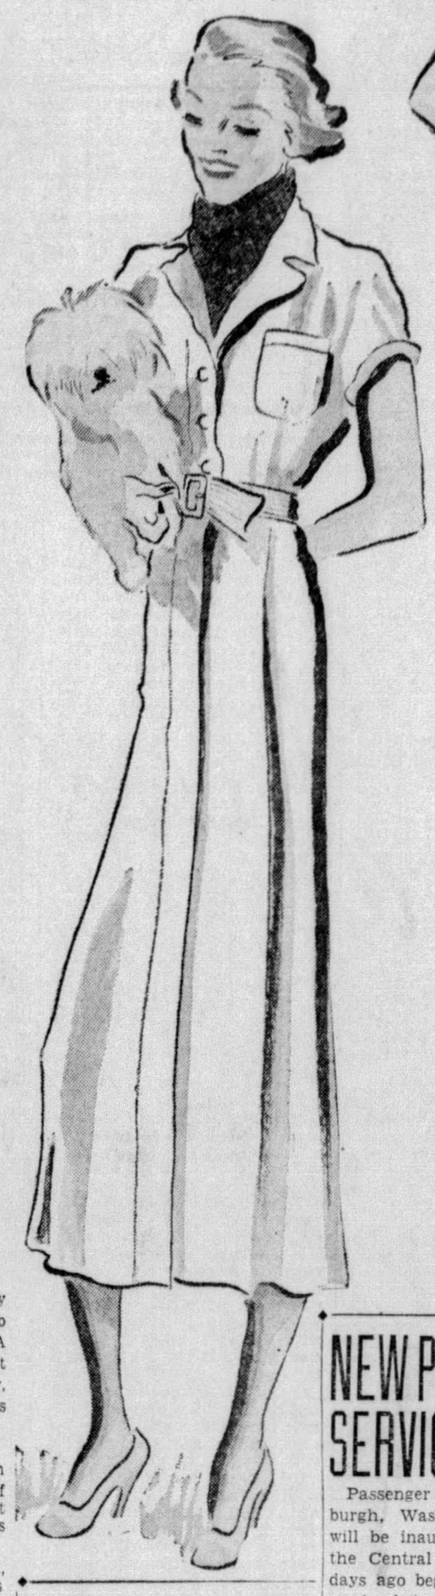
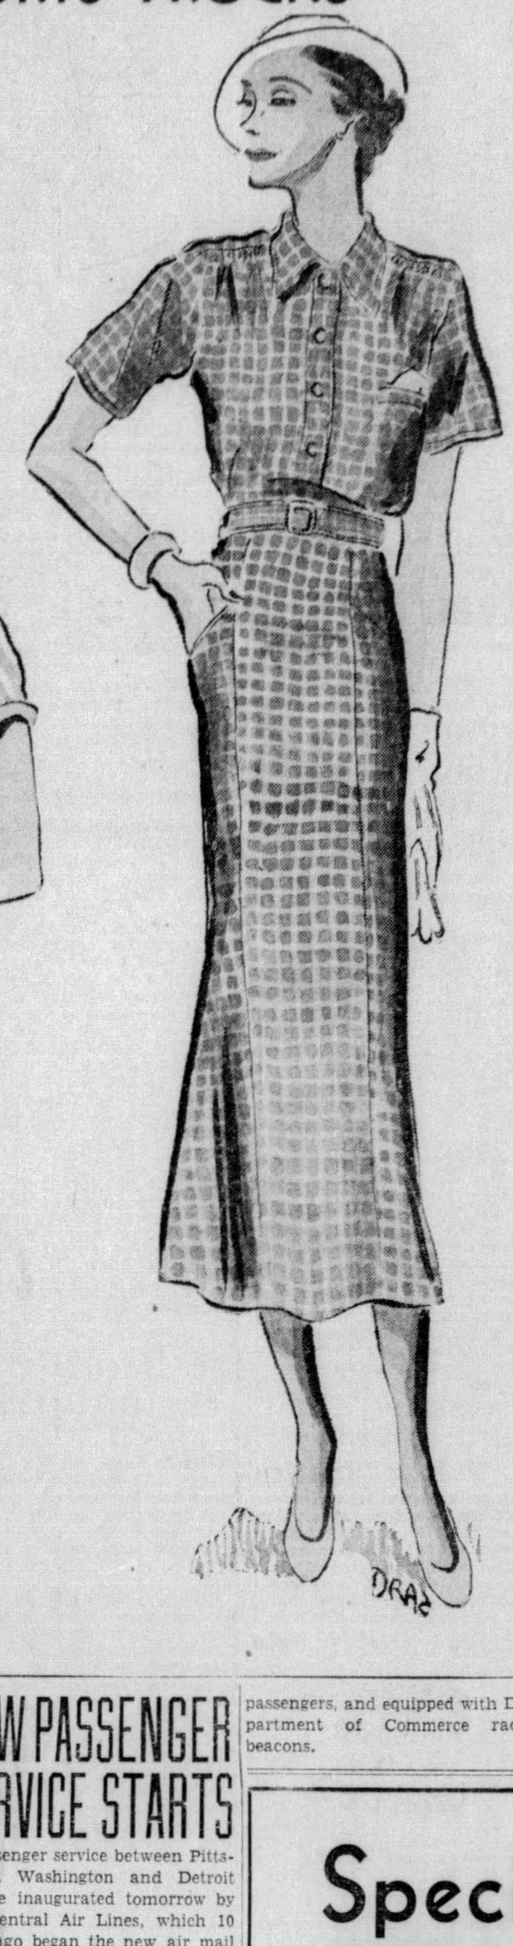
Cut with an easy fit, cool and well styled, the printed lawn frock, right, doubles for knockabout wear or active sports. Besides the usual stand-by tints of red and blue, this frock may be had in sweet pea and nasturtium shades. The fabric in this white sports frocks is a mixture of cotton and wool which is absorbent but easily tubbed without shrinking. Note the rolled sleeve and swank neckerchief.



Right, a flannel frock good for town or country, for the rocking chair brigade or active sports. It is in high colors with a woven overplaid of white. The buttons are covered and the belt is also self-material.



(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.)

By PRUNELLA WOOD

CLOTHES FOR the woman who takes her sports seriously amount to a ritual, but more sedentary women don't hesitate to borrow the models dedicated originally to the great open spaces. A jaunty, easy-fitting dress made of stout material which will not shring or fade is something that any woman can use thankfully, and clothes that must stand up under tough competition nowadays have these virtues, and more besides.

* * *

SO IT IS IN the sports departments that many shoppers sleuth out their morning dresses, rather than in the general collections of women's wearing apparel. Just now these shops are full of shirt and skirt effects cut and fitted very skillfully into one-piece dresses and there is no end to the variety of materials used for them.

Lawn and dimity are favorites in the thinnest dresses; flannel, all wool or partly cotton is another popular fabric; seersucker is more attractively employed than ever before; synthetic silk stuffs that never wrinkle at all make another big group; and there are loads of models made from wash silk in gay striped patterns, flat crepes and string materials.

* * *

FLAG COLORS, pastels, flowery tints in tiny prints, white—most stunning of all on a tanned woman—and plaids in colors that never owned a clan are all to be found in dresses of this genre. There are never superfluous trimmings on them which makes them at once easy to keep fresh and trig and becoming to any type figure.

Two teaspoons baking powder.

Whip cream until slightly thickened, but not stiff enough to form a peak. Fold in the sugar, then the beaten eggs, and the vanilla. Add the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt. Mix only until smooth. Bake in two small layer cake pans in a moderate oven 350 to 375 degrees. Cool and ice with a boiled icing and sprinkle generously with cocoanut.

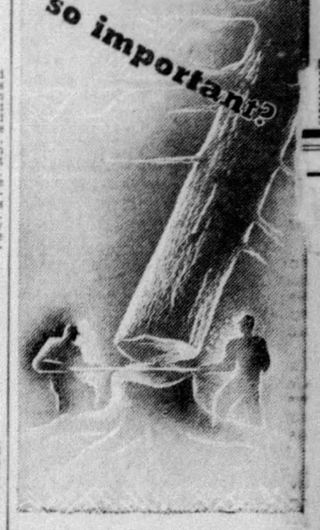
Why is the SOUNDING BOARD so important?



The limpid, melting, golden notes of Paderewski are part of the genius of an immortal poet. But they are also proof of another thing: the sounding board of Paderewski's Steinway.

In a Steinway, the sound board is considered so important that our entire production schedule is gauged to it. Other parts of the piano may be completed in approximately eight months. The sound board requires years . . . several years even to season the wood to our satisfaction.

If we were willing to sacrifice the tone of the Steinway, we could buy our sound boards for a fraction of the cost of making our own; instead, we begin, almost, with the felling of the tree. And each single three-inch board in our $1,000,000 lumber reserve has been subjected to seven individual inspections by us before it becomes a part of the Steinway. For the very grain of the wood will affect the tone of the finished piano!

Steinway prices are extremely low at present.

CHINESE REFUSE SMITH RANSOM

HANKOW, China, May 31.—(AP.)—American mission officials seeking to rescue the Rev. Howard Smith, of Washington, Pa., from bandit kidnapers were refused provincial assistance today and told their only hope lies with the Nanking government.

Gov. Liu Shiang, of Szechuen province, in far western China, refused to pay a ransom of $35,000 demanded by emissaries of the notorious bandit leader, Gen. Ho Lung.

Gov. Liu maintained the responsibility lay with the Nationalist government.

Meanwhile, reports from Szechuen province indicated that Smith is being constantly moved about in the mountain districts of the province as the outlaws sought to obscure their whereabouts.

Chances for attaining the aid of the Nationalist government appeared slim.

HARNESSING THE Sunshine Vitamin TO BRING YOU BEAUTY

The wonders of science never cease!

Not by the widest stretch of imagination is a mouse related to a woman's beauty—yet a Boston physician used this little rodent to prove the greatest cosmetic discovery of modern times.

He had irradiated a revolutionary new cream with the precious sunshine vitamin D. He proved that he could feed this youth-giving vitality from the sun through the skin, by spreading it on a mouse's tail.

His colleagues examined the X-rays. Checked his tests. Acclaimed the new scientific fact that the skin can now be fed the sunshine vitamin D, making it grow young instead of old.

This amazing new cream is called Vita-Ray Vitamin Cream. Try a jar today. You'll be thrilled at the improvement in your skin—the gradual vanishing of wrinkles, lines and crow's-feet, the toning and firming of face and neck muscles, the glorious return of youthful freshness and color to your complexion.

Deserted Mother Ruining Daughter's Happiness

The world has changed . . . Women have progressed . . . Some of us have gotten almost what we want . . . Votes . . . Business enterprises . . . Trips around the world . . . Divorces . . . Remarriages . . . Adopted children, if we didn't have any of our own . . . Taken up medicine . . . Gone in for the higher isms . . . Been explorers . . . Have seen the time when we were down and out, with scarcely a place to turn, and have pushed ourselves on and on until now we are in a big open field, and all our own, too.

Yes, indeed, these are the days when the world takes off its hat to women.

And yet here is one who has allowed herself to be so bitter, and against one lone man, that she has darkened the lives of her own children.

Miss Brunot

She has stood against their enjoyment of life because she insists a MAN DESERTED HER . . . and that is what EVERY MAN will do.

SOUNDS LIKE EAST LYNNE

It has the tang of EAST LYNNE. Or some of the other old-timers.

It is all right to learn through our experiences . . . When we find out that UNSAVORY things do exist in this world, it is the right thing that we learn to SHUN THEM, if we don't like them. But for pity's sake, why lower the shades for everyone else!

This woman's daughter writes to me, and she asks me not to print her letter, for she wants me to save her mother from more suffering . . . This girl feels so much pity for the older woman who has tasted of the forsaken fireside, that she wants to shield her all she can. Even at the cost of her own happiness, and that of her sisters and brother.

And I say, let the older generation suffer . . Let them suffer and pass on their experience for the benefit of the younger generation. No woman should go on in a drab existence hugging her old misery so persistently that she will not even let anyone around her know there is anything nice and pleasant in the world.

Just because this woman's husband didn't do the right thing, she feels certain that all men will do the wrong thing . . . Or at least she WANTS TO THINK THIS. She has forgotten that although the penitentiaries are full of evil-doers, that these evil-doers are not all MEN.

WAKE UP, SISTER

Wake up, sister, before it is too late . . . Wake up, I say, before all your children sneak out on you.

Let your daughter have her MAN, and right in your own house, too. Try to make up to her for the wrong you have done your older children . . .the ones you chased out from under your own roof. Surely you don't want your own flesh and blood to go elsewhere than your house for their dates. Surely you don't desire that your girls and boys have clandestine meeting places and seek marriage through elopement.

Sometimes I wonder when I know the inside workings of certain homes, that the deserter waited as long as he did to be on his way!

So, daughter, don't be worried if your mother reads what I am saying. I'm speaking to her. And I want it shoved right under her nose at dinner time.

OTHERS CAN SMILE

It is time she comes out of the ether. It is the open season right now for her to realize other women have gone through all that she has suffered and even more, and are able to smile.

Each woman of us who has lived any length at all of our life span has participated in more lives than one. We have met people who were disappointments, people who have turned our days upsidedown for us. But we've shouldered it—as you should.

You know, we are told, all signs fail in dry weather, and some of us are unfortunate enough to mate in the season of drought. There are men who are wanderers. Nothing, not even a good woman's love, will keep them rooted to one spot. Sometimes such men are attractive, they put much art into their wooing. And if you fell for such a man's courting—well, you owe it to your friends, your dear ones, to put on a new hat and buck up.

MAY LOSE ALL

In time if you don't, your sorrow will weave itself into a morbid pleasure . . . It will fascinate you . . . It will be the role you are playing, and it will bereave you of everything by and by.

Yes, even your children.

Your poor little girl asks if I think she can carry on a real courtship by letter . . . She is in love. She cares for you . . . She sympathizes with your moaning and your groaning and your bitterness, but it can't last forever.

And I say to you, courtship by letter is something like the old fellow who used to call his wife up every noontime and say through the transmitter: "Consider yourself kissed, my dear."

And some day you'll wake up, and even your baby daughter will be gone.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

By FAY KING

Talk about your reducing diets! I lost 10 pounds after a hearty meal the other day!

Just as I was about to hand the cashier of a chain store the money for groceries I had purchased, a muzzle-like object appeared level with my right ear. At the same moment, with his eyes focused behind me, the cashier slowly raised his left hand, and I started to swoon!

"A stick-up," I thought! Maybe it's Dillinger! Oh! Oh! Oh!

To my infinite relief (and embarrassment) the next instant I discovered the "gun" was nothing more than a long slab of wood with a key attached to it!

But I'm here to confess that as far as my feelings were concerned it was another "successful holdup!"

Lillian's Suspicions Verified

Lillian waited for a second, her hand upon the door knob, evidently pondering Hugh's query as to how Sam Brixton could have climbed back to his own room, noiselessly and leaving no trace, if his had been the footfall upon the balcony outside the nursery suite which Hugh said he had heard.

"I know," she said at last. "It does sound like a far-fetched theory. But," and her voice suddenly sounded stubborn, "it could be managed with the aid of a stout rope. The boys used to hitch up the board, but of course, an adult would need something else. Yet it isn't an impossible feat, by any manner of means. The distance is too short."

She straightened herself and turned the knob.

"I'll only be a minute," she promised, and vanished into the corridor.

Hugh had risen, of course, with her, and no sooner had she left the door than with mighty but noiseless strides he too was at the door.

"Better turn out that light again," he said as he passed me, and I obeyed, my movements quiet, but my pulses thumping as if they would burst through my skin.

HUGH ON GUARD

I noticed that Hugh did not go into the corridor, but stood just inside the door of the room in which we were. His attitude was tense, watchful, and I knew that Lillian was safe, even if my sudden preposterous fear should materialize—the fear that Sam Brixton might try to harm her. Hugh's tall, powerful figure was a guarantee of safety, I told myself, with reminiscent gratitude for the many times he had been a bulwark against danger for me and mine.

Then Lillian was knocking softly but insistently upon Helena's door and calling, "Helena! Helena, dear! I must speak to you!"

There was no answer at first, but at her repetition of the call and knock, I heard the grating of a key in a lock, and the next instant Lillian's voice, with an accusing note in her exclamation:

"Sam! You here! I thought you were at The Larches."

"Hush!" Sam Brixton's whisper was raucous and distinct. "I didn't know I was going to be here, either, but when Carol said she could bunk with Marion, Helena asked me not to leave her alone, as she had one of her headaches coming on. I've just got her to sleep, and I sure don't want her wakened."

In his voice was the roughness, the almost rudeness with which he shelters his wife from every possible adverse wind. It is the best thing about Samuel Brixton, this devotion to his wife, and I found myself hoping that Lillian's suspicions of this old comrade of Marion's father—the recreant husband who had made Lillian's life so miserable in the old dead days—would prove groundless.

ACCUSES SAM

"I'm sorry." Lillian's voice was low and conventionally contrite. I could not tell at all what she was thinking. "I did not know Helena had a headache. She certainly did not look as if she had one when I saw her last."

"Well, she has one now," Sam Brixton retorted stubbornly. "You've known her long enough to know how quickly they attack her."

"Yes, that's right," Lillian answered slowly. "And I won't need to bother her. You'll do just as well."

"Why; what do you want of me?"

The voice and words were rude, even for crass Samuel Brixton, and I wondered if my imagination was responsible for the impression that there was a note of uneasiness in the blustering, raucous whisper.

"Nothing much." Lillian's murmur was like the purr of a cat. "I just wondered how you managed to keep Helena from waking when you slid down to the nursery balcony a while ago, and climbed back when you saw our light go out."

I hear a choking gasp, and saw Hugh take a step forward.

"You—you—what do you mean by that rot?" Samuel Brixton gasped. "What are you trying to put over on me?"

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The feminine figure is back to normal. It has a rounded slenderness, isn't cursed with an extra pound. To have no hips at all is no reason for hurrahing; there should be a graceful streamline from waist cutward to center of hip, hip center to thigh.

Because of the difference in the bony structure of the body there can be no exact standard weights and measurements. If proportions are good, silhouette graceful, a little extra avoirdupois doesn't do a bit of harm.

If by chance you meet an old friend and she has aged terribly, don't take it for granted that fate has handed her some tough breaks. She may have gone in for rapid, strenuous reducing. That's a wrecking business.

Not more than two pounds a week should be deleted from the sum total of weight. If diet is free of energy-making foods, the tissues of the face will suffer. Go slowly, plump one. And while on your way to slenderness, use a heavy oil or massage cream on your face, and don't forget the benefit of a daily ice rub.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Hard Luck

When the Dealer has a hand of overwhelming strength, including all the Aces, three of the Kings and one Queen, and has this tremendous strength joined with reasonably favorable distribution, he has a right to anticipate the making of a Slam if his partner can support him or at any time make a strength-showing bid after his own Opening Force. However, there are other elements that enter into the making of Slam tricks and Slam contracts at the Bridge table as well as high cards, and the most important of these elements is that of distribution. Unfavorable distribution can often wreck a perfectly bid hand, as favorable distribution sometimes permits the fulfillment of far too ambitious contracts.

North, Dealer.

	♠ A K 9 8 2 ♡ A K Q 2 ◇ A K ♣ A 10
♠ Q 7 6 ♡ J 6 5 4 3 ◇ Q 9 3 2 ♣ 9	West North East South	♠ J 5 ♡ — ◇ J 10 8 6 5 ♣ J 7 6 5 3
	♠ 10 4 3 ♡ 10 9 8 7 ◇ 7 ♣ K Q 8 4 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5♣	Pass
7♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is entirely intelligent. South denies the possession of one-plus honor-trick by his nontrump response to the Opening Forcing bid. When North shows a second biddable suit he is really conservative in bidding only four hearts, as, with his bust response to the first bid, this bid might result in the partnership's stopping short of a makable Slam. When North now bids four notrump after the heart assist from his partner, South decides to show that, after all, he has some high cards by his bid of five clubs, and North, who has planned to show the possession of four Aces by a bid of five notrump, decides on a short cut to what he feels is the ultimate goal—the contract of seven hearts. No doubt this decision is influenced somewhat by South's show of the club suit, where North feels any losers in his hand can be disposed of.

The Opening lead was a diamond, and North won his own hand and then laid down an honor in hearts, only to discover that five hearts were bunched in the West hand. He now led another round of diamonds, discarding a spade from Dummy. Next the Ace and King of spades were cashed and a spade ruffed in Dummy. In the ensuing play, West won two tricks, ruffing a club and a spade.

Of course, it is easy enough to see, in viewing all the hands, that the trick-taking power of North and South has a definite limit of 12, but there are few Bridge players such great pessimists as not to undertake a Grand Slam with the combined honor strength of North and South, coupled, as it appeared to be until the play began, with rather favorable distribution. After all, when a partnership has 10 tricks in Aces, Kings and Queens in the combined hands, with one suit in which there is apparently a fine fit and another one that seems likely to furnish discards, they cannot be thought to be unduly optimistic in attempting a Grand Slam.

Tomorrow's Hand

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A J 6 3 2 ♡ A 8 ◇ A K Q 8 5 4 ♣ —
♠ Q 10 9 7 ♡ 9 2 ◇ 10 3 2 ♣ 7 6 5 4	West North East South	♠ 8 4 ♡ 10 6 5 3 ◇ J 7 6 ♣ 10 8 3 2
	♠ K 5 ♡ K Q J 7 4 ◇ 9 ♣ A K Q J 9

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

(Mrs. Culbertson will be very glad to answer questions on bridge. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address your question to Josephine Culbertson, in care of the Sun-Telegraph.)

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Facts About 'Skin Itch'

Hardly a day passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information about "skin itch." The sufferer usually describes his affliction as something unbearable. As a rule he has resorted to salves and other remedies without relief.

Dr. Copeland

Of course, it is difficult accurately to diagnose a skin eruption without examination of the patient. But it is probable that many cases of the so-called skin itch are caused by a parasite known to the doctors as "acarus scabei."

If the inflammation is due to scabies and you carefully examine the involved part, you will notice tiny furrows in the skin. The furrow is caused by the parasite which has burrowed into the skin. At the end of the furrow a grayish speck may be observed.

Scabies is best treated by the application of a sulphur ointment, which should be spread over the entire body. A good plan is to use the ointment after a bath before retiring. In the morning take a warm bath and remove all of the ointment by scrubbing the surface with a stiff brush and soap. Repeat this procedure until no trace of the parasites can be found. Fresh underwear should be used daily.

Bear in mind that this disease is extremely contagious and quickly spreads to another.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

First Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a shower for a girl who has just eloped. Since this is the first shower I have ever given, I do want it to be a successful one, so I am coming to you for advice.

Please tell me just what kind of a shower I should give her and what the proper procedure is to invitations, (especially to the bride herself,) entertainment, if any, refreshments, and of course, just how the presents are presented to the bride? Any novel ideas will be appreciated.

These are the kinds of showers that are usually given: A lingerie shower, or a lingerie, stockings and handkerchiefs; bridge shower; silver; glassware; china; linen; bathroom accessories; dressing table shower; paper shower; electric accessories shower; kitchen shower; pantry shower (all kinds of canned goods and jams and jellies); a silver shower.

First talk over your plans with the bride, to see what date is convenient, and so forth. You may then send your invitations on your visiting card, on the "informal message card," which is the double visiting card, or may be used plain, or by a note.

You may plan your shower as a luncheon to be followed by bridge if you wish or as a tea to be preceded by bridge. But really no form of entertainment except the shower is necessary . . . for there will be much to talk about!

You may, for the container for presents, cover a large box or hamper or paper trunk or basket with white or white-and-gold paper.

CHICKIE'S DAUGHTER :-: A Thrilling Serial Of Modern Romance :-: By ELEANORE MEHERIN

Helena, Rapidly Sinking, Doesn't Notice Pippin

CHAPTER LXXXIII.

Nurses moved silently about the room. Sun gleamed on lilies of the valley. The white, fragile blossoms were so motionless. Doctors came noiselessly up the steps, left their hats in the hall, nodded and passed into Helena's room. The whole house moved in this dreamlike and frightening quiet.

Helena lay on the bed with her eyes half closed and her lips drawn. She murmured unhappily. Sometimes her eyes roved to the ceiling. But she seemed sunk in remote aloofness. A blind impassable wall dropped between Helena and this house she had so loved and the children who were her life.

Pippin said: "Janina sent the lilies, mother."

Chickie's eyelids flickered.

"Do you hear me?"

"I hear."

Pippin went into her father's study.

She said, desolate: "She doesn't even care."

"But you do not send for Jon."

"She asked me not to."

Pippin's heart went cold. Jon was Helena's pride and joy. She wept because he didn't come home this vacation. Jon, stooping down to say with adoration, "Hello, Beautiful," could always make the tears swim in Chickie's eyes. Now she didn't care. She didn't want her son called home. This, more than anything else, daunted Pippin.

Mary phoned. Mary wanted to come and take care of Chickie. She was sure she could save her even if the whole world of doctors failed.

"Pippin, ask her if she wants me to come."

Mary Cries

"I don't care! I want to talk to David. I know three persons who have recovered from infantile. They will give their blood for serum if she needs any more. Tell David he can have them at an hour's notice."

Sometimes Mary cried over the telephone. She was utterly distracted that she could not see Chickie and that she could not do a thing to help her. It was the same with Janina. Often they drove past the house and walked to the terraced garden, on which the living room opened. Pippin talked to them from the window.

Mary's rich, dark eyes filled with tears. Janina, who was still handsome even with her hair turned gray and deep lines from her nose to her chin, walked up the steps and handed books to Pippin.

But when Pippin said to her mother: "Mary and Janina came again. They want to take care of you. They wish there were no nurses in the world and that you needed them," Chickie scarcely stirred.

Another time the tears would have filled her dark, beautiful eyes. She would have laughed with joy because her friends stood with her in her need.

Pippin remembered when her mother told of the tragedy in her youth. She wept, saying: "Mary knew and Janina knew. They stood with me all the time."

Even when a letter came from Bruce, a young, delicious, heartbreaking letter that made Pippin tingle with pride, even then Chickie said only:

"How are they? Are they home from the lake?" and didn't ask that the letter be read.

The two boys had closed up the cabin. They were staying with Mary. Dadee came often to the back garden and talked with Pippin. He was entering college but all the joy of it was gone.

"A swell doctor I'll make, Pippin," he said one day. "I didn't even know she was sick. Thought you were making a fuss over nothing."

Helena Doesn't Care

Dadee was tall and growing every day more like his father. He looked so unhappy as he stood there rubbing his finger along the brim of his hat. He said with his lips trembling: "Gee, that eats at me."

Pippin said to her mother: "Dadee passed the intelligence test very high. He's in the genius class."

Chickie nodded as though it were a stranger and not her own adored and gifted boy.

Pippin thought: "We're far from her. We don't count now."

The days were bitterly long. Pippin wandered about the house. She talked to Jonathan.

He said: "She's better today."

"I think she looks the same. She seems so far away."

"Ah—she'll come out of it. You do not know your mother's strength—the bravest heart in all the world."

He stood aside from chests of drawers he was making and said proudly: "She's been needing these. Don't tell her though. It's for a surprise."

Pippin longed for work to do. Nothing diverted her. There were letters from Gregg that a little while ago would have joyfully excited her. Gregg wrote always with dash and fervor. He told fascinating stories of the Chinese whom he thought a wonderful people. He told of a little old weazened fellow who had a shop and who carved in soapstone and ivory. He sent her rich blue lapis beads.

Gregg Writes

At the end of the page Gregg wrote: "They're the color of your eyes. You belong in China, Golden Bells, where Marco Polo's waiting!"

There were letters also from Bill's mother, to whom she wrote often.

Once when they were at the lake Helena said: "Be sure when you write to Bill's mother to tell her any little thing that will make her proud."

Her mother's troubled, uneasy eyes strayed to the arm lying so inert on the covers.

Pippin rushed away. She closed the door of her room and sank down to pray.

Helena was moving off into the dark, alien world where the dying dwell and where Bill had gone—so remote, so terribly alone, so unapproachable.

At times Chickie talked excitedly. She was not delirious. She seemed to dream with her eyes open; to suffer; to be filled with woe. Often she murmured Pippin's name.

One night when the girl was alone with her mother Chickie called sharply and with great agitation: "Oh, Pippin, please—don't go!"

Chickie 'Afraid'

Chickie stared at her. She said, irrational: "I'm terribly afraid. David! David, get her!"

Pippin took it with a wave of agony. She recalled with a dull wondering ache the warm sweet disturbance of her senses and that she had blindly, impetuously wanted to take that hike.

Helena had guessed. Helena had held her with dark, beseeching eyes. She had brought her back with a summons Pippin heard in every fiber of her being.

Now in the bleak rebound of her emotion Pippin wept. She stooped and kissed her mother's lifeless hand.

She did not want to think of Dale. He phoned. He sent her books. He had returned to San Francisco.

Finally there came a letter. A warm, friendly, generous letter. Only at the end did he speak of himself.

"I love you dearly, Pippin, but I wish I had not spoken until I was free as I am now. After all the unhappiness it was settled and without contest, the whole business taking but an hour. I know that all your thoughts are with your mother now. I don't want to trouble you. I'm sending you this book, 'Men of Art.' It is wonderfull written and may take your mind a little from your anxiety. Keep a good heart, Pippin. And this will help her more, perhaps, than we can know."

Pippin sat with the letter in her hands and a storm of color in her face. She was remembering with a bitter shame Dale's glowing eyes, his rich, stirring voice and the mouth she had found so sweet on hers. But it was not love she had felt for Dale.

Perfect Love

She passed the hall and saw her father sitting at Helena's bed. David looked into her mother's face and said in tones that seemed to laugh and seemed to cry: "You're coming along, dearest. Oh, yes, you are!" That look, that voice, that hand he laid on hers was love.

Pippin touched the stones of the hearth. They were holy like the stones in a church. Sacred and beautiful was the love that had built this house and now waged desperate battle to keep it intact. Her father sitting quietly at her mother's bed filled her with awe. Oh to be loved in this complete, selfless and beautiful way. To go down the long years, with someone strong and brave swinging along in happiness at your side. For this, it is well to live!

Love, too, that Jonathan knew. He sat with Pippin in the evenings. She manicured his nails because this took both from their thoughts. One night he found her weeping.

Jonathan said sternly: "You do not think your mother will die?"

"Oh, today—she didn't talk at all. She never looked at me."

"But she is needed here. She will not go. God cannot let such wrong be done."

But Helena sank. She had not strength to combat the disease. She should not die. And yet before their very eyes, she sank.

Household Hints

If water is too hard for washing delicate fabrics, add a few drops of glycerine. This also helps to remove dirt.

To renovate velvet, hold it pile downwards over a saucepan of boiling water to which a little ammonia has been added. Afterwards, hold it over a hot iron to dry and to raise the pile again.

Spread soiled overalls flat on the board or side of the tub and scrub with a stiff scrubbing brush, using a good yellow soap for the suds. You will find this the quickest and easiest way to clean those bulky and usually very dirty articles.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

The adults of the fashionable set aren't the only ones whose paramount interest in life just now is training favorite horses for the June horse show, to be held in the Allegheny Country Club show ring June 7, 8 and 9.

Their children are every bit as keen. Many a young girl and boy dreams of coveted blue ribbons now. Augusta Jones will enter her pony Vixen in one of the children's classes. And despite the pony's name, Vixen has a friendly, equable disposition, I've heard.

Painter Sisters Have Entries

Alice Painter will have an entry in the children's classes. Her older sister, Margaret Painter, who'll be a debutante of 1934, will have an entry, too, but of course in the classes for adults.

Elaine and Cullie Darlington, children of Mrs. Harry Darlington, will again ride their own ponies in the show.

Among the other children who'll be exhibitors are Jane Armstrong Robinson and H. Hilliard Robinson (their ponies are dubbed Merrot and Pierrette), Dicky McCready, Jane Louise Flaccus, Edward James May, Harton Singer, Jr., Mary Louise Flinn, Martha Jane Oliver, and ever so many more.

The Lewis A. Parks have entered three ponies as well as three hunters. Mrs. Park is now at the Devon horse show.

Another young adult, Katharine Walker, has the distinction of having entered in the show the only German thoroughbred horse to be shown. It's a hunter, named Valor.

The Ferdinand T. Weils have gone East. They'll visit friends in Wellesley, then go on for Mr. Weil's twenty-fifth class reunion at Exeter this week-end.

Today we remind ourself of the poem that goes "Standing with reluctant feet . . . where brooks and little rivers meet!" That's us—right between Decoration Day jamboreeing and the start of the June Slaughter (commonly characterized as the June Sale.)

And while our feet are far from "reluctant" . . . still it's a little too late for THIS and a little too early for THAT . . . and the result is that we've picked out some honest-to-goodness summer dresses for you to gaze upon while we are busy bringing in the sheaves of values that are bound to appear on the morrow!

There being dotted swisses to the fore. And mighty fine ones at that . . . done up with fagoting on the yokes . . . fagoting at the breastworks . . . fagoting like a Jacob's ladder up each side. Nice, cool dotted swisses . . . with the dots in pastel tones . . . all exceptionally well made. At $7.95, women's and misses' size.

Once upon a time, someone just up, and in his meanderings over the Andes, discovered the alpaca that you've heard so much about.

And now, we twitter in your ear about the alpaca frocks that one of the stores has at $17.50 — NOT, however, from the Andes . . . but fresh from the shelves of one of New York's better designers.

You've heard how popular this sport fabric is these days—unlike the stiffish, harsh material it was when your grandmothers wore it! In yellow or blue . . . buttoned up the front in a novel manner . . . with the buttons starting out to go one direction . . . and then changing their minds and going the opposite . . . and ending up under the chin. Taffeta sashes of black and white bars . . . misses' sizes.

Second in line is the group of dimity plaids and the polka-dotted linens that misses' are choosing for $10.95. The dimities with their pink, green, or blue cross-bar stripings and plain braided belt with hook and eye fastening.

The linens polkadotted in orange, brown and green . . . or red, blue and green . . . with plain dark brown or navy bands and pearl buttons giving the whole effect that clean and wholesome air that pearl buttons always give a frock.

* * *

Then the sale begins . . . and in marches a whole platoon of prices that are all but unbelievable for their savings!

Prices like $8.88—including evening frocks . . . and sports frocks . . . cottons and silks until you can't rest but find yourself turning and twisting as if in a dream! And prices like $14.85 . . . that would be $17.50 AT LEAST if this were for any other time than June!

And lastly . . . $18 frocks that never saw light before for a dime less than $25 and up (mostly up)! You'll marvel at them . . . you'll call down blessings on the heads of those who bought them! You'll thank your lucky stars that you had sense enough to get in for a chance at them first. In short . . . they're every bit of everything you could want!

Flower Mart Street Fair Feature

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A Venetian flower mart, a reproduction of those that line the canals of Venice, is to be one of the features at the Old World street fair which International Institute will put on from 4 o'clock until midnight Saturday. The street for at least a half block in front of the Institute will be brightly lighted and made colorful with native costumes from many other lands and with booths housing exhibits and articles for sale.

Miss Laetitia Hunter is general chairman and Miss Frances Woolridge is street program chairman. At an Italian cafe spumoni and cassati ice cream will be served. Polish handcrafts such as embroideries, pastries, wood carvings, rugs, pictures, draperies and dolls will be included in the display, some of the articles being put on sale as a benefit for the Polish student scholarship fund. Mrs. Adam Claysmith is chairman for this project.

Mrs. Edward O. Taber heads the committee arranging an exhibit of international dolls, which is so extensive as to interest grown-ups as well as children. Of special interest will be the genuine Czechko-Slovakian puppet show, based on an old Prague legend. Lovely handwork, characteristic of that country, will be exhibited, too, with Mrs. John Ildza in charge. Milan Getting is doing the puppet show.

The Pro-Hungaria Women's World League will have a Hungarian cottage as its booth, where exquisite embroideries will be shown and where instruction in thousand-year-old stitches will be given by Mrs. Joseph Germuska. The same group of women will dispense Hungarian pastries and will sponsor fortune telling by a gypsy.

"The glory that was Greece" will be depicted by an ancient Greek booth, while a second booth will show the glory that is today, booths having been designed by a Greek architect. Collectors of Japanese prints will revel in the exhibit from the Mikado's country, which will be shown together with a display of South American arts and crafts.

The store of unhurried service

RITTER AND MORRISON
EMPIRE BUILDING, 501 LIBERTY, AT STANWIX

There is one best place for you to buy FURNITURE

Our store may not be the best store for everybody. We try, however, to so operate that it will be the best type of furniture store for most people.

We mean just this:

We sell at fair prices—not just a few bargains here and there—but uniformly favorable prices throughout our stocks.

We welcome lookers and shoppers. We do not expect every visitor to buy something every time she comes in. And we never overurge people to buy.

We extend credit as a matter of business service. Credit is not an excuse for overcharging. There is no penalty for credit here.

If such policies appeal to you, then this is the right store for you in Furniture.

The Communists figure it will be "the psychological moment"...Att'n Lloyd Lewis, Chicago critic! Sea Hoppers On Screen

Capt. Rossi and Paul Codos, intrepid birdmen, who attempted a flight from Paris to California, are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News as they were forced down at Floyd Bennett Field in New York. The Globe Trotter tells about their trip.

With a team of only seven men, Stanford runs away with the honors at the Intercollegiate A. A. A. championship track and field meet in Philadelphia.

Spectacular scenes show the streamlined train, Zephyr, breaking the world's record on its 1,017-mile run from Denver to Chicago. The new train is shown speeding at 112 miles an hour.

Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., is sixth oar on the Harvard crew as they row against Penn and Navy in the American Henley on the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia. Penn wins.

The biggest outdoor dog show ever held brings 2,827 blue-blooded canines to the Morris and Essex Kennel Club exhibition at Madison, N. J.

Miss Sara Mumma, of Evanston, Ill., is honored by Uncle Sam's middies at Annapolis, by being selected to present the colors to the naval academy's crack company.

First pictures of the Toledo automotive workers' strike show clashes between the mobs and the National Guard troops, in which battle two were killed and scores wounded.

Starting with a big parade through the city streets, Chicago's Century of Progress reopens for 1934 to enormous crowds. The record-breaking attendance of 115,000 on the first day brings the prediction that 30,000,000 will visit the fair this year.

Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs in time schedules, it is possible some subjects of the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

New Fields Are Help To Stars

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Hello! Longer screen life is being demanded by the stars through a system which has proven to be of unfailing efficacy. The cry for versatility in the roles assigned to them is not only a desire to show what they can do in the way of variety. It is the fountain of youth in which they can perpetuate popularity and keep the public interested in their work and personalities.

For almost five years Claudette Colbert was under contract to Paramount, playing nothing but the sweet young heroine who got her man in the end. Two years ago Claudette seemed on the wane. It was Cecil B. DeMille's idea to have her do a second lead in "Sign of the Cross." Claudette eagerly accepted.

Then came "The Torch Singer" and "It Happened One Night." Today she is one of the biggest bets in filmdom.

In contrast, Jack Larue is still trying to emancipate himself. He started out in Hollywood playing gangster roles. He got a change with the part of the priest in "Farewell to Arms," which won him a contract, but Paramount put him back to toughie characterizations.

Lee Tracy's first crack at cinemaland was as a hoofer in a Fox flicker—and he failed to click. Warner's brought him back with reporter parts, and he has had them ever since.

Glenda Farrell tried to be an ingenue in "Little Ceasar" and flopped, but as a wise-cracking gal she's tops.

Many players give up the fight for recognition of their versatility by going back to the stage, where, quite often, they are discovered all over again.

Go back a few years and look at Wallace Berry's amazing change of types—he played a female impersonator in ancient Mack Sennett comedies, graduated from that into villainous roles in feature-length films then, years later, became once more a slapstick comedian. And look at him today.

Clark Gable did not know he was a comedian until Frank Capra directed him in "It Happened One Night."

A change might do a lot of them good—if only the studio executives were daring enough to risk it.

* * *

* * *

Snoopings — Bob Montgomery has an especially constructed soda pop wagon which is rolled on the set during hot weather . . . Janet Beecher is showing her sister, Olive Wyndham, New York actress, the cinema sights . . . The Lyle Talbot and Gail Patrick cooing is lasting lonoger than most folks imagined . . . During his vacation Bruce Cabot will be the sporting editor on a paper in Albuquerque, N. M. . . . Pert Kelton got everbody excited in a popular night spot when she appeared with a row of small diamonds along the edge of each eyelid!

* * *

Anna Q. Nilsson and Viola Dana, a couple of the screen's oldtimers (but they're still young and beautiful) are teaming it for a radio program.

The ether wave script is about Hollywood and tells of an extra girl's struggle to stardom. Anna and Vi can and probably will add several of their own experiences.

* * *

Irvin S. Cobb's first day before the cameera for Hal Roach found him making these cracks:

"Trying to 'act natural' in front of a camera is the most artificial gesture possible."

Wanderings Around Town—Dick Carter, the hard-ridin' cowboy and film "stunt" man who doubled for Dudy Valentine years ago, is back in the movie village. Two of his perfectly matched Ming vases are on display in a bank window. Their value was once $35,000 . . . Minna Gombell and her hubby, Joe Sefton, celebrated their first wedding anniversary last week . . . Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Owsley, Monroe's parents, are in from New York and cinema sightseeing; so is Monroe's sister, Mrs. D. L. Hedges . . . The Irving Pichels airplaned it to San Francisco and will visit Irv's former dramatic acting grounds, Berkeley . . . It might interest you to know that I. A. R. Wylie got the idea for her new novel, "Feather in Her Hat," while trying on shoes. Sounds inconsistent, doesn't it? . . . Some super snooping reveals that Laura Treadwell, who plays matronly roles in the flickers, is the wife of Col. George Curtis Treadwell, former secretary of Governors Black, Roosevelt, Hughes and White.

Dorothy Revier, who is vamping in Chesterfield's "Green Eyes," calls her pet pooch Poinsettia—'cause it's a cross between a pointer and setter!

Pulitzer

Your Theater and Mine

By KARL KRUG

MAKE ME A STAR!

They still tell, in the Broadway night haunts, the real story of how one of our leading exponents of slick-haired movie acting reached his present lofty estate. He was a dancer in clubs controlled by Waxey Gordon, New York's public enemy No. 1.

The gang chieftain took a genuine liking to the dancer and one night, while in his cups, said:

"George, what can I do for you? Just say the word, kid, and I'll get you any job you want."

THE SONG IS ENDED

"Yeah, I've heard a lot about Peggy and me, but she's expensive and, anyway, she's out of the state now. I never worry about women who are across the border."

THIS 'N' THAT

Chief Jim Lone Tree, the Apache half-breed, is "working" his way to Chicago after playing in "Frankie and Johnnie" at the Long Island studios...The Chief, who has posed for artists from coast to coast, stopped in town long enough the other day to have his Lincolnesque whiskers removed...Hitch-hiking, he said, was difficult while he carried such foliage around with him... Motorists shied at picking him up ...Now he's worried because lack of them may bar him from the "Days of '49" show at the Century of Progress, whence he's bound ...More words of wisdom from the "extra" girl: "Most men have no respect for a girl who pets—and no time for one who doesn't."

We are all glad to hear that you are with the Sun-Telegraph and wish you the greatest of success . . . Happy days.—Eddie Peyton.

Funster

Acting Play To Tot

Shirley Temple, Fox's 5-year-old star, doesn't quite understand what motion pictures are all about and it is said that she "plays" at being a movie actress. If she suspected that it wasn't a game she might rush back to her Mickey Mouse doll in her playhouse.

Discovered recently on the set of "Baby Take a Bow," in which she is to be seen with James Dunn and Claire Trevor, Shirley responded with animation to the interviewer's questions.

"Sure," says Shirley. "I like movies. It's lots of fun. Look, I'm going to have a party. D'ya want to come?"

That, in the main, is what Shirley thinks of the movies and of movie making. Directors, however, have to keep her thinking that it's fun to spend a day rehearsing, taking a scene and re-taking it.

Doug Meets Ortega

From Barcelona, Spain, comes an amusing story about Douglas Fairbanks. When an American friend of Fairbanks heard he was planning to spend some time in Spain in order to make the exterior "shots" for his new picture, "The Private Life of Don Juan," he sent him a copy of "The Revolt of the Masses" by Ortega, held to be one of the most significant books written by a Speniard in this generation. Fairbanks read the book, the work of a distinguished Madrid professor, on the way to Barcelona. It made such an impression on him that when a Spanish newspaper reporter on his arrival there asked him what one man in Spain he was most anxious to meet, Fairbanks promptly answered, "Ortega."

"I'll bring him to your hotel at 11 o'clock tomorrow," promised the reporter. "He will be honored to call on you."

"I'll be deeply grateful if you will do so," replied Dough, surprised and delighted by the generous gesture.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the following day the telephone rang in his apartment at the Hotel Ritz and he was informed that Senor Ortega was in the lobby. Doug hurried down and rushed over to an impressive looking olive-skinned Spaniard who was standing beside the reporter.

It was Ortega the matador.

Odds and Ends

THERE'S no question about it. Some of the gags that have been told on the radio have reached billions.

And, comments Billy Glason, it's too bad some of the millions couldn't have reached the guys who told 'em. . . .

A CERTAIN sandwich man, reports Jack Arthur, has been working around Radio City and has become a familiar sight to the folks in that vicinity. At noon each day, he turns his signs inside out and walks around for an hour with the blank boards showing. Then he returns the signs to their correct position.

Yesterday, his curiosity aroused, a stenographer asked him the reason for his strange actions.

"Why," he replied proudly, "my profession has a code, too. You don't catch me working during my lunch hour!" . . .

BACK from Jolly Old London comes Ben Finney, bon vivant and American agent for choice liquor combinations. With him, Ben brings a story that he says is brand new in London. That means it's at least 10 years old over here — but I'll take a chance:

In the smoker of a train that was roaring through the Southwest, two men met. After a while, the first man asked the second what his business was. The latter chap replied that he was a sheep counter.

"A sheep counter?" repeated the first man incredulously. "What the devil is that?"

"Oh," returned the other, "it's very simple. A herd of sheep is pointed out to me. I take one look and state exactly how many sheep I am looking at. I am never wrong."

The first man scratched his head, started to say something and then pointed excitedly through the window.

"Look!" he cried. "We're just passing a big herd of sheep. How many sheep are there all together."

His companion glanced through the window.

"Four hundred sixty-eight," he replied calmly.

"That's wonderful," he gasped. "Only a man with a marvelous brain could count sheep that quickly. Do you mind telling me how you do it?"

The sheep counter yawned.

"Not at all," he said easily. "I simply count the legs and then divide by four!" . . .

AFTER seeing all those apartment houses with regal names such as Tudor Arms, Raleigh Arms, Terrington Arms, and so on, Erwin Nied is building a similar spot for old maids.

He's calling it the Empty Arms. . . .

Miss Young Gets Starring Role

Loretta Young, who makes her first appearance as a star in "Born to Be Bad," a 20th Century picture, was born in Salt Lake City. The family moved to Hollywood when she was 4. Her father was then business manager for George Melford, a famous motion picture director. Her brother Jack and her sister Polly preceded her into pictures, and it was not until the director, Mervyn LeRoy, telephoned for Polly, only to find her absent, that Loretta got her first chance. Shortly after that, in 1929, she was selected with her sister as a Wampas baby star.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS :-: By William J. Lewis

A paragraph or two in this column cited by Dr. Bernard Sachs as having delivered an address in Philadelphia concerning the effect of motion pictures, quoting a statement of Dr. Sachs to the effect that gangsters pictures are a contributory influence in crime. Now we have an article sent by Arthur H. DeBray, assistant to the secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., entitled "Motion Pictures and Crime." From it we select the rebuttal for the defense:

"The best objective opinion available on this subject is perhaps summed up in the following concise statement of Dr. George W. Kirchwey, formerly warden of Sing Sing Prison: 'In so far as motion pictures have any direct effect, they do not encourage crime, they discourage it.'

"Mr. Joseph F. Fishman, formerly United States inspector of prisons, writing in Harper's Magazine, July, 1933, goes farther and says of underworld films: 'To these films belongs entirely the credit for the public understanding of, and revulsion against, gang rule today.'

"Investigation into the life histories of 714 reformatory boys led Dr. Peyser, eminent educator and psychologist of Brooklyn, to report, 'I did not find a single one whose delinquency could be traced in any manner whatsoever to the influence of the movies.'"

"If Every Wish Came True" will close the season of the Experimental Theater in Aiken avenue next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 5, 6 and 7. This original comedy, dealing with rural American life, was written by Mrs. Sana Mouromtzeff, a Russian who came to America in 1917 with her husband, an army engineer, who represented the Kerensky government on a military commission to the United States. Before the work was completed the Bolshevik forces had gained the upper hand in Russia and the Mouromtzeffs remained in the United States. They have lived only in New York and Pittsburgh. "If Every Wish Came True" is Mrs. Mouromtzeff's first play, although she took up writing magazine fiction soon after she began to learn English, which took three years.

William Farnum, who once was one of the big-money stars of silent pictures, with a salary reported at $10,000 a week, is to have a role in the coming film version of "The Count of Monte Cristo," and has hopes that it may lead to a come-back. Farnum was injured in 1925 while working in "The Man Who Fights Alone," and the state of his health has prevented any but a few small roles since that time. He has now completely recovered his health.

Katharine Cornell's press representative, Ray Henderson, calls attention to the mention by George Tyler, in his book, "What Goes Up," of trying to persuade Eleanor Robson Belmont to return to the stage to act Elizabeth Barrett in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," but she refused, just as she has declined the many proposals the theater has made to her since her retirement to marry the late August C. Belmont.

"Mrs. Belmont would not hear of it," writes Tyler, "and the difficulty of finding anyone else who could handle the part was too great—Katharine Cornell was under somebody else's management—so I just turned the script back to the author's agent."

Tyler was only one of the 27 leading American producers and players who "turned the script back to the author's agent," Mr. Henderson states, and thereby "lost a fortune." The manager, under whose direction Miss Cornell was acting at the time, had the play in his office and did not even read it. Miss Cornell, when the drama did reach her hands, accepted it.

Cost Put At Million

Production work has been started in Hollywood by Edward Small, of Reliance Pictures, on that company's most ambitious undertaking, the filming of a new version of Dumas' "The Count of Monte Cristo." In support of Robert Donat and Elissa Landi, a cast of 400 principals and extras is being employed, and sets have been constructed for the picture that are among the largest in number and size ever constructed. The interiors alone require nine sound stages. Small feels that there is little exaggeration in saying that it will be a million-dollar picture.

The screen play and dialogue of this new version of "Monte Cristo" have been written by Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh, from an adaptation of the classic by Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey.

The cast will include Raymond Walburn, recently seen in New York stage plays, as Danglars; Georgia Caine as the mother of Mercedes, and Luis Alberni as Jacopo Leon Gordon, well remembered in New York for "White Cargo," has been appointed associate producer. The picture will be released in the fall through United Artists.

Bomb Suspect Freed In $20,000 Bond

Pending application for a new trial in connection with the bombing of the home of Dr. George Seitz, Swissvale Councilman, Philip Fazio was free today on $20,000 bond. Following his release Fazio said he would attempt to have a bond for Nick Consolo, convicted with him in the bomb case.

Jimmy Dunn Stays On New Contract

Jimmy Dunn has had his contract renewed by Fox following completion of "Change of Heart," in which he is seen with Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell and Ginger Rogers. Dunn, who brought his original style of breezy acting to the screen with his introduction in "Bad Girl," has been teamed successfully in many films with Sally Eilers and now Claire Trevor. The newest combination is the trio of Dunn, Miss Trevor and little Shirley Temple in "Baby Take A Bow," Dunn's first under his new contract.

President To Heed Business

By B. C. FORBES

I HEAR that President Roosevelt has become more inclined to heed experienced business men and to pay less exclusive attention to the theorists surrounding him.

Mr. Forbes

The brain truster's batting average has for months proved disappointing. The millenium they were cocksure they could bring about in a hurry by instituting all kinds of revolutionary innovations has failed to materialize, has failed lately to make encouraging progress. Events have demonstrated that Washington alone cannot create adequate employment, and that the attaining of this supreme objective depends mainly upon men of affairs, fillers of pay envelopes.

Theories which may sound ell and look beautiful on paper o not always work out when put to practical test in this stern world, any more than the drawing up of a perfectly faultless "organization chart" for a corporation insures the perfect functioning of the corporation.

What President Roosevelt is now realizing, according to intimations from Washington, is that he has to deal, not with a world of theories, but a world of actualities, and that, therefore, it behooves him to turn more to men of vast practical experience in dealing with actualities.

If charts and theories always worked, there would be statisticians and others interested in Wall street who would be infinitely richer than Rockefeller or Ford or Mellon.

It will be interesting to note the list of visitors to the White House hereafter.

TALKING OF the brain trusters, one reader, William Atkinson, sends this:

"'I do not vouch the tale is true, As told to me I tell to you.'

"The hero is a university professor. He evolved the theory that the sense of hearing in a grasshopper was in his legs, as they have no ears. But he said, 'before promulgating this theory, I will prove it scientifically.'

"So, he took the grasshopper, put it on a table, rapped with a ruler on the table and the grasshopper jumped.

"Then he took the same grasshopper, broke off its legs, put it on the same table, wrapped with the same ruler —and the grasshopper didn't jump.

"'Now,' said the professor, 'it is scientifically proven that the sense of hearing in a grasshopper is in its legs.'

"For the moral, ask any professor who is puzzled by the fact that business fails to jump after its legs are broken by burdensome taxes and unwise experiments."

WRITERS GALORE point out that Dickens put into Micawber's mouth exactly the same sentiment as expressed by Andrew Carnegie, quoted here the other day:

One communicant, R. F. Berkeley, adds:

"We all know the truth of it, though few are guided by it."

The way things are going, and the threatenings by taxleviers, hardly furnish maximum encouragement to lay up a nest-egg.

MODIFICATION of the NRA is sensible. But abolition of NRA at this stage would not be sensible. Unquestionably it has conferred benefits on not a few of our larger industries.

WEALTHY INDIVIDUAL and powerful institutional investors are still fighting shy of stocks. They prefer to hold aloof until the atmosphere at Washington becomes somewhat clarified.

May it not be, however, that distrust and pessimism are being overdone?

Industry's latest major worry is that the Wagner bill may be rammed through Congress. Its passage would re-incite the jitters among pay-envelope fillers.

STRIKE MENACE PULLS STOCKS DOWN

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—With strikes threatened in the major steel and textiles industries, stocks drooped in today's dull and featureless market.

Speculative forces found no especial cheer for equities in the renewed strength of grains at Chicago. "Dollar wheat" was more than realized as further drought reports did not minimize the seriousness of the crop damage. Oats spurted the limit of 3 cents a bushel and the other cereals were within reaching distance of the day's allowable advances.

Cotton failed to follow the grains, and silver was a trifle soft. Rubber was up moderately. United States government securities improved, but other bonds of the secondary categories were easier. The dollar was steady in foreign exchange transactions.

The steels led the decline in shares. United States Steel lost 2 points and Bethlehem and National were off nearly as much. Others, down fractions to around a point or more, included Sears Roebuck, Armour of Illinois preferred, Chrysler and Howe Sound.

With leaders of the steel and textile unions in conference with Gen. Johnson, Wall street saw some hopes of a settlement of these labor problems. In the meantime congressional activities concerning the stock exchange and silver bills were being watched closely. The President's war debt message was also awaited with the thought that it might contain something that would aid stocks.

Estimates based on early reports of leading carriers indicated freight car loadings for the week ended May 26 will show a moderate increase, or about in line with seasonal expectations.

Due to the short week and a sharp reaction at New York City, bank clearings were reported by Dun & Bradstreet to have receded to the lowest total in more than a year. The aggregate for five days ended Tuesday was $3,494,490,000, or 1.4 per cent under the total for the corresponding period of 1933. New York City clearings dropped 10.4 per cent, due largely to reduced trading in the securities markets. Outside cities, however, showed a gain of 21.2 per cent over their totals of a year ago.

WHEAT PASSES DOLLAR MARK

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP.)—Wheat jumped more than 3 cents to above $1 a bushel after sharp downturns at the start. Abnormally high temperatures and practically no important abatement of drought in domestic wheat territory gave impetus of great general buying.

Opening ⅞ to 1⅞ lower, July 96-97, wheat rapidly soared nearly 4 cents in some cases, as compared with the initial bottom figures.

Wildly mounting prices soon carried the wheat market above $1.01 for all deliveries. September wheat led the way and went to $1.02, and then in a twinkling reached within ⅛ cent of $1.03.

Simultaneous with the skyrocketing of wheat, both corn and barley shot upward more than 2 cents a bushel, and rye and oats 3 cents.

Topics in Wall Street

Wall street showed more concern over the threat of a steel strike than of a possible shutdown of textile mills as result of a labor walkout. It was pointed out textile mills for some time have been faced with an overproduction problem anyway and that the direct cause of the threatened textile strike was the move to cut production for the purpose of reducing surplus. Only in the event of a protracted struggle and violence would the textile situation become serious, as Wall street reasoned it.

Steel centers reported rising operations against the seasonal trend. Iron Age estimated output had recovered to 59 per cent of capacity after its setback last week. However, steel shares were weak in early trading, for strike threats and revision of the steel code were dominant influences. In fact, maintenance of steel output near the spring peak was believed to be due in part to accumulation of supplies by customers as a precaution against a shutdown of mills by a strike this summer.

The rise of grains has been a boon to brokers doing both commodity and security business during the present dull spell. Commodity brokers have been hoping that speculation would shift toward the actively traded staples after the security exchanges go under federal rule. Inflation psychology which still persists in speculative quarters favors that, but professional operations in commodities are considered riskier than in stocks. History of the grain market, for one, records numerous wrecks of pools and attempted corners.

For a parallel to current conditions in the stock market, statisticians went back two years. After a severe spring decline, the market touched bottom at the end of May in 1932. It phoved to be bottom up for the long bear movement as well as for the spring down swing, the seventh wave of liquidation in the major cyclical decline. After a brief rally, the market went in a stalemate which lasted through June and early July. Turnover in that interval was not much bigger than it has been lately. The fact that dullness then was a prelude to a sustained forward movement was noted by bulls.

Stocks have been moving in a relatively narrow zone now for about 10 months, the longest period of stability the market has had since the Coolidge bull trend got under way in 1924. After the break-up of the spring and early summer bull movement last July the market settled into a range which has held since then. Industrial shares early in February got slightly through the July peaks, but other groups failed to follow. Bullish chartists, ignoring gloom in brokerage quarters over possible effects of federal control of speculation, continue to call the range of prices in recent months in "accumulation area."

Bond dealers reported better demand from interior institutions for investment securities. Reopening of banks, rising deposits and excess reserves combined to bring in demand for highest-grade issues. Some of the top grade rails are near the higest levels recorded in this century. The blockage in new financing serves to cut down the supply of high-grade corporation bonds and to lift prices accordingly.

CAN'T MAKE MEN HONEST BY LAWS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, May 31.—In a very intelligent letter from San Gabreil, Cal., I am "challenged" to answer six questions. Here goes:

1—"Do you think the public, especially elderly people, should be protected against the loss of their savings in unsound securities?"

Yes—to the extent that there is any dishonesty, or concealment of data, or manipulation of markets. The law wisely provides punishment and controls to prevent such practices, just as in case of burglary and patent medicines.

But life is full of necessary and inevitable risks. Individual care and judgment are required in all sorts of matters. If the governments undertakes to think and act for us, we practically cease to live as individuals.

You can't make men honest by passing laws—nor stop them from drinking or overeating. You can't protect "elderly people" (or even imbeciles) unless by special limitations based on age and intelligence. "Life savings" can't be kept separate from any other savings.

2—"Do you think that the Securities Act and the Stock Exchange bull will protect the public more than heretofore?"

Yes; and probably somewhat, too much.

There are all sorts and degrees of "protection." For example, the new dealers might issue an edict that no one should buy any securities. That would protect the public—although we remember that prohibition did not protect us from booze.

TOO MUCH PROTECTION

3—"Admitting that the law of supply and demand has been shot to pieces since 1930, what would you have done to remedy the situation?"

Supply and demand were not shot to pieces. We merely erected obstacles and interfered with the working of the law. This we did by price-fixing, loans to carry excess stocks of goods, inflationary tactics, and all sorts of bonuses, restrictions and moratoria. The net effect has been to reduce demand and to keep supplies large. The law was not allowed to work out an equilibrium.

Most decidedly I would not have done most of the things that have been done.

The policies which I have advocated all along are the sound ones which alone can give lasting results. Very broadly put, the main ideas are:

1—Firmly maintain the gold standard, and the policies which are necessary thereto, namely liquidation of credit and balanced budgets.

2—Make every effort to settle directly debts of all sorts, by bringing pressure on creditors and debtors to reach agreements, and to write down over-capitalization and property values to a workable basis.

3—Allow market values to work themselves out freely, and break up monopolies and price fixing.

OPPOSES 1929 PRICES

Most certainly not. They represented inflation. They are what we have to "get over." This is why it is so bad to try to go back to them by trying to get all inflated again.

Nor do I defend the business ethics of the post-war period. They were not only unethical, but were cockeyed. And for the same reason I oppose the New Deal ethics, which would have the government manipulate money and business on behalf of favored classes. All the government's manipulations and speculation in cotton and wheat, repudiation of promises in bonds, forfeiture of air mail contracts, "deals" with the silver crowd, and violations of the constitution, are unethical.

5—"Do you consider it wrong for the federal government to lend to local governments and individuals when they are broke?"

Yes—to the extent that the "loans" are gifts, and not made on a businesslike basis. "Relief" should be "given" as needed. But we should not fool ourselves. We should face the facts, and count the costs. Relief does not require that we prostitute our banks and debase our currency.

Time is up—Maybe No. 6 later.

BOY MARVEL, 6, READS MINDS OF STUDENTS

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Six-year-old, curly-haired Jackie Merkle, to whom human minds seem as transparent as a crystal gazer's globe, has Dr. John J. B. Morgan, Northwestern University psychologist, and his class completely puzzled.

For Jackie, in his childish white linen suit, stood on the professor's desk and nonchalantly called out the most complicated names, addresses and occupations.

He even went so far as to define sleeping sickness on request as "lethargic encephalitis." All this was in answer to questions written on little slips of paper which he did not see and probably could not have read if he did.

NOT MENTAL PRODIGY

"If you can say how it is done, you are smarter than I am. His mental age is that of a boy 7 years and 9 months, which would not account for this peculiar faculty he possesses."

Jackie, who was born in the La Salle street station six years and nine months ago, has always possessed his remarkable ability to see the questions in other people's minds—and to answer them—according to his father, J. B. Merkle, a former acrobat, who now makes his home in Troutdale-in-the-Pines, Col., and devotes his entire time to his son.

TELLS GIRLS' NAMES

Jackie not only told Miss Brunaleski Pigalle how to pronounce her name, but he also told Hazel Murphy, a student, her name, said that she would pass her examinations and that she was born in Dallas, Tex.

He told another student that she would spend her holiday in the penitentiary—which she will do as part of her psychological studies.

Both Dr. Morgan and Dr. A. R. Gilliland, psychologist, who also was present at the test, admit themselves baffled by the young prodigy. They reject theories of hypnotism, mental telepathy and mind reading or codes frequently utilized by professional seers.

GIRL ON STAND IN OUIJA DEATH

International News Service.

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., May 31.—Arizona's "ouija board" murder case moved into a dramatic stage today with the scheduled appearance on the witness stand of Mattie Turley, 15, who was said by officers to have confessed that she shot her father, Ernest Turley, Navy gunner's mate, "so that mother could marry a handsome young cowboy."

Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley, a "Miss America" in 1919, the mother of Mattie and widow of Turley, is on trial charged with intent to murder. Mattie is serving a six-year term in a reformatory. She had testified at her own trial that she shot her father at the command of a "ouija board" assertedly directed by her mother.

The shooting occurred last November on the Turley's isolated ranch.

Mattie finds herself a witness against her mother and the latter's counsel indicates a vigorous cross-examination would be conducted in an effort to prove that Mattie had repudiated her confession in connection with the strange "ouija board" seance.

BEATEN, ROBBED NEAR HOME

Sam Rubinoff, of 169 Fullerton street, was recovering today from the injuries suffered early yesterday when two thugs beat and robbed him of $20 and his watch, according to police. The attack occurred near his home.

A radio valued at $500 and $1,000 worth of jewelry was reported stolen from the residence of H. H. Rosenthal and S. Cooper in the Ruskin Apartments, Ruskin avenue, early yesterday.

Minnie Dalton, of 316 South Highland avenue, reported two youths seized her purse, containing $100, while she was walking in Alder street, near Emerson street, Tuesday night.

Dr. Burgess Elected Head of N. Y. Synod

The Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, of Crafton, former president of the Pittsburgh Synod, United Lutheran Church, was elected president of the New York Synod, at Albany today, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Four years ago Dr. Burgess went to New York as missionary superintendent of the New York Synod, but resigned after two years and returned here. However, he had retained membership in the New York Synod. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler in the New York Synod presidency.

Those playing the leading rolls are Katherine Dobies as Cinderella, Helen Szymanski will play the part of the fairy godmother, Madeline Estatico will be the prince and the wicked stepsisters will be portrayed by Wanda Stepanski and Frances Zielmanski. The part of the Cupid will be played by Regina Szymanski. The play is under the direction of Miss Laura A. Turner and Miss Mary E. Graham with Miss May Wright accompanist.

'TELEPATHY' AID TO DANCER

Nine years ago a 14-year-old Youngstown girl, unable to speak or hear since birth, set out on a long-shot gamble for success as a dancer.

Eight years ago she made her first appearance on a night club floor, chalking off the first rung in her fight to scale the ladder of success.

She is Frances Woods, 23, the only deaf-mute dancer in the United States, who with her partner, Billy Bray, is filling an engagement this week at The Willows, Oakmont night club.

Frances follows the vibrations in the floor, Bray explains, and knows within a split second when the dancing couple and the music are not geared perfectly. Should the floor be of cement, Bray conveys the beat to his partner through his fingers.

"Mental telepathy. I didn't believe in it at all, once, but I I do now. She always knows just what I'm going to do."

BEAMISH HURLS BRIBE CHARGES

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 31.—Capitol Hill waited expectantly today for members of the Pennsylvania Legislature to reply to general bribery charges hurled at them by the Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish.

Commenting on the action of a Dauphin County grand jury which finally acquitted George J. O'Brien, former port appraiser of Philadelphia, of a charge of offering a $20,000 bribe to Beamish for a contract for 800 voting machines in Philadelphia, the Secretary of the Commonwealth yesterday said:

"I know of sessions of the General Assembly in which virtually every member was offered bribes, many of which were accepted."

Retail Coal Dealers To Hear Complaints

Complaints against coal code violators are to be heard at a meeting of retail coal dealers and representatives of civic organizations from 18 Western Pennsylvania counties in the Chamber of Commerce today. L. I. MacQueen, secretary of the local code authority for the retail solid fuel industry, said the hearing will last until all evidence of unfair trade

Plenty of Action Followed This Black Cat

VIENNA, May 31.—(AP.)—Bad luck came instantaneously when a black cat crossed the path of Peter Sussbauer as he was driving near Klagenfurt.

2 DIE IN LONE PLANE CRASH

CROYDON, England, May 31.—A French airplane pilot and his mechanic were killed and scores of sleeping residents of this London suburb narrowly escaped death or serious injury today in the most amazing accident in the history of Croydon Airdrome, Britain's largest flying field.

Several houses were badly wrecked, and two automobiles were crushed in the accident, which occurred when a giant French freight plane, carrying mails and newspapers, struck an 80-foot radio mast in taking off for Paris at 5 a. m.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Don't quit on the Pirates because they have run into a streak of misfortune and suffered four straight defeats in their last two playing days, plunging into fourth place and to within half a game of the second division and the fifth-place Boston Braves, the latter, incidentally, being now the only club in either major league that has yet to lose three games in succession. It's at times like the present, when all the breaks are going against them, that the Bucs need loyal support and encouragement. Give them that help and they'll speedily prove that the slump was only temporary.

Larry French

The losses have not been due to any lack of fight or hustle. Convincing evidence that the Rovers have been fighting hard in the face of adversity is to be seen in the fact that two of the four defeats came in 11-inning battles and another was suffered by a score of 1 to 0. The willingness with which the unfortunate Larry French went in to try to save the second game yesterday, though he had had only one day's rest after pitching 11 innings on Monday, was typical of the spirit of the club. A team that is trying and fighting in that fashion won't stay down long. Don't be a fair-weather fan. Stick to the Pirates and they'll soon be on the rise again.

HOLY CROSS STARTS COLLEGE BALL BOOM

The collegiate sports picture nereabouts hasn't been complete since most of the big schools dropped baseball, and many students and fans have been hoping for a revival of the diamond game, with the possible development of some more big leaguers like Al Mamaux, John Miljus and Steve Swetonic. If the institutions which abandoned the pastime have been awaiting signs of an approaching ripe time for a comeback, they may find encouragement in a big boom reported from Holy Cross College.

Though long the national tops in college baseball, even that school experienced a slump in recent seasons, but under the able leadership of Tom McCabe, its hustling new athletic director, who incidentally has booked Carnegie Tech for a football game in 1935, the Worcester institution has put the game back on its feet in a way that may betoken a general upswing all along the collegiate line. Five of the early games attracted more than 15,000 spectators, and it is expected that crowds much larger will attend the more important contests to come, particularly that with the Dodgers next Monday.

It is to be Owen Carroll Day, and Carroll, who was the outstanding college pitcher of the country at Holy Cross until his graduation in 1925, will pitch againts his alma mater. Holy Cross, still coached by Jack Barry, already has played two other major league clubs in the Boston Braves and Red Sox, and in general has made great strides toward putting college baseball back in the public eye.

PUZZLED BY WARNEKE'S LOSS OF WEIGHT

Charley Grimm admits he is worried no little about Lonnie Warneke's loss of weight. The star pitcher of the Cubs is 15 pounds lighter than he was a year ago, and while he was entirely too heavy for the Pirates yesterday, Warneke's drop in poundage is held to have caused his recent slump after he started out with a pair of one-hit games. Grimm is frankly puzzled and says he can discover no reason for the loss of weight. Warneke says he feels all right, and he looks all right in the box, but players on other clubs have told Grimm that Lonnie isn't as fast as formerly, though the Bucs won't agree.

Lonnie Warneke

The Cub pilot is all the more concerned because he figures that the pennant will go to the club that gets the best pitching, and he sees five teams in the fight, including the Braves. It takes pitching as well as a punch to win, Grimm reasons, remarking that no matter how many runs a club can make, it's out of luck if it can't keep the other fellows from making more. The Phils have been proving that for years. Having seen all the other contenders, the Chicago manager says the Cardinals are the club to beat.

SPOON NOT RUNYAN'S FAVORITE IN GOLF

Called the best spoon player in golf since Hilton, Paul Runyan reveals that he got that way from necessity. Runyan corrects the popular impression that the spoon is his favorite club, saying that he actually prefers a No. 4 iron. Instead of favoring the spoon from some sort of whim, he adopted it as a matter of expediency. Slightly built, with small hands and feet, Runyan explains that naturally he can't drive as far as the big-boned sluggers and hence finds the spoon helpful on holes of from 420 to 480 yards. He says he can keep the ball straighter than with a big iron and the higher trajectory, with the consequent steeper angle of fall, enables him to hold the green better on long approach shots.

Though Gene Sarazen and others consider Runyan too frail to stand up under the 72-hole strain, Paul has plenty of confidence in his ability to win the national open at Merion next week. He figures the odds against him at about 10 to 1, but insists that nobody in the field has a better chance.

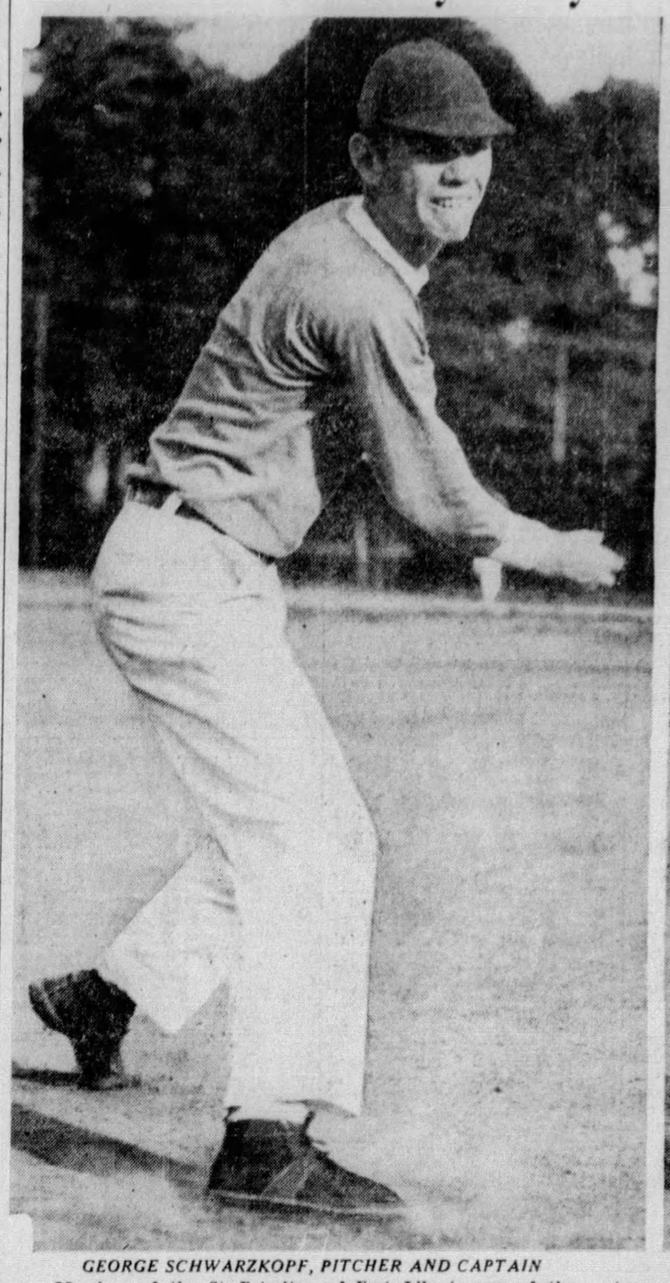
CONACHER ADMITS VALUE OF PUBLICITY

All professional sports figures like publicity, even seek it. They need it in their business. But how many of them openly admit it? Lionel Conacher, who got his American start right here in Pittsburgh, is one of the few. Because he is an all-around athlete, though his major fame at present is that of a hockey player, Conacher's views are interesting. Lionel is Canada's greatest athlete. As an amateur, he was outstanding in every sport he tried. As a professional, he still is outstanding. And he expects to be playing professional hockey and football at the age of 40.

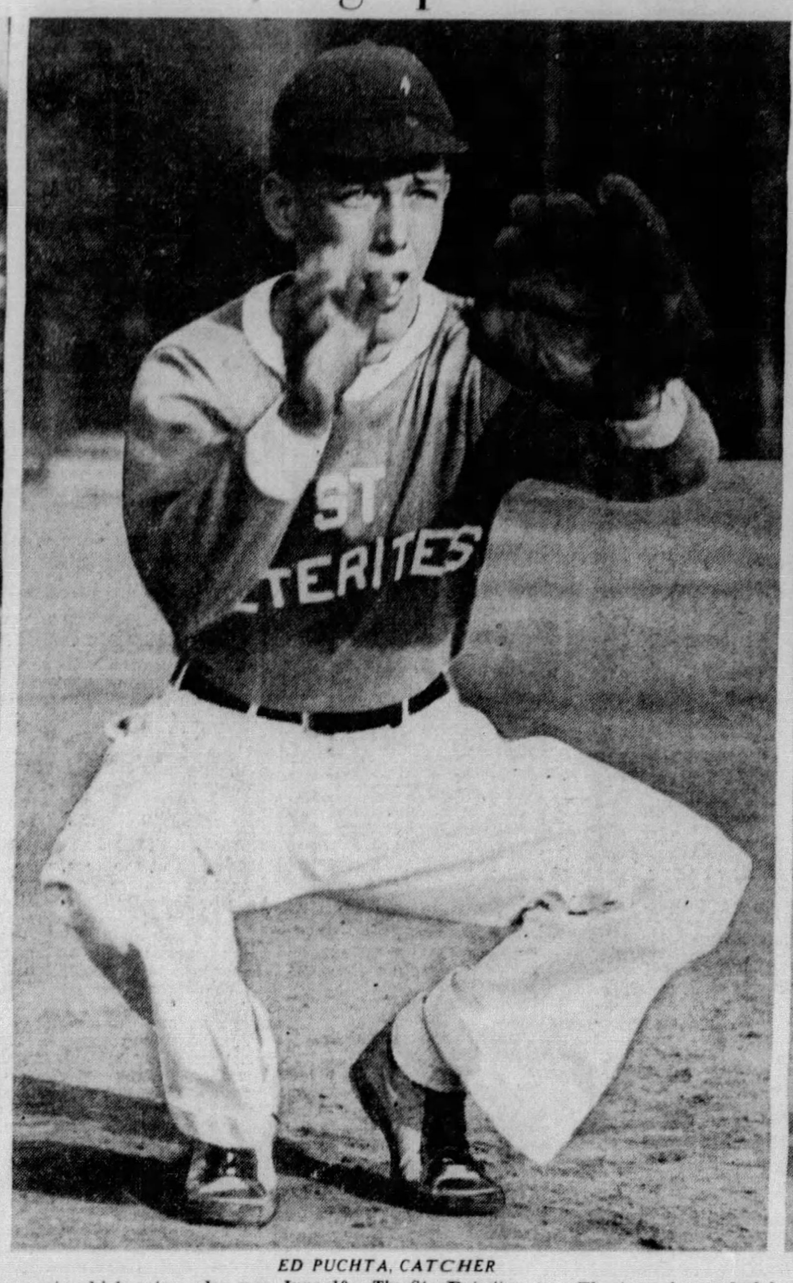
Lionel Conacher

Many believe that Conacher, more than anyone else, was responsible for Chicago's success in hockey last winter, success that culminated in the capture of the Stanley Cup, the highest honor in the game. That he was not appointed as successor to Tommy Gorman when a new manager was chosen was a surprise. But that's not the point. What impresses is his frank attitude toward publicity. "I always managed to get publicity," Conacher says. "I don't think it has affected me. I worked it from an angle different from that of most fellows. It was business with me. It made me bigger. It had value. Every time Lionel Conacher did this or that, it was good for Lionel Conacher. Look at the work many people do behind the scenes without anyone knowing about it?" So there is one answer to publicity, coming from an athlete who knows his sports from college, club, amateur and professional angles.

East Liberty Players in Sun-Telegraph Softball Tournament



GEORGE SCHWARZKOPF, PITCHER AND CAPTAIN



ED PUCHTA, CATCHER

E. SCHUKER, SECOND BASEMAN

Members of the St. Peterites, of East Liberty, one of the many teams entered in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's softball tournament, which gets under way June 10. The St. Peterites also play mushball, and so far have won 16 games and lost three. The team is coached by Bid Schwarzkopf and captained by his brother, George, who is the leading hitter with an average of .428.

SOFTBALL PLAY ENTRY LIST EXTENDED

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI
Softball Tournament Secretary

In order to give the teams desiring to enter the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament, which gets under way June 10, more time to get into line, the entry list, which was to have closed at midnight tomorrow, has been extended five days and will remain open until next Wednesday midnight.

Many of the younger players are busy with their final work in school and have not found time to get around to the business of entering, and, with the deadline drawing near, it was felt advisable to grant them an extension. There will be no delay after Wednesday, however, as the groupings must be made in time for the teams to begin their bracket eliminations the following week.

ARRANGE FOR FIELDS

Teams already entered and those contemplating entering are urged to make arrangements at once for the use of home fields. For this purpose the playgrounds will co-operate. Make application at your nearest recreation field. Many of the school fields also will be available.

Only one game a week is scheduled for each team during the first seven weeks of play, and teams playing other varieties of the sport such as mushball can continue with their present schedules and still enter this competition. Just send in your entry blank and a set of team and individual players' registration cards will be mailed to you.

BUTTONS FOR PLAYERS

As soon as the entries close arrangements will be made to furnish each player with an official button, which will identify him as a bona fide tournament member. Bracket lists and score cards will follow.

Managers who already have received their complete setups are delighted with the tournament arrangements, and have expressed themselves as satisfied that this is the best plan ever arranged for any sport on a major scale here and that a bright future is in store for softball.

Following are some of the latest entries received:

Mt. Lebanon, Clinton Froelich, manager; Sportsmen Club, East Pittsburgh, Pat Hughes, manager; Valley Tigers, of Lawrenceville, William Novey, manager; Waverly, East End, Manager Goehring; Locust A. C., Carnegie, William Harty, manager; Fruska Gora Girls, Aliquippa, Metro Rebich, manager; Comets, McKees Rocks, E. Porta, manager, and Richfield Oilers, Ford City, Steve Wallech, manager.

Gravity is the action between masses of matter and, as the earth is neither of uniform density nor of uniform conformation, the center of gravity cannot be at the earth's mathematical center. The large concentrations of water on the earth's surface are a gravitational factor inferior to the earth's mountainous regions. TOMORROW: TELLING TIME BY FLOWERS.

CRIPPLED BUCS MUST MEET HARD TEST

CHICAGO, May 31.—The scenery around Forbes Field and Schenley Park will be a welcome sight to George Gibson and his battered Pirates when they roll into the home port tomorrow morning. The thought of fighting the fast-flying Cardinals in four battles, beginning tomorrow afternoon, is not such a comforting one, yet the Buccos are quite convinced they will be able to get straightened around once they get back on their home lot.

Gibby's club is passing through one of the hardest sections of the Pirate schedule and the team must carry on without the services of Outfielder Fred Lindstrom, who is in Pittsburgh nursing a splintered finger which will keep him out of action for another week.

The next 10 days will find the Pirates engaged exclusively with western rivals, two of which are hot on the pennant trail. The excitement with the Redbirds will get under way with a single game tomorrow. Saturday will see the pennant contenders locked in a doubleheader. The fourth and final contest will be a Sunday attraction at Forbes Field.

HARD DAYS AHEAD

The Buccos will have no championship action on Monday, but on Tuesday they will cross bats with the Reds at Cincinati in the first battle of a three-game series. This set completed the Pirates will move to St. Louis to take on the Cards in three games before returning home to stave off the eastern entries in a long series of fights.

Chicago was a Memorial Day Waterloo for the Buccos. The new departure in the National League schedule, which took the Pirates off their home grounds on a holiday, brought woe to Gibson's fighters, who lost both ends of a double-header in the presence of 45,000 fans. The scores were 7-2 and 6-5, the battle raging through 11 innings in the second game. The double defeat made it four setbacks in a row for the Buccos, who were pushed into fourth place.

135,000 ATTEND ANNUAL AUTO THRILLER

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—(AP.)—On the sun-scorched bricks of the Indianapolis motor speedway, Wild Bill Cummings has achieved the victory he decided on as a boy 20 years ago.

As 135,000 spectators looked on, the 28-year-old driver flashed past the finish line yesterday to win the annual 500-mile race at the record-breaking average of 104.863 miles an hour and collect about $40,000 in prizes and awards.

GETS CLOSE WIN

Cummings won by just 27 seconds from Mauri Rose, of Dayton, O., who chased him for the last 50 miles to the closest, most sensational ending in the 22 years' history of the track.

Cummings' time was 4:46:05.20. The Indianapolis youngster and Rose both smashed the former speed mark of 104.162 miles an hour set by Louis Meyer, of South Gate, Cal., in 1933.

Thus did the daring veterans of the speedways defeat the plans of race officials who thought to place a clamp on the excessive speed by limiting gasoline allotments to 45 gallons for each little racing car. Not one of the 20 cars forced out of the running failed because of too heavy fuel consumption. Cummings himself said he had "about three gallons" left over.

DURAY PROTESTS

Stewards of the race will consider today an official protest made by Leon Duray, of Los Angeles, owner of the car driven by Rose. Duray contended Cummings violated rules and gained about three-fourths of a lap during the period when the drivers were slowed down for removal of wreckage from the course.

The smashups, three in number, were all of minor character. The most serious injury was a broken wrist sustained by George Bailey, of Detroit, when his car bounced over a wall at the north end of the track. The other cars wrecked were those of Chet Miller, of Detroit, and George (Doc) McKenzie, of Edington, Pa.

The officially revised times and speed averages of finishers along with the distribution of $66,000 in capital and consolation prizes, follows:

No.—Driver.	Time.	M.H.P.	Prizes.

RECORD TURNOUTS FEATURE HOLIDAY GAMES IN MAJORS

70,000 WATCH YANKS, NATS SPLIT EVEN

Associated Press.

The season's biggest turnout of fans made the first of the holidays which fall within the baseball season a pleasant memory to major league magnates today, although it might rankle a bit in the minds of the players of five clubs which failed to win a game.

About 238,000 fans filled the stands in eight cities. The largest throng, 70,000, gathered at the Yankee Stadium to see New York and Washington divide a pair of brilliantly played games. Brooklyn made the next best showing, setting an Ebbets Field attendance record of 42,000 for the Dodger-Giant bill which brought two defeats for the home club.

YANKS, NATS SPLIT

At New York, Earl Whitehill held the Yankees hitless for 8⅓ innings, then was removed after giving the one New York hit in Washington's 1 to 0 triumph. The Yanks evened the count and remained close behind Cleveland's league-leaders by taking the second game, 5 to 4, in 11 innings.

Cleveland also was held to an even break, dropping the 12-inning opener to Chicago, 8 to 7, then winning the second contest, 5 to 4, when Hal Trosky hit three homers in a row

Detroit's third place Tigers were the only American Leaguers to win two games, beating the St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 5-4.

Philadelphia and Boston, split a morning and afternoon program. The A's took a 5-to-3 decision in an early encounter marked by the first appearance of Boston's brother battery of Ferrell and the Red Sox came back with a 2-to-1 triumph behind Dusty Rhodes' five-hit flinging.

BUCS LOSE GROUND

Three of the four teams involved in the National League battle swept twin bills while the fourth, Pittsburgh, lost twice and skidded down to fourth place. The Chicago Cubs accounted for the Pirates' downfall by scores of 7 to 2 and 5 to 4.

The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals took two easy victories from the last-place Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 6 and 9 to 2. The New York Giants captured second place from Pittsburgh by walloping Brooklyn, 5 to 2 and 8 to 6, and had additional cause for celebration when Watson Clark pitched his first full game in the opener.

The Boston Braves also won two games, beating the Phillies 10-4 and 5-1 but suffered a setback in the opener when Ed Brandt, star southpaw, pulled a muscle in his pitching arm and had to retire in the third inning.

Katys First set a world record of 2:09⅕ from scratch in the H. M. Parshall mile handicap for trotters at the Urbana, O., track yesterday after Senator McKylo, with a 90-foot handicap, had equaled the record of 2:10 from a standing start on a half-mile track.

The Marietta College crew yesterday defeated Rollins College, of Florida, by one and one-half lengths in 9:21 over a two-mile course on the Ohio River at Marietta.

Louis Balinski, of Kalamazoo, Mich., won three first places and established a world record of 10 minutes 15.4 seconds for 10 miles over a dirt track in the annual Memorial Day motorcycle races yesterday at Richmond, Va.

The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the sale of Pitcher Charley Perkins to Buffalo, of the International League.

PITT TRACKERS ROUT GENEVA

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 31.—Any doubt that the University of Pittsburgh has a real track and field team has been effectively erased here. The powerful Panther squad yesterday swamped Geneva's ambitious team, 110 to 30, to record its fifth victory of the year. The team has not been defeated, and up until yesterday, neither had Geneva.

Two Reeves Stadium records went by the boards. Arvil Fleming, Pitt's sturdy Negro star, jumped 22 feet 11 inches in the broad jump and the Panther mile relay team of Connolly, McDonald, Keller and Kiger covered the mile in 3:25.6.

Pitt scored sweeps in the mile, two-mile, 440 and discuss.

RAMSAY VICTOR

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 31.—Ramsay High School, of Mt. Pleasant, won the 1934 Westmoreland County interscholastic track and field title in the annual meet here yesterday. The victors scored 50½ points, Greensburg finishing second with 47; Latrobe was next with 39½; East Huntingdon, W. P. I. A. L. champion, fourth with 38; Derry fifth with 18½; South Greensburg next with 6½; Norwin tallied 5; Scottdale, 4; New Stanton, 6½, and St. Vincent Preps and Jeannette failed to tally.

Five records were shattered during the meet.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM WINS

YANKEES LEAD MEXICANS IN ZONE PLAY

BALTIMORE, May 31.—(AP.)—Confident of winning the doubles, the only match needed to eliminate Mexico in the zone play, the United States Davis Cup team today was looking forward to the games with the European representatives and the chance of regaining the prized tennis trophy from Great Britain.

The United States team easily won the first two single matches yesterday. Two more singles will be played tomorrow, even if the United States has the three necessary points.

George Lott, of Chicago, and Lester R. Stoefen, of Los Angeles, will oppose the Mexican pair of Eduardo Mestre, Jr., and Angel Roldan for today's play.

Without losing a set and dropping only three love games, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, and Stoefen came through their singles yesterday in masterful style. Wood defeated Ryes, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, and Stoefen won from Dr. Tapia, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0.

win the early scrap. Homers by Hartnett and Klein were a feature of this contest. The Pittsburghers took the lead in the second round, but Meine could not hold it.

FRENCH LOSES ANOTHER

Larry French, on the heels of his painful defeat in New York Monday, went into action in the nightcap in time to be charged with the defeat. French worked the closing rounds of the fight, which ended when Larry passed Pinchhitter Billy Herman with the bases filled to score Stanley Hack, who had opened the inning with a scratch hit. Herman batted for Manager Grimm after two were out.

Hal Smith and Pat Malone started the second game, but neither finished. Smith was easy for the Bruins and gave way to Waite Hoyt in the fourth. Leon Chagnon also worked a spell on the mound before French reached the scene. Malone made way for Lefty Joiner in the eighth, but Charley Root, veteran righthander, got credit for the Chicago success as he followed Joiner to the slab.

EQUIPOISE BEATEN

NEW YORK, May 31.—A crowd of 31,000 saw Equipoise, great 5-year-old stake winner, beaten by a nose by Ladyman in the Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park yesterday. War Glory was third, two lengths back, over the 1¼-mile journey. Equipoise carried 134 pounds.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Far, far from the roar of the motors was Speed Gardner, former local automobile race driver, as the Indianapolis Speedway's annual 500-mile race was under way yesterday . . . Last year Gardner miraculously escaped death when his car, speeding at approximately 115 miles per hour, hit a grease spot on the track, whirled about and threw him high into air . . . A week ago, the driver whose car spilled the oil which caused the accident was killed at Ascot . . . Following a long hospital siege, Gardner has decided to make his home in Florida, and he was en route there yesterday, with his car loaded with a lot of gadgets purchased here . . . He has forsaken the roaring road . . . He's seen too many of his buddies get it and his close call of a year ago was his last, unless the lure of the game causes him to change his mind . . . Meanwhile, for the present at least, Howard Mayberry and his other local pals are breathing easier.

This young heavyweight boxer of Charleroi, Johnny Daniels, who is being coached by Tug Phillips, looks as if he may go some place . . . The other night he knocked out the much more seasoned Buck Makrum in the first round at Monessen . . . Johnny has had just three fights . . . In the first he bested Pete Landini in three rounds and in his next two he stopped Dan Palin and Makrum in a round each . . . In his next start, at Charleroi, June 12, he probably will box Jimmy Jones, the Pittsburgh Golden Gloves champion . . . He is 21 years old and built along Jack Dempsey lines, being 6 feet 1½ inches tall and weighing 190 pounds . . . George Panka, former Homestead heavyweight, now is working in Weirton, W. Va. . . . It is doubtful if he will do any more boxing.

Barney Ross' victory over Jimmy McLarnin the other night bore out a point considered by all veteran dopesters in assaying the chances of victory of a contender against a highly-touted ringman . . . Like Jack Dempsey before him, McLarnin had been set up as invincible in the public mind and at his age he was all set to be beaten by the first good opponent who was not afraid of this glamorous reputation . . . Dempsey could have beaten a fear-instilled opponent at Philadelphia, but in Tunney he found himself opposed to a good boxer who had to be beaten with his fists and not his reputation . . . The same circumstances surrounded the Ross-McLarnin meeting . . . Barney was not afraid of McLarnin and when the latter found he couldn't scare his opponent into defeat, as he had so many others, his doom was at hand . . . In figuring the possibility of a Dempsey or a McLarnin reaching the end of his trail, the heart of his opponent is one of the greatest factors to be considered . . . Ross was attuned mentally as well as physically to the task of slaying the McLarnin bogeyman, and that is the principal reason he won.

There are several reasons why Anson Green, the Negro middleweight, of Homestead, does not measure up yet as an opponent for Ted Yarosz . . . One of these is a lazy, rather ambitionless manner of fighting . . . Another is inability to think as rapidly as an ordinary opponent under fire . . . Still another is a lack of boxing polish and experience . . . He didn't beat Johnny Pilc at Hickey Park the other night, although he got a split decision . . . What he needs more than anything else is a prodding to stir his ambition.

Green made a good stand against Ben Jeby recently, but he has been beaten by Tommy Rios and looked bad against Pilc, two mediocre opponents, which is the best answer to why many persons considered the idea of matching him against the speedy Yarosz at this time more or less ridiculous . . . The fact that he might have drawn a large gate against Yarosz is entirely beside the point . . . He drew only a handful in fighting Pilc, and his exhibition didn't justify any larger turnout . . . What crowd would have been drawn by a Yarosz-Green fight would have been attracted by Yarosz, and such a one-sided match would not have bolstered the confidence of the fans in the sport or in the integrity of the promoters . . . As for Yarosz, he would have been willing to fight Anson gratis on the Mike Ray benefit card next Monday night except for the fact that he did not wish to cast any reflection upon Green's ability by making such a proposition.

Anson has possibilities, make no mistake about that . . . He can hit with deadly effect and he can take a punch . . . However, he will have to get a better all-round balance before he will justify all the ballyhoo he has been receiving lately on the strength of a few widely scattered knockout punches against ordinary opponents.—HARRY KECK.

HORSE RACES, POLO, TRACK TOP CARD

The Schenley Matinee Club's inaugural meeting at Schenley Oval, running races and harness events, a pair of polo tilts and a track and field meet at South Park bulwarked a general sandlot baseball schedule on yesterday's local Memorial Day sports card.

Several thousand persons watched the first meeting of the matinee club at the oval. Anna M. scored a straight heat victory in the 3-year-old trot for colts; Lindy Stout won the pacing event, second on the card; Gladys Ellen took the third, a free-for-all trot; Glenville won the fourth, a pacing race; Kinney O. annexed the fifth, another trot and Donna B's son took the sixth, also a trot.

At South Park, Flash, ridden by Jackie Shields, won the quarter mile sprint for ponies, Peter Sunday took the mixed trot and pacing race; Nola Scott, with Ed Walker up, won the half mile running race; Buzz Stout scored in the half-mile; Ohio King was clocked in 1:59 in the special exhibition pace of one mile, and Boots turned in a 1:08½ half-mile in an exhibition dash.

The South Park and North Hills polo teams turned in triumphs after hard battles. The parkers nosed out the Fox Chapel quartet, 5 to 4, in a great duel and North Mills downed Midwood, 6 to 2.

Ed Work, of the P. A. A., former Purdue University star, starred in the track and field meet, winning the 400 meters run, the high jump and taking second in the 100 meters dash, which was won by a teammate, Demmler, in 11 1-5.

SCHOOL GOLF STARS CLASH

By TOM BIRKS

The Interscholastic Golf Conference inaugurates playoff competition for the league title and the Women's Golf Association resumes team league competition to top the district golf card for today.

C. Foster Meyer, star of the crack Kiski team, has been elected president of the Eastern Interscholastic Golf Conference.

C. Donald Davidson, playing the 270-yard, par four No. 4 hole at Montour Heights yesterday, sank his tee shot to record one of the most unusual aces ever made in the district. His shot landed short of the green, but trickled on into the cup.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTIS

The Thin Man

By DASHIELL HAMMETT

Suddenly he took his hands down from his face and laughed. "Holy mackerel! It would serve me right if you had pinched me. That's the afternoon I was—wait, I'll show you." He went into the bedroom.

After a few minutes Guild called: "Hey, we haven't got all night. Shake it up."

There was no answer.

The bedroom was empty when we went into it and when we opened the bathroom door the bathroom was empty. There was an open window and a fire-escape.

I said nothing, tried to look nothing.

Guild pushed his hat back a little from his forehead and said: "I wish he hadn't done that." He went to the telephone in the living-room.

While he was telephoning, I poked around in drawers and closets, but found nothing. My search was not very thorough and I gave it up as soon as he had finished putting the police machinery in action.

"I guess we'll find him, all right," he said. "I got some news. We've identified Jorgensen as Roseben."

"Who made the identification?"

"I sent a man over to talk to [illegible] girl that gave him his alibi, [illegible]B, is Olga Fenton, and he finally [illegible]got it out of her. He says he [illegible]wouldn't shake her on the alibi, [illegible]though. I'm going over and [illegible]Steve a try at her. Want to [illegible]6 come along?"

I looked at my watch and said: I'd like to, but it's too late. Picked him up yet?"

"The order's out." He looked thoughtfully at me. "And will that baby have to do some talking!"

I grinned at him. "Now who do you think killed her?"

"I'm not worrying," he said. "Just let me have things to squeeze enough people with and I'll turn up the right one before the whistle blows."

In the street he promised to let me know what happened, and we shook hands and separated. He ran after me a couple of seconds later to send his very best regards to Nora.

Mimi Calls Up

Home, I delivered Guild's message to Nora and told her the day's news.

"I've got a message for you, too," she said. "Gilbert Wynant dropped in and was quite disappointed at missing you. He asked me to tell you he has something of uttermost importance' to tell you."

"He's probably discovered that Jorgenson has a mother fixation."

"Do you think Jorgenson killed her?" she asked.

"I thought I knew who did it," I said, "but it's too mixed up now for anything but guesses."

"And what's your guess?"

"Mimi, Jorgensen, Wynant, Nunheim, Gilbert, Dorothy, Aunt Alice, Morelli, you, me, or Guild. Maybe Studsy did it. How about shaking up a drink?"

She mixed some cocktails. I was on my second or third when she came back from answering the telephone and said: "Your friend Mimi wants to talk to you."

I went to the telephone. "Hello, Mimi."

"I'm awfully sorry I was so rude the other night, Nick, but I was so upset and I just simply lost my temper and made a show of myself. Please forgive me." She ran through this very rapidly, as if anxious to get it over with.

"That's all right," I said.

Must Consult Him

She hardly let me get my three words out before she was speaking again, but slower and more earnestly now: "Can I see you, Nick? Something horrible has happened, something—I don't know what to do, which way to turn."

"What is it?"

"I can't tell you over the phone, but you've got to tell me what to do. I've got to have somebody's advice. Can't you come over?"

"You mean now?"

"Yes. Please."

I said, "All right," and went back to the living room. "I'm going to run over and see Mimi. She says she's in a [illegible] and needs help."

Nora laughed. "She apologize to you? She did to me."

"Yes, all in one breath. Is Dorothy home or still at Aunt Alice's?"

"Still at Auntie's, according to Gilbert. How long will you be?"

"No longer than I have to. The chances are they've copped Jorgensen and she wants to know if it can be fixed."

"Can they do anything to him? I mean if he didn't kill the Wolf girl."

"I suppose the old charges against him—threats by mail, attempted extortion—could be raked up." I stopped drinking to ask Nora and myself a question: "I wonder if he and Nunheim knew each other?" I thought that over, but could make nothing more than a possibility of it. "Well, I'm on my [illegible]."

Yes to See Mimi

Mimi received me with both hands. "It's awfully, awfully nice of you to forgive me, Nick, but then you've always been awfully nice. I don't know what got into me Monday night."

I said: "Forget it."

Her face was somewhat pinker than usual and the firmness of its muscles made it seem younger. Her blue eyes were very bright. Her hands had been cold on mine. She was tense with excitement, but I could not figure out what kind of excitement it was.

She said: "It was awfully sweet of your wife, too, to—"

"Forget it."

"Nick, what can they do to you for concealing evidence that somebody's guilty of a murder?"

"Make you an accomplice—accomplice after the fact is the technical term—if they want."

"Even if you voluntarily change your mind and give them the evidence?"

"They can. Usually they don't."

She looked around the room as if to make sure there was nobody else there and said: "Clyde killed Julia. I found the proof and hid it. What'll they do to me?"

"Probably nothing except give you hell—if you turn it in. He was once your husband; you and he are close enough together that no jury'd be likely to blame you for trying to cover him up—unless, of course, they had reason to think you had some other motives."

Claws Nick

She asked coolly, deliberately: "Do you?"

"I don't know," I said. "My guess would be that you had intended to use this proof of his guilt to shake him down for some dough as soon as you could get in touch with him, and that now something else has come up to make you change your mind."

She made a claw of her right hand and struck at my face with her pointed nails. Her teeth were together, her lips drawn far back over them.

She laughed, though her eyes did not change. "You're such a beast. You always think the worst of me, don't you?"

"Who was the woman who threw the skillet?" she asked. "Anyone I know?"

"It wasn't Nora, if that's what you mean. Have they arrested Victor-Christian Roseben-Jorgensen yet?"

"What?"

I believed in her bewilderment, though both it and my belief in it surprised me. "Jorgensen is Roseben," I said. "You remember him. I thought you knew."

"You mean that horrible man who—?"

Won't Believe It

"Yes."

"I won't believe it." She stood up working her fingers together. "I won't. I won't." Her face was sick with fear, her voice strained, unreal as a ventriloquist's. "I won't believe it."

"That'll help a lot," I said.

She was not listening to me. She turned her back to me and went to a window, where she stood with her back to me.

I said: "There's a couple of men in a car out front who look like they might be coppers waiting to pick him up when he—"

She turned around and asked sharply: "Are you sure he's Roseben?" Most of the fear had already gone out of her face and her voice was at least human again.

"The police are."

We stared at each other, both of us busy thinking. I was thinking she had not been afraid that Jorgensen killed Julia Wolf, or even that he might be arrested: she was afraid his only reason for marrying her had been as a move in some plot against Wynant.

When I laughed—not because the idea was funny, but because it had come to me so suddenly—she started and smiled uncertainly. "I won't believe it," she said, and her voice was very soft now, "until he tells me himself."

"And when he does—then what?"

She moved her shoulders a little, and her lower lip quivered. "He is my husband."

That should have been funny, but it annoyed me. I said: "Mimi, this is Nick. You remember me, N-i-c-k."

"I know you never think any good of me," she said gravely. "You think I'm—"

Synopsis

Nick Charles, noted detective, who tells the story of "The Thin Man," and Nick's wife, Nora, meet Dorothy Wynant, daughter of a former client, in a speakeasy. Dorothy asks where her father is and Nick refers her to Herbert Macaulay, Wynant's attorney. Macaulay, calls on Nick and tells him Mimi, Wynant's divorced wife, is hunting him.

Next day Nick reads of the murder of Julia Wolf, Wynant's secretary. Mimi found the body when she went to get Wynant's address.

While a Mr. Norman is telephoning to Nick a loud report as of a shot is heard and his words end abruptly.

Nick is shot by Morelli. Police find Dorothy's automatic in Nick's apartment. Dorothy, beaten by Mimi, seeks shelter at Nick's, and tells new story about gun. Julia served time for working badger game. Guild tells Nick. Wynant's letter urges Nick hunt slayer. Nick talks with Studsy. Guild and Nick quiz Nunheim.

INAUGURATION OF THEO. ROOSEVELT—HIS SECOND TERM

President Theodore Roosevelt in his second administration (1905-1909) continued his fight against discriminating railroad rates and trusts, although permitting United States Steel Co. to acquire the Tennessee Iron and Coal Co. to avert further distress in the panic year 1907. He won the pure food law legislation; fostered preservation, development and reclamation of national resources.

President Roosevelt brought about the second Hague Peace Conference (1904), mediated the Russo-Japanese Treaty (1905), the Franco-German Settlement over Morocco (1906), extended the Monroe Doctrine by assuming financial and political control over some of the South American Republics, The Root-Takahira agreement (1908) pledged Japan and U. S. to 'Open Door' policy in China and status quo in Pacific and Orient. President Roosevelt's efforts toward world peace won him the Nobel prize. (U. S. History)

CONSTITUTION OF COMPOUNDS—GRAPHIC FORMULAE

Kekule and Couper advanced the theory (1858) that carbon atoms in organic compounds have valence 4 and may be attached to other carbon atoms. Kekule represented valence by dashes—valence - bonds — and showed constitution of organic compounds by structural or graphic formulae.

Above: Structural formulae of lower methane series. Butane and isobutane molecules contain same atoms in different arrangements; thus they are different materials although having the same empirical formulae. Such compounds are isomers. (Chemistry)

COLONIAL ASPIRATION OF EUROPEAN POWERS IN MOROCCO—CONFERENCE OF ALGECIRAS —EUROPEAN BALANCE

Morocco, the ancient Roman Province Mauretania, was common aim of European expansion. France, in accord with Great Britain and Spain, wished to seize the power over Morocco, b[illegible] was prevented by German Emperor William II, who unexpectedly visited Tangier (1905) and announced himself ready to protect the independency of the sultanate. A conference was called at Algeciras (1906) in which U. S. also participated. Though the integrity of the sultanate was established, France was authorized to keep order in Morocco. Above: Moroccans riding to conference.

German interests purchased [illegible]ssions from the sultan, the protection of which brought complications with France (1911). War was averted by the Franco-German Accord, in which France ceded an area of 250,000 sq. kilometers in French Congo to Germany as compensation for her interests in Morocco, over which the French protectorate was acknowledged. This diplomatic defeat of Germany was a contributory cause of the World War.

The balance of European powers showed the Triple Alliance (Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy) against the Triple Entente (France, Russia, Great Britain). The British entered this (1907), to counteract the German expansion into the East. (World History)

HOW THEY BROUGHT THE GOOD NEWS FROM GHENT TO AIX

..."Then I cast loose my buffcoat, each holster let fall,
"Shook off both my jack boots, let go belt and all,
"Stood up in the stirrup, leaned, patted his ear,
"Called my Roland his pet name, my horse without peer;
"Clapped my hands, laughed and sang, any noise, bad or good,

FROM TORCH TO KEROSENE LIGHT—6,000 YEARS

Burning wood was probably the first source of artificial light of the caveman; then came the pitch knot, oil lamp, candle, kerosene lamp. After 1875, gas came into general use, greatly improved by a mantle, superseded by the practical electric incandescent vacuum lamp with carbon-filament of Edison. This gave place to the tungsten-filament lamp and lately to those filled with argon.

TUBERCULOSIS—"THE WHITE PLAGUE"—LIGHT TREATMENT

Tuberculosis (tbc)—though recently checked by science—is still responsible for 8% of all deaths in this country and 30% of those between 15 and 60 years. There are two types, human and bovine. Both may invade any part of the body, mostly the lungs (70%), alimentary canal, glands, bones, joints. Infection may occur through skin, alimentary canal, respiratory organs, from milk, polluted water, transmission by flies, etc. Everything that reduces vitality, as unsanitary living conditions, poor food, overwork, worry, excesses, makes conditions favorable for the bacillus to develop tuberculosis. Cleanliness, good food, air, rest, besides plenty of sunshine, are the best means to check the white plague.

Just Blain Bill

There are still some sensible men in our Legislature. And here are some bills they refused to okay at the last session:

Bill permitting elderly ladies to go around the world on elapsed street car transfers.

Bill suggesting that lightning bugs have tail lights on both ends.

And, finally, but not more reasonable, bill to abolish the smoke nuisance by making the workmen take it home in paper bags.

The People Demand It

New York State May Take the Lead in the Abolition of Oxcart Government.

If Gov. Lehman grants the request of the New York City Charter Revision Commission, he will soon call an extraordinary session of the New York Legislature to act on constitutional amendments to permit the consolidation and elimination of county offices in Greater New York and the modernizing of county and local government throughout the state.

This would give to the Empire State of the Union the leadership in a national movement that has sprung directly from the people.

This movement cuts athwart party and regional lines. It is one of the first fruits of a rapidly spreading popular revolt against the obsolete system of county and local government which has come down from the days of the oxcart.

Under this "oxcart" system, the taxes of the people are squandered to support thousands of political parasites, whose offices are as useless today as is the oxcart in this automobile age.

Under this "oxcart" system, the people find themselves, state after state, taxed to the breaking point to support a horde of politicians while vital governmental services are denied adequate appropriations.

If New York and the other states of the Union will modernize their outworn systems of county and local government, the people can then afford to pay the taxes required to maintain the public schools they need, to provide the state police they need, and to apply the additional safeguards they need to protect the public health.

In most states the simplification of county and local government units requires a constitutional amendment. But even in these states the initial action in this direction must come from the Governor and the Legislature.

There ought to be in every state constitution a specific authorization for the Legislature to consolidate counties and other local units.

The approval of such an amendment by the Legislature of the state of New York would provide a tremendous impetus to other states to do likewise.

Modernizing county and local governments by consolidation and reorganization is absolutely essential, as Gov. Lehman pointed out in his legislative message of last January, if the people are to have the protection of a well-organized state government.

"Much more than one-half of the total money collected by the state," he said, "is turned over to local governments for expenditure either as state aid or as unrestricted grants through the sharing of taxes with local governments."

And the wise Governor, North, East, South or West, with the common sense to comprehend this fact and the course to follow where it leads, will go far and will take the people with him.

A Coal Rate Victory

The Decision in the Ohio Case Will Help Pittsburgh Operators.

It costs a Pittsburgh coal operator $1.46 to ship a ton of lake cargo coal 166 miles to Cleveland, or at the rate of 8.8 mills a ton-mile.

A Harlan County (Ky.) operator, 516 miles from Cleveland, can ship a ton of coal there for $1.81, or at the rate of 3.5 mills a ton-mile—less than half of what we have to pay.

Hence it is encouraging to find the United States Supreme Court blocking another attempt to discriminate against us.

The Ohio Utilities Commission reduced the rate for coal shipments within the state to a level at which it cost 39 cents a ton less to ship coal from an Ohio mine to Cleveland than it cost to ship it from Pittsburgh to the same point. If the 39-cent differential had been sustained, Pittsburgh, it is estimated, would have lost a market for a million tons of coal a year.

Fortunately for us, the Supreme Court has found that the Ohio Utilities Commission exceeded its authority, and the old differential of 10 cents has been ordered restored.

If the 35-cent differential enjoyed by the Southern West Virginia and Kentucky operators were to be widened to a reasonable figure, Pittsburgh would be able to profit from its proximity to the great consuming centers—an advantage that has been taken away from us by artificial and unjustified manipulation of freight rates in favor of our competitors.

Early Decision Desirable

Delay in Supreme Court Ruling May Cause Loss of Public Works Fund.

Public Works Administrator Ickes has promised to atone for neglecting Allegheny County in the distribution of the three billion, three hundred millions of dollars that Congress appropriated for public works.

The promise is conditional, however. If we are to receive a federal grant for the proposed county bridges, tunnels, highways and other projects, it is necessary, first, that Congress make an additional appropriation, and, second, that the Pennsylvania Supreme Court uphold the authority of the Allegheny County Authority, the corporation formed to administer the fund.

The County Commissioners are reasonably confident that both federal government aid will be forthcoming if the Supreme Court decision is favorable. They fear, however, that the decision may not be handed down until after Congress has adjourned, and that the delay may cost the county the federal appropriation that it so badly needs.

It is earnestly to be desired, therefore, that the Supreme Court will take no more time than is necessary in reaching and promulgating its decision.

CALIFORNIA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

SAN DIAGO, May 31.—I wondered, motoring into this thoroughly sun-kissed Eden, dreaming so beautifully through long, golden days, if it appreciated the exploitation in Max Miller's "I Cover the Water Front," locale of his yarns. In Paris there would be a Place Max Miller. San Diego has little metropolitan garnish.

Rather a look of fierce residential respectability softened by the most even climate in America. One is engulfed immediately in a freely imparted sense of soothing quiet. It is a lowered reality of mid-Victorian dreams to which I hope Fate billets me, comes time to cover my typewriter. At least a few months each year.

Every street is awash with sunlight and every lawn a blaze of flowers. Humanity is not scurrying like frightened ants. People have an honest languor that comes only with content. When there is work to do, they do it without fuss. Each day has an individual tranquility, spiritual stimulation.

The high state of civic consciousness is expressed in the beauty of its parks, pin-neat highways and suddenly glimpsed vistas greeting every turn. In the noonday shimmer it seems a great opaque bubble that might burst with the evening clang of church bells.

* * *

San Diego is not its economic best with the fleet away. But it is too highly geared to suffer collapse at this evacuation. It is merely not as lively, especially at night, as when sailors are ashore.

* * *

Agua Caliente, in old Mexico, is now directed by Joe Schenck, exhusband of Norma Talmadge. A flashy cul-de-sac surrounded by a fierce black scowl of bald and barbaric hills. We lunched in the light-drenched patio of the gambling casino where a Mexican senorita, a sort of Sophie Tucker version of Gus Edwards' Armita, arriving on a donkey, fandangoed to castanets and music of a string orchestra. The casino is busiest week ends when the movie crowds fly over the border to make merry. Plenty of the gougey well-barbered New York gamblers about, along with touts one sees at Belmont, Havre de Grace or wherever horses run. The inevitable gleaners among wastrels, picking up crumbs.

* * *

Scotch inhibitions stiffen at any sort of gambling. But when in Rome—. Anyway I toyed with a $10 stack at the small stake table for pikers, watching it fritter away and feeling the customary dunce. Chasing false rainbows is not my metier. For a day or so afterward I am seized by a penurious pout. Ten dollars would buy a couple of dandy ash-gray shirts. I like to acquire shirts instead of losing them.

* * *

Old Tia Juana has shaved its prices and, due likely to the you-know, is getting the big play. Its open-front saloons, cheap gambling holes and honky-tonks are going great guns. Vice has the old Barbary Coast open-handedness. One steps to the bar for a fiery vino and a sinuous senorita is tugging at an elbow sleeve with suggestions for caper. Back of the main street are crib-like hovels, leprous spots on the tierras templadas. The ladies of Tia Juana are neither young in years nor wickedness. They are the same wild creatures who trail the bandit armies, hardbitten frowzies with morals of the minx.

We intended to bivouac at beautiful Coronado Beach for the night and be lulled to slumber by the surf's gentle pounding. But the moonlight was superb for motoring and a toss of the coin sent us on. Until one has seen clumps of bougianvillea spangling the green wimpled valleys in a sheen of moonbeams one has missed nature's most exquisite stagecraft. So until 3 a. m., with space as a living presence, I built my fanciful hacienda, half hidden in myriads of nodding purple flowers. Doting upon a future dotage, as it were. So tranquil indeed that once or twice I almost forgave the son of a muleteer who gypped me out of my ten bucks across the gaming tables. Almost, but not quite.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Why Work for a Living?

* * *

Of course, most women DO work for a living before marriage and sometimes after marriage. But burying herself in a business office is not always the modern gal's idea of making a living. She has lots of new-fangled ways up her sleeve.

Take "modeling," for instance. What could be sweeter or more exciting than dolling up in all the latest and loveliest clothes and parading around a smart shoppe before the admiring eyes of its fashionable patrons? This is a society debutante's notion of "going to work." Next to going on the screen and becoming a Jean Harlow or joining the Follies beauties, it appeals most to the peacock spirit in a woman.

* * *

But a more recently popular way of both getting the limelight and making a living is by means of the law-suit. Some women have as many as two or three law-suits on hand at the same time, and dress to go to court every morning, as regularly as other dress to go to the office.

* * *

There is, first of all, the "heart-balm" suit. Almost anything can break a woman's heart, if it happens to be that kind. It was a man has dared to sign his name to a few postcards without wedding-ring intentions; if he has called her his "baby-doll" after the third drink; if he has driven her about in his car and bought her a ham sandwish but balks at being her meal-ticket for life, he had better watch out! Male juries award heart-balm according to ankles, eyes, dimples and "IT-power," rather than according to evidence. No wonder so many nice men are woman-shy.

* * *

Another favorite way of "making a living" is by quick divorce and high-powered alimony. An attractive and enterprising young woman with a good business head can marry and divorce several millionaires in succession, collecting a snug little fortune with each new deal. It gets to be a positive habit, after awhile; and it's a much more exciting and colorful life than pounding a typewriter all day.

* * *

A third business enterprise in high favor with some girls is the suit for "alienation of affections." All a gal has to do in order to make this profitable is to persuade a callow youth with rich parents to sign on the dotted line. Then papa has to pay to keep the family name out of the papers.

But as a steady, day-in-and-day-out money-making proposition, there is nothing like the old, reliable "damage suit." A woman can be "damaged" in so many ways. By tripping over a crack in the sidewalk, by getting shaken up in a taxicab, by turning her ankle on a defective stairway, by getting the wrong dye on her hair, by getting herself talked about—oh, there just isn't any limit to the damage-suit business!

* * *

Glance over your newspaper, any morning, and you will find the news, these days, about equally divided between robberies and law-suits. GETTING a living is so much more popular than working for it. And SO much less monotonous!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

A Closed Room in Life

That feeling which sweeps over you lately—that it's no use going on; that nothing really matters; nothing's worth while—

You can't explain it. You can't make people understand why you feel that way. Perhaps you don't really understand it yourself.

It isn't that life has become unusually hard. You've been through much harder times than these times when you've been utterly heartbroken, yet tney didn't get you entirely down. In spite of the tears and terror, you were still interested in life, still eager to go on. And you felt that you could go on.

But lately, it's different. Lately you've had spells when you've been absolutely SUNK. Why? You don't know. You can't tell. If you try to tell people about it they say:

"For heaven's sake, snap out of it! What have YOU got to worry about? Maybe you haven't much money, but who has? And you're healthy. You've got a nice family . . . people who love you . . . friends. Then why all the grief? Look at the poor devils who haven't got a thing! They're the ones who have a right to hollar. But you—you're sitting pretty."

They're right. You know they're right. Every word they say is true. Compared with millions of unfortunates, you're lucky. And you should be happy and grateful about it—and filled with ambition.

BUT YOU'RE NOT. You despise yourself because you're not. You call yourself every sort of name. You "count your blessings." No go! You still feel that everything's blotto. So there's nothing to be done about it; you've just got to stand it. And you can't even expect sympathy, for it's all your own fault. You've made a mess of life. Other people aren't like that. They know how to manage. They never fade out like this.

BUT YOU'RE WRONG. Your's ISN'T an exceptional experience. It comes to everyone.

In that hard, wise, pitiful story, "JAMES SHORE'S DAUGHTER," Stephen Vincent Benet has told of another human being who also felt that "everything was over." Indeed, that feeling of futility lay like a disease over Gareth Grant's whole life. And so he describes that black mood which you have felt was yours alone:

"I dined by myself at a speakeasy and, when it grew late, I still sat there. I was not drunk, but I did not wish to move. I did not wish to do anything. It seemed to me as if, after all the struggle and passion, I had come to a closed room in life."

"A CLOSED ROOM IN LIFE!" Sooner or later, we all come to it. Not once, but again and again, at inevitable intervals.

For that closed room is not an accident, nor is it a sign of personal sickness or failure. IT IS A NATURAL PHASE OF ALL HEALTHY LIVING.

Just as fields must lie fallow, so must lives. It is not possible for life to proceed at a sustained pitch of emotion. We cannot always sting with excitement or eagerness, flame with delight, or even ache with despair. There are times when we must be empty—when life must be a closed room.

Then what?

Why, then—keep cool! Don't throw up your hands and decide that everything's over. Don't go around spreading bitterness and gloom. Nothing's wrong. Life hasn't stopped. You haven't failed. This is merely a part of life's ryhthm. The resting winter that comes before the quickening spring. The trough that lies between all wave crests.

EVEN THOUGH FOR A WHILE YOU CANNOT FEEL IT, YOU ARE ACTUALLY LIVING AS MUCH NOW AS IN LIFE'S WILDEST HOUR—PERHAPS FAR MORE!

The room is not really closed. It is only quiet. Stand steady. Go on, making the gestures. AND PRESENTLY YOU WILL FIND AN OPENING DOOR.

Englishmen Are Now Asking if Democracy, Threatened by Fascism and Communism, Can Survive

THE "best-dressed man in Europe," Capt. Anthony Eden, engineers the Chaco arms embargo at Geneva, and his star rises another degree in the firmament of British politics. At 36 this trim, black-moustached diplomat holds the rank of Lord Privy Seal in the MacDonald government and, more and more, seems headed for the office of foreign secretary.

From the Strand to Limehouse they will tell you that there's the making of another Edward Grey or another Balfour in Capt. Anthony, while on the boulevards of Paris they will tell you that the cut of his trousers is not equalled anywhere. Eden was in the war at the age of 17, where he won his title of captain and the Military Cross with the King's Royal Rifles. He saw plenty of service in the East where he spent his spare time studying Oriental languages. He entered Oxford in 1919, specializing there in those tongues.

His next stop was Downing street as private secretary to Sir Austen Chamberlain, then foreign secretary. At the British embassy in Paris, he was reported to have had something to do with the French stand on the war debt payments to the United States. Lately his job has been to try and keep Europe at peace, and for the past year he has been going the rounds of the capitals of Europe seeking a solution of the armament question. For all his impeccability of dress, Capt. Eden is something much more than a tailor's dummy.

English-Speaking Nations Different

THE attractive young Englishman is, in fact, putting in shrewd licks toward the survival of democracy, threatened as it is by Fascism on the one side and by Communism on the other. A great many thoughtful Englishmen are asking themselves, as men ask themselves in this and other countries, the no longer astonishing question: "Can Democracy Survive?"

Only recently, in an arresting article in the Contemporary Review of London, this very question was put by the Rt. Hon. Sir Herbert Samuel, one of the most distinguished of British statesmen. Before the Great War, Sir Herbert reminded us, government in civilized countries appeared to be standardized. The modern state, with few exceptions, was ruled by a parliament, elected by the people.

The privileges of the citizen, hard won through violent or peaceful revolution, over the turn of centuries, included individual liberty, freedom of the press, exemption from arrest or trial except under due process of law. Then the blight fell over a large part of the world.

Came the cataclysm in Russia, when both constitutional and personal liberties were ruthlessly destroyed. In various countries dictators on horseback struck down the very last vestiges of democracy or even liberal monarchy. Italy, Poland, Turkey, Germany all followed that course. And even Great Britain and the United States felt the shock of change as their peoples generally grew restive under the passivity of representative assemblies, and under the well nigh desperate urge to achieve action, if only for the sake of breaking through static inaction.

Sir Herbert points out, however, that in both Britain and the United States the swing to the right was different than in other countries. What the British did and what the Americans did in conferring extraordinary powers upon their rulers was done voluntarily and without violence or intimidation. The new powers were conferred by the people, not seized by the military or by dictators. And he points out, also, that very large authorities conferred upon the British Parliament and upon the American President have been a vindication, not an abandonment of democracy.

And he reminds us that in at least seven important countries of Europe—France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden—there has been no abandonment of free government in favor either of Communism or of roughshod Fascism. Looking still farther afield, Sir Herbert finds the democratic tradition and method still strong in the dominions of the British Commonwealth and concludes, from the whole picture, that democracy is by no means done for.

The question with him is not whether democratic government can or will survive, but whether it should survive.

"If a nation feels that it does not possess the qualifications which work toward success in a democracy," Sir Herbert reasons, "then it would do well to admit the fact frankly and honestly, without fooling itself, and be willing to accept some more authoritative form of government. Let those who feel incompetent to govern themselves accept the rule of dictators, but they should not assume that they have hit upon a nobler political philosophy than is offered by democracy. . . ."

Peace Held The Supreme Need

THE supreme need of the world, this Englishman earnestly urges, is peace among the nations. Dictators bring about wars, and all history is a record of that fact from Caesar down to Bismarck. The danger spots of the world today are not found in the countries which cling firmly to a democratic form of government, but in those countries which, for one reason or another, place themselves under autocratic rule.

Extend the number of states under dictatorship and you multiply the chances of war. He doubts if any powers are at work to sweep mankind this way so that, powers and forces against which human effort is futile are in vain. We ourselves, the citizens of every country, constitute the spirit of the age. Everywhere it is up to the people. If they conclude in some countries that democracy is a failure, then that will turn, however briefly, to one man domination.

If, on the other hand, they hold to faith in the form of government which experience proves offers the best in life to the greatest number, and is only betrayed by stupidity and greed, then democracy will go on and gain strength and there is a real chance for world peace and greatly increased human happiness.

Safety Responsibility Rests With State

By James T. Williams, Jr.

GOV. Ely, of Massachusetts, gave every Governor in the United States something to think about when he said to the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety at its recent meeting in the Federal city:

"Approximately 35,000 lives are taken annually in the United states because of the carelessness of predestrians or drivers of automobiles.

"When we estimate the deaths at 35,000, no account is taken of the number of persons injured in the United States.

"The records would indicate that during 1933 a million persons receievd bodily injury, many of them undoubtly permanently disabled and made cripples or hopeless invalids. It is reasonably safe to say that 80,000 fall within this classification."

The blame for this slaughter of men, women and children on the streets and highways, north, east, south and west, must be charged to the several states. This is so, as the Governor of Massachusetts pointed out, because "the state is responsible for the safety and welfare of its citizens."

Leadership Rests With Governor

THE remedy, therefore, for this disgraceful condition of affairs rests with each state. And the leadership in finding and applying the remedy belongs first of all to the Governor. Of all the officials of the state, he alone represents the people in their corporate capacity as a state. They have a right to look to him to take the lead in whatever administrative or legislation steps are necessary to stop this annual slaughter of human beings and this destruction of property which is costing the American people one thousand million dollars every year.

Until there is in every state in the Union a state constabulary, organized, trained, maintained and conmanded by the state, there can be no effective co-operation between the several states in the enforcement of uniform traffic laws and ordinances along the streets and highways of the United States.

Until there is a state constabulary in every state in the Union of sufficient strength and equipmen to police the state, there can be no effective co-operation between the federal government and the governments of the several states in the protection of the law-abiding people of this country against the kidnapers, murderers, blackmailers, racketeers and the other criminals of gangdom.

In state after state today the authority of the states has been delegated to so many county and local units that the state is no longer able to discharge its responsibility as the protector of its own citizens either against the crimes of gangdom or against accidents along the streets and highways. It is too much to expect the federal government to provide federal police to do the work that only a well organized state police can and should do.

Legal Machinery Is Modernized

CONGRESS has gone a long way at this session toward modernizing the machinery of the law for the apprehension and punishment of persons guilty of federal crimes and for the cooperation of the federal government with the governments of the several states in protecting the citizens against the crimes and depredations of the lawless.

President Roosevelt is getting ready to reorganize, modernize and expand the police forces of the federal government in order that there may be no lack of expert personnel to enforce old and new laws in dealing with crimes that come within the federal jurisdiction.

But if the leadership of the federal government in this nation-wide warfare against crime is to be effective, the government of the several states must do their part. And the statistics cited by the Governor of Massachusetts in regard to the annual slaughter along the streets and highways prove that the states are not even doing their part to protect their citizens against automobile accidents, much less against murderers, kidnapers, blackmailers, racketeers and other major criminals.

The states must do their part by maintaining state police forces under the command of the governors, if the leadership of the federal government in a nation-wide crime and the slaughter on our streets and highways is to eradicate.
